DEMOCRATS PLEDGE AID TO HOOVER

EXPERTS WORK ON DRAFT OF RUM FORMULA

Wickersham Board Near End of Its Labors on Liquor Report.

DATE OF SUBMISSION TO HOOVER NOT SET

Necessity for Minority Version May Yet Be Eliminated.

DATA FROM ENTIRE WORLD SCRUTINIZED

Chairman Returns Today to Capital and Sessions Will Be Uninterrupted.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission had arrived yesterday at a definite formula for writing its prohibition report, and with nearly a dozen definite recommendations before it, found the end of its task at least in sight.

Virtually every member of the commission has prepared in written form just what he, or she, thinks should be done about the dry law. With these views before the group, and with an immense volume of impartial prohibition material available as background—including facts and figures on the Swedish and Canadian liquor control systems—members are now joining the parts into a definite whole.

Actual writing of the final formal report to President Hoover and to Congress was described at commission headquarters yesterday as not yet begun. It was assured, however, that progress has been made in bringing the eleven minds into at least partial unanimity on some points, but with a final showdown still in the offing.

Report Date Uncertain.

Chairman Wickersham said, just before leaving for Wilmington, Del., late yesterday afternoon that he could not forecast the date when the report can be laid upon President Hoover's desk. At the beginning of the commission's dry law deliberations weeks ago he said that he hoped for a report to Congress "early in December." The next session opens only three weeks hence.

One commission member has said, half jocularly, that the report may consist of eleven different reports, but from other sources has come the statement that the entire group may agree upon one platform and not even a majority and minority report be made necessary.

The group had no witnesses before it yesterday, and it plans to take no new testimony today. Other witnesses will appear from time to time, however.

Woodcock May Appear.

Although Prohibition director Amos W. W. Woodcock, who has been hurriedly recalled to the Capital from San Francisco, has not been definitely scheduled to appear before the law enforcement group, one member indicated yesterday that it was entirely possible he might appear. Mr. Woodcock expects to reach Washington November 13.

As the group gathered yesterday morning it had before it fresh views and figures on the Swedish, or Bratt, system of liquor control, presented personally by John M. Morehead, American Minister to Sweden. These figures supplemented previous data which the commission has gathered not only upon it and the Canadian system, but upon virtually every method of controlling liquor consumption throughout the world.

Chairman Wickersham plans to return to Washington in time to sit with the commission today, and sessions will not be interrupted. Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, detained by an Ohio case in which he is counsel, is the only absent member.

Coast Guard Boat Takes Distressed Ship in Tow

Boston, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard patrol boat Agassiz tonight took in tow the Gloucester schooner Raymonde 20 miles off the Boston Lightship after the schooner had become disabled and appealed for aid.

The Raymonde carries a crew of about twelve.

Bank Robbed by Thugs Who Tied Man to Tree

Detroit, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Berkley State Bank in the suburb of Berkley was robbed of nearly $2,000 today by two men, who kidnaped the assistant cashier, Maurice G Cole, forced him to open the vault and then left him tied to a tree in Royal Oak.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

A few judges in different localities have recently come under suspicion.

The first requisite of every unit of government is to furnish order and security. That means, in time of peace, protection from crimes against the person and property. The next requirement is the enforcement of legal obligations. To furnish a process for redress when these rights have been invaded, courts have been established. It is their duty to punish crime and decide causes between individuals. If the courts break down, the citizen has little remedy for public or private grievances.

Because of these indispensable public duties, it is necessary for the courts to be kept impartial, detached and pure. Any failure in this respect is a blow at the very vitals of our Government. The fundamentals of security and justice would both be gone. The result would be virtually unchecked crime and anarchy.

The general character of our bench is very high. It must be kept so. Any charges formally and seriously made of improper conduct by judges must be thoroughly investigated and all guilt actively prosecuted, that our courts be purged of every suspicion. A corrupt judge is one of the worst enemies of the republic.

E. B. M'LEAN SUED FOR MAINTENANCE

ESTATE IS MADE PARTY

Edward Beale McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for maintenance filed by his wife, Mrs. Evalyn Lucille Walsh McLean.

Mrs. McLean alleges nonsupport and in addition to seeking maintenance, asks the court to restrain her husband from receiving any money from the estate of his father, the late John R. McLean, and to restrain the American Security and Trust Co. and Mr. McLean, as trustees of the John R. McLean estate, from paying any income from the estate to him. Both requests for injunction are based on the provision that they are to be effective until proper provision has been made "for the maintenance" of Mrs. McLean and the children.

The court also is asked to restrain Mr. McLean from disposing of any of his property "to evade his duty to maintain his wife and minor children." In event he does, the wife also asks the court to sequester his property and apply the income to the benefit of herself and the children.

Immediately after the filing of the suit, Attorneys Frank J. Hogan, Nelson T. Hartson, Edmund L. Jones and A. A. Hoehling obtained an order from Justice William Hitz requiring Mr. McLean, on behalf of himself, and the trust company and Mr. McLean, as trustees of the John R. McLean estate, to show cause November 13 why they should not be restrained.

The McLeans were married in 1907 at Denver, Colo., and have three living children, all minors.

Mrs. McLean asserts that up until June, 1929, Mr. McLean lived with her and the children at Friendship, their home on Wisconsin avenue. At that time, she alleges, he left and took up separate residence at his home on H street northwest. Beginning July 1, 1929, and ending March 3, 1930, Mrs. McLean states, Mr. McLean paid her $7,500 a month. Since then he has paid her nothing except $7,500 on July 3, 1930, and $2,500 on September 8, last, she asserts.

Mrs. McLean states that except for what she has received from her husband she has been compelled to meet deficits incident to her maintenance and the upkeep of the children from her own fortune, and as-

MONTGOMERY G.O.P. MAY SEEK RECOUNT

Party Leaders Complain Proper Care Was Not Given Ballot Boxes.

COURT PETITION LOOMS

Action of Republican leaders last night in demanding that ballot boxes in Montgomery County be kept locked in the custody of the clerk of the Circuit Court indicated that a recount will be asked.

The election was so close that it was not definitely settled until early yesterday morning that the Democrats had won all county offices save one.

Walter W. Dawson (Republican) was elected a member of the House of Delegates. William Frank Ricketts (Democrat), who apparently had lost the county commissionership of the Fourth District to Frank H. Karn (Republican) was found to have won by 15 votes when the official canvass was completed.

Robert G. Hilton (Democrat) only had a majority of 100 over Thomas M. Anderson (Republican), in the contest for the State senatorship.

Walter W. Dawson, P. Barnard Welsh, Republican candidate for State's attorney; Paul Sleman, chairman of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County; F. C. Smith, Rockville attorney, and Thomas Anderson appeared before Judge Robert B. Peter, of the Circuit Court, late yesterday and complained that the 86 ballot boxes used in the election had been left in the hall of the courthouse basement. They asserted that the law required that these be kept under lock and key in the custody of the clerk of the court.

Judge Peter sent for the clerk of the court, Preston B. Ray, who was not in the courthouse at the time and Clayton Watkins, deputy clerk, who appeared before the court.

After a consultation with Mr. Ray, Mr. Watkins informed the court that the ballot boxes would be stored in the office of the clerk. The boxes were carried into a strong-room in the basement of the courthouse, which is entered through the clerk's office. The boxes were carefully checked to make sure that they had not been tampered with and that they were still locked.

Republican leaders last night refused to make known their plans. Lesser members of the party, however, were loud in their announce-

MAYORS ASKED TO AID JOBLESS BY COL. WOODS

Chairman of Employment Committee Makes Appeal by Radio.

LABOR HEADS PLEDGE TO HASTEN PROJECTS

GOALS ARE EXCEEDED IN COMMUNITY DRIVES

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Woods of the President's emergency committee for employment last night asked the heads of all the Nation's communities to join "a race against human suffering" by cooperating in relieving joblessness.

"Only by working together can this race be won," Col. Woods said in a radio talk separately over the Columbia and National Broadcasting System chains.

Col. Woods talked to the community leaders after expressing confidence yesterday that telephone conversations to every State in the Union had accomplished much toward securing complete cooperation. The committee chairman conferred with President Hoover and with labor and building trade leaders, and reported the latter would assist in speeding work.

Directing his speech to mayors of towns and cities, Col. Woods told his radio audience that "millions of our fellow citizens out of a job will have to depend upon the leadership of other millions for a solution of our joint problem.

Work of Communities Stressed.

"Victory depends on thousands of local communities planning and working toward the common goal," he continued, "on millions of people in these local communities."

Col. Woods said the committee created two weeks ago "is functioning with its Washington staff of experts in public works, industrial and human relations, and in the field."

Declaring facts "the essence of the situation," Col. Woods asked mayors, city managers and selectmen to inform the committee specifically how their cities are organized, or how they plan to organize to meet the unemployment situation, what industries are doing and what relief plans have been developed by municipal and private agencies.

Optimistic points in the situation reported yesterday to Col. Wods included "one of the most successful community chest campaigns in history." This was reported by Porter R. Lee, of the committee.

Chest Budgets Increased.

In 40 cities an average gain of 6.2 per cent over funds raised a year ago for normal budgets was made in campaigns just completed, Mr. Lee said. The goal for the drives was $12,458,251; the total reached in 1929 was $11,766,394.

A New England shoe corporation informed the committee that its fourteen factories will continue open with full wages to all employes, the chairman announced, and increased public works in Pennsylvania are lending aid to the workers there.

In a conference with labor and building trade leaders Col. Woods said he was prepared to look into public building programs, "so that we can see that everything that can is being undertaken.

"If there are public or semipublic programs that have been slowed up," he said, "we want to see why, and how they can be speeded up."

TRAIN BANDITS GET $60,000 IN DARING HOLDUP

SIX MASKED OUTLAWS CARRY MACHINE GUNS

Force Engine to Stop and Seize Pay Roll Funds; Flee in Auto.

SHOT WOUNDS NOONE; WIDE SEARCH BEGINS

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—With the dispatch of modern racketeering and some of the flare of the old West, a band of outlaws held up a Southern Pacific passenger train near Nobel today and escaped with loot estimated at $60,000 or more.

Passengers were not molested but were thrown into a panic when a transformer on an adjoining electric line blew out. Eyewitnesses agreed but one shot was fired by the six or seven armed and masked men. The escape was made in a stolen motor car.

The train was No. 36, which runs daily between Oakland and Tracy, Calif., leaving Oakland about 7 a. m. Authorities believed two men boarded the train at Berkeley as passengers.

Train Forced to Stop.

Near Nobel, 7 miles from here, an armed masked man, who had climbed across coaches and tender, jumped into the locomotive cab and in a thin, high, calm voice commanded the engineer and fireman to stop the engine.

R. E. Lemery, engineer, and S. E O'Brien, fireman, were forced to lie on the ground. A large sedan was waiting beside the track with other robbers in it.

Two machine guns were mounted on the car and each robber was armed with a rifle, except one who had a shotgun and the man who climbed into the cab with a pistol.

Take Pay Roll Funds.

Methodically the robbers entered the baggage car, held up John McClintock, baggageman, and took an undetermined number of bags of mail including approximately $55,000 consigned by the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco to the American Trust Company Branch at Pittsburgh to be used in cashing pay roll checks for the Columbia Steel Works Co.

The workers were lined up ready to receive their checks when news of the robbery came. Company officials held up the checks, tentatively.

The bandits fled in the sedan and the train pulled on to Stege, where authorities were notified.

Postal inspectors, Federal Reserve officers, sheriffs, deputies and Southern Pacific special police organized for a search of north central California. All roads were ordered blocked for miles around.

Passengers Not Robbed.

The sedan was stolen last night from an Oakland garage by two men who held up an attendant. The attendant gave police a good description of the men who were thought to have been members of the hold-up gang.

Passengers expected to be robbed. They got out their money and valuables and had them ready. But the robbers were after bigger game.

Miss Mabel Skaale, a commuter, said she believed there were six men

Mme. Jeritza Charges New Book Insults Her

Vienna, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Mme. Maria Jeritza, famous Austrian opera singer, today instituted legal proceedings charging defamation of character against the brilliant Austrian writer, Dr. Muller Guttenbrunn.

Dr. Guttenbrunn wrote a book entitled "Riff Raff," which the diva asserted referred to her. After the volume was published she obtained legal authority for confiscation.

The incident has created a great stir in Vienna.

Mme. Jeritza now is in New York with the Metropolitan Opera Company, hence the action was handled by her attorneys.

The book portrays a household constantly embroiled in sordid litigation and when the singer heard it was being prepared for publication it is understood she considered it might refer to her and her husband, Baron von Poppen. She obtained an injunction against the author while the book still was in galley proof and referred the matter to the censor, who condemned two passages which Dr. Guttenbrunn revised.

But by the time "Riff Raff" was published yesterday, Mme. Jeritza

PROMISE MADE AS G.O.O. LEADS IN HOUSE RACE

Seven Party Leaders Sign Statement Issued.

ECONOMIC RECOVERY AIM OF COOPERATION

Political Expediency Is Disavowed in Policy Exposition.

CONGRESS CONTROL NOT YET SETTLED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Seven Democratic chieftains, flushed with the party's first success in years, yesterday joined in a pledge to cooperate with the President in the restoration of business and took solemn vow that political expediency would not chart the party's course.

The statement, signed by the Senate and House Democratic leaders, Senator Robinson and Representative Garner, respectively; by the party's former presidential candidates, James M. Cox, John W. Davis and Alfred E. Smith; by Chairman John J. Raskob, of the national committee, and Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the executive committee, came coincidentally with President Hoover's first public utterance on the outcome of Tuesday's balloting. It was simply:

"The job for the country to concentrate on now is further measures of cooperation in economic recovery."

No Obstructive Tactics.

The Democratic party will not gloat over its success and attempt any obstructive tactics such as the holding up of appropriations to force an extra session, the joint statement said.

"The Democratic party faces its duty with a firm determination to permit no thought of political advantage to swerve it from the course that is best for the country," the statement read.

"It has neither the time nor the desire to punish anybody or to exalt itself.

"To the extent of its ability it will steer the legislation of the Nation in a straight line toward the goal of prosperity, not permit itself to be diverted either by political expediency or a desire to show that it now dominates the enacting branch of the Government.

Full Cooperation Pledged.

"To this end the Seventy-second Congress will not be an obstructive body. It will not seek to embarrass the President of the United States, but will be glad to cooperate with him and with the members of the op-

Republicans Control House by One Ballot

(Associated Press.)

The reelection of Richard Yates as representative at large from Illinois brought the Republican total, barring upsets caused by recounts and contests, to 218, the exact figure necessary for a majority of the House of Representatives.

The Democratic total was 216, with one Farmer-Labor completing the membership of 435.

The final party alignment in the Senate was:

Democrats	47

BOTH PARTIES MAKE PLANS FOR RECOUNT

VESTAL'S VICTORY CITED

(Associated Press.)

A large crop of probable recounts appeared to be springing up yesterday as political experts of both parties assembled details of the districts where losses were by narrow margins.

At the headquarters of the Democratic congressional campaign committee the following list of districts in which Republicans won by narrow pluralities and in which recounts might be demanded was compiled:

Possibly Tenth, Minnesota—Godfrey G. Goodwin, Republican; Erling Swenson, Farmer-Labor.

Eighth, Indiana—Albert H. Vestal, Republican; Claude C. Ball, Democrat.

Ninth, Indiana — Fred S. Purnell, Republican; Harry L. Matlock, Democrat.

Republican leaders named the following close contests in which Democrats have thus far been named victors and in which Republicans probably will ask recounts:

Twenty-fourth Illinois—Claude V. Parsons, Democrat; James V. Heidinger, Republican.

Fourth, Connecticut — William L. Tierney, Democrat; Schuyler Merritt, Republican.

First, Oklahoma—Wesley E. Disney, Democrat; Charles O'Conpor, Republican.

"POP-GUN" CHANGES IN TARIFF PROSPECT

Democratic-Insurgent Group May Use Device for Gradual Cut.

IDEA IS NOT ORIGINAL

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Unless the Democratic high command objects, the Democrat-Insurgent Republican coalition in the Seventy-second Congress will pass a series of "pop-gun" tariff bills, it was predicted here yesterday.

To attempt a general revision of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, one of the Democratic leaders in the House says, not only would be futile, but would be dangerous, both from a political standpoint and an economic standpoint.

Hence the idea of the "pop-gun" bills. The Democrats would pick out certain rates in the Smoot-Hawley bill schedules—say on sugar, cement, leather and lumber—and then would introduce separate bills wiping out or reducing these rates.

The idea is not a new one. The term "pop-gun" bill was originated back in the first Cleveland administration by Representative William Springer, a Democrat from Illinois. He introduced a series of such bills then to revise the Kasson tariff act, and later he introduced another series to revise the McKinley act. That was in the Harrison administration, when the Democrats won control of the House.

In the Taft administration a number of "pop-gun" bills to revise the Payne-Aldrich bill were passed. There was one, for example, on wool and another on cotton goods.

President Taft vetoed the bills, which was just what the Democrats expected him to do, for there was no denying that their idea in introducing them was to harass the Executive and make political capital over his failure to approve the measures.

But now seven Democratic leaders come out with a statement in which they say that there is no thought of taking political advantage of President Hoover as a result of the Democratic triumph on Tuesday.

In the same statement, however, they denounce the Smoot-Hawley bill

Defeated for Congress, Man Fails Also in Alms Quest

Salvation Army at Staunton, Va., Feeds and Shelters Tattered Carney Rosser, Who Had Contended Against Tucker in Election.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 7.—Denied a seat in Congress by voters of the Tenth Virginia District in Tuesday's election, Carney Kely Rosser today sought admission to Staunton's alms house. And in this "campaign" he also met defeat—at least temporarily.

Tonight Rosser found food and shelter at Salvation Army headquarters while Staunton sought to determine whether he has any claim upon it for alms or whether he is a ward of Augusta County.

Rosser, little known in Tenth District, qualified as an independent Republican candidate and his name shared place on the official ballot along with that of Henry St. George Tucker, Democratic incumbent, who polled ten votes for every one cast for Rosser.

When he registered to vote here in 1925, Rosser gave his occupation as "furrier," but there are rumors that he is a law graduate and once served as prosecuting attorney in a North Carolina county, where are said to reside relatives, perhaps including a wife and children.

Welfare authorities are endeavoring to establish contact with relatives before the man, who has lived alone in this community for years, will be accepted a public ward. Rosser is about 56 years old, and when he applied for admission to the alms house today his clothing was tattered and his feet almost on the ground.

Orphanage Officer Found Guilty of Embezzlement

Former Treasurer's Five-Year Sentence Is Suspended Until February Pending Appeal by Defense. Verdict Accepted Calmly.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—James P. Jones, prominent business man, churchman and legislator, today was found guilty of embezzling $4,944.50 from the Virginia Methodist Orphanage and sentenced to serve five years in the State Penitentiary.

The verdict was reached by a hustings court jury after more than seven hours' deliberation. Judge John L. Ingram pronounced sentence but suspended it until February 2 to give defense counsel an opportunity to appeal to the State Supreme Court. Jones' lawyers announced an appeal would be taken.

The 56-year-old former treasurer of the orphanage, who has been known as a moral leader in the State Legislature, and who also has been treasurer of the Antisaloon League of Virginia, stood calmly as he heard sentence pronounced. Members of his family were with him in the courtroom.

Jones, who was treasurer of the orphanage from March 12, 1926, to June 17, 1930, was indicted on six charges of embezzlement and grand larceny involving orphanage funds totaling $27,970.40. Commonwealth's Attorney Satterfield said today no action would be taken on the remaining five indictments until a decision had been given by the supreme court.

...posite party in the House and Senate in every measure that conduces to the welfare of the country.

"There will be no holding up of necessary appropriations," the statement promised, "no rejection of fit appointees to important places merely because these appointments are made by a President of the opposite party."

Cynical political minds immediately pointed out that the anticipated clashes between the Democrats and the President would come on the question of what constituted good legislation or fit appointees, or proper policies, but nevertheless the statement was generally characterized as politically wise and most wholesome in the present economic state of the country.

Statement Refutes Rumors.

The promise not to hold up appropriations in the coming short session, however, was quite important, as it denies rumors that this is exactly what the Democrats would do with a view to forcing an extra session.

The statement was based on the fact that they will have control of both houses in the next Congress to all practical purposes.

However, Democratic headquarters here were still convinced that the Democrats would have such a majority in their own right in the House as to be able to organize that body. This, notwithstanding that the official counts in the Eighth Indiana and the Yates at-large district in Illinois gave victory to the Republican incumbents and advanced the Republican total to 218, just enough to organize the House regardless of what the Farmer-Laborite, Paul Kvale, might do.

Both Demanding Recounts.

But the final outcome will not be known for several days when the score or more recounts have been completed. Recounts are being demanded by both sides, and the standings of the two parties will quite likely change back and forth several times before the boxes are finally sealed.

Even then there will be a period of anxious, watchful waiting by the Democrats and Republicans and by their hundreds of Capitol patronage followers until the House convenes in December, 1931, to effect the reorganization. Every death or retirement in this 12 months period will have its bearing on the eventual line-up of the Seventy-second Congress, and to a lesser extent will bear on the complexion of the Senate.

So close, indeed, will be the relative strength of the two parties until the weeding out process, one way or the other, in 1932, that there may be organization overturns in mid-session after December, 1931. Just such a situation has never before existed.

RECOUNT LOOMS IN MONTGOMERY

ments that a recount was to be asked for. The Republican leaders were closeted for several hours last night in the office of Walter Dawson and are believed to have been preparing a petition to the court for a recount.

Procedure In Recount.

According to the usual procedure, the party which is dissatisfied with the result of the election files a petition with the circuit court, setting forth its reasons for asking a recount. The judge then orders the county supervisors of election to make another canvass of the ballots.

All ballots are scanned, including those which have been disqualified in the course of the original canvass. In the case of members of the State legislature, the final decision remains with the branch to which the candidate ran for.

The State senate decides on the qualifications of the State senator from the county. Either the original recount can be accepted by the senate or another recount ordered on the floor of the senate. The same procedure is followed by the house of delegates.

Complete Official Canvass.

County office candidates are qualified by the county supervisors of election, subject to revision by the circuit court.

In the present instance, the Democratic majority in the senate is 25, with the Republicans holding five seats, and the Democrats are equally strong in the house of delegates.

STATE RETURNS YATES

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Down-State Illinois has calmly played catch with the control of the United States House of Representatives and finally tossed it to the outstretched hands of Republicanism.

The fate of the two major parties in the next Congress hung in the balance. One more Republican meant a bare majority. One more Democrat, a tie between the parties, with the deciding vote going to a Farmer-Laborite.

Slowly but steadily the down-State counties sent in returns giving the Republicans added votes. Gradually a Democratic lead of 45,000 piled up by a Cook County (Chicago) landslide was cut down. A Republican lead began to take form. Today with only a few scattered precincts missing, the State had sent back to Congress its veteran Representative-at-Large, Richard Yates, a former governor.

Another seesaw contest apparently was settled in the Twenty-fourth Congressional District (down State) with the Democratic candidate, Claude V. Parsons, forging again to the lead with a recheck of final returns. Doubtless the Republican candidate, James V. Heidinger, will ask a recount.

Both candidates sought a long and short term—the latter to fill a vacancy.

Final tabulations showed Parsons a victor by 34 votes in the long term contest; the vote being: Parsons, 27,329; Heidinger, 27,295. Parsons had a majority of 183 in the short term battle.

The tabulation for congressman-at-Large in 7,065 out of 7,136 precincts gave: Yates, 969,032; Nesbit, 956,497. Fifty-two of the remaining precincts were in down-State regions where Yates was running consistently ahead.

The other Democratic candidate, William Dieterich, who will take the seat vacated by Ruth Hanna McCormick, had 1,039,333. Frank L. Smith, attempting a political comeback, after being elected to the Senate in 1926 and denied his seat, was fourth with 868,230.

Standard Yardstick Shrinks, Experts Say

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The standard imperial yard has shrunk two one-thousandths of an inch since it was cast in bronze 80 years ago, imperial conference experts believe. Therefore they want to inaugurate a system of standard measurements which will provide for more frequent comparisons of English and dominion units.

As an example of the benefits of standardization, the experts cited the manufacture of girders for a bridge under construction near Calcutta. Some were made in India and some in England, but every span, nut and rivet fitted exactly.

ROOSEVELT SPURNS WHITE HOUSE BOOM

Says He Will Devote Time to Governorship; Farley Plans Move for 1932.

VICTORY INSPIRES DRIVE

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Any presidential candidacy boom launched by admirers of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will lack the approval or cooperation of that official.

Prompted by a statement of James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic State committee, that a concerted move to nominate the governor for President in 1932 would have its inception within the next year, Gov. Roosevelt declared today he was giving no thought to anything other than his duty as governor.

The Farley statement, made in New York last night, was the latest of a series of similar views expressed by persons prominent in the organization of this and several other States.

Writes Out Answer.

Newspapermen calling on the governor this afternoon found him writing long hand on a pad, silent. After a few moments he looked up and said:

"Now ask me anything about 1932 and—here's the answer."

He tossed across his desk two sheets of paper containing the following statement:

"On several occasions during the past two years I have stated unequivocally that I am giving no consideration or thought or time to anything except the duties of the governorship.

Prompted by Triumph.

"I repeat that now, and to be perfectly clearly understood, you can add that this applies to any candidacy, national or otherwise, in 1932.

"Experience shows me that I was right two years ago in believing that I should give all my energies and thoughts to the governorship of New York and nothing else."

Talk of the governor's candidacy for President began almost simultaneously with his election two years ago to the governorship. The Governor ignored the unofficial remarks for some time until, pressed by newspapers, he declared himself in a manner similar to that of today. The 725,000 plurality rolled up for the governor on Tuesday revived the presidential discussion.

$10,000 Cargo Lost As Schooner Burns

Explosion Ocurs on Rose Mary as Vessel Heads for Key West.

Key West, Fla., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The schooner Rose Mary, en route from Mexico to Baltimore with dye producing timber, burned 10 miles off Key West today after an explosion of unreported origin.

Capt. George A. Eden, owner, and his wife, assistant navigator, were rescued with eight members of the crew by the U. S. S. Hannibal, Government survey vessel.

Capt. Eden said that the Rose Mary's $10,000 cargo would be a total loss. The vessel, he said, was putting into Key West for repairs to a pump when the explosion occurred. The crew of the Hannibal, a short distance away, reported seeing two bursts of smoke from the four-masted schooner and hastened to assist Capt. Eden and the crew, who sought safety in a lifeboat.

The Navy wrecking tug Warbler went to the assistance of the Rose Mary when the Hannibal brought back the crew to the Key West naval station, but reported that nothing could be done. Disptaches from Mobile said that the Rose Mary formerly was owned there and operated out of that port.

Hoover in Proclamation Urges Charity in Thanks

(Associated Press.)

Observance of Thanksgiving Day by aiding those people who are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control was urged upon the country yesterday by President Hoover.

In his annual proclamation designating November 27 as a day of national thanksgiving, the President suggested that "a proper celebration of the day should include that we make sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for our institutions and for the neighborly sentiment of our people."

"Our country has many causes for thanksgiving," Mr. Hoover said. "We have been blest with distinctive evidence of divine favor. As a Nation we have suffered far less than other people from the present world difficulties. We have been free from civil and industrial discord. In a large view we have made progress upon the enduring structure of our institutions. The arts and sciences that enrich our lives and enlarge our control of nature have made notable advances. Education has been further extended. We have made gains in the prevention of diseases and in the protection of childhood."

His full proclamation follows:

"By the President of the United States—a proclamation:

"Notwithstanding that our forefathers endured the hardships and privations of a primitive life, surrounded by dangers and solaced only with meager comforts, they nevertheless bequeathed to us a custom of devoting one day of every year to universal thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessing of life itself and the means to sustain it, for the sanctuary of home and the joys that pervade it, and for the mercies of his protection from accident, sickness or death.

"Our country has many causes for thanksgiving. We have been blest with distinctive evidence of Divine favor. As a nation we have suffered far less than other peoples from the present world difficulties. We have been free from civil and industrial discord. The outlook for peace between nations has been strengthened. In a large view we have made progress upon the enduring structure of our institutions. The arts and sciences that enrich our lives and enlarge our control of nature have made notable advances. Education has been further extended. We have made gains in the prevention of disease and in the protection of childhood.

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, November 27, 1930, as a national day of thanksgiving, and do enjoin the people of the United States so to observe it, calling upon them to remember that many of our people are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control, and suggesting that a proper celebration of the day should include that we make sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for our institutions and for the neighborly sentiments of our people.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the United States.

"Done at the City of Washington, this 8th day of November, in the year our Lord 1930, and of the independence of the United States of America, the 155th.

"HERBERT HOOVER.

"By the President:
"HENRY L. STIMSON,
"Secretary of State."

BROOKHART TENDERS VOTE TO DEMOCRATS

Iowa Republican Predicates Offer of Organization Aid on Program.

WANTS MELLON OUSTED

(Associated Press.)

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, said yesterday that he would support the Democratic organization of the new Senate if that party would sponsor a legislative program which he considers satisfactory.

He said if the election just held was to amount to anything, Democrats and progressives should demand the resignation of Secretary Mellon and of Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Would Vote With Democrats.

"If the Democratic victories do not mean twee-deedle-dum," Mr. Brookhart said, "I, for one, will not let organization of the Senate stand in their way and will gladly give them the organization to get results.

"I will not do this as a political move, but will gladly do it to correct the evils of Mellonism which have brought us to our present conditions."

The Iowa senator said he thought that Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, took his attitude, and that other progressives felt the same way. He added that the Democratic program must "mean something" to get his support and must not merely be a continuation of present policies.

Urges Extra Session.

An extra session of Congress was advocated by Mr. Brookhart unless the export debenture plan, designed to aid agriculture, and some method of relieving unemployment are enacted at the coming short session.

He said that he would support at the coming session the Norris constitutional amendment to eliminate "lame duck" sessions of Congress and bills by Senators Caraway and Glass, Democrats, to place antigambling restrictions on grain and stock exchanges.

Woodring's Lead Is Cut To 132 Votes in Kansas

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The lead of Harry Woodring, Democrat, over Frank (Chief) Haucke, Republican, in the race for Governor of Kansas, diminished to 132 votes tonight in tabulations of semiofficial returns from 85 counties and unofficial returns from the other 20 counties.

The vote — Woodring, 215,340; Haucke, 215,208; John R. Brinkley (Independent), 181,216.

Later the project will be enlarged to include other boroughs.

NEW ELECTION LAWS CONSIDERED BY NYE

HEFLIN WANTS INQUIRY

(Associated Press.)

Tuesday's elections solved some of the problems of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee, among them Ruth Hanna McCormick, but its chairman, Senator Nye, said yesterday he had seen enough to convince him that more stringent laws governing voting were needed.

In this connection he mentioned Memphis, Tenn., as the "Philadelphia of the South." He said the Democrats there had a machine, perfect in its mechanism, and that the Republicans apparently existed largely as a patronage organization. Senator Nye added voting in Memphis was apparently "by custom" and that evidence was found in many instances of an utter disregard of election laws.

He said he might propose legislation at the next session to check expenditures and eliminate corruption and added that a constitutional amendment for this purpose might be necessary.

The committee still has a number of odds and ends to be cleaned up and several hearings are scheduled. Senator Heflin, of Alabama, has an engagement with Senator Nye today to refterate his request for an investigation into the Alabama election. He ran as an independent Democrat and was beaten by John H. Bankhead, Democrat. Senator Heflin immediately charged "fraud and corruption."

Senator Nye said from present indications there would be no serious attempt to bar any senator-elect because of election expenditures or irregularities. He said he personally felt there was no reason to oppose the seating of James J. Davis, senator-elect from Pennsylvania. He added that the committee would consider the Pennsylvania contest and the New Jersey election where Dwight W. Morrow won, sometime after November 20.

Prior to that time the committee will go into Illinois, Colorado and Nebraska. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who told the committee that she spent more than a quarter of a million dollars in the Illinois primary, and afterward attacked committee methods was badly beaten by James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat. Senator Nye refused to comment on the Illinois result.

J. Barrett.

Clomax was charged with 25 cases of housebreaking, 4 cases of attempted housebreaking, 3 cases of unauthorized use of automobiles and 1 case of petit larceny. Charges against Weldon included fifteen of housebreaking, sixteen of unauthorized use of automobiles and one of petit larceny.

Action DueMonday On Kindergartens

Carusi Anounces Special Meeting of Board to Setlte Question.

A special meeting of the Board of Education to take final action on the kindergarten situation will be held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Franklin School Building, it was announced late yesterday afternoon by Charles F. Carusi, president of the board.

Prior to this meeting the board will meet in executive session as a committee of the whole to consider the request of the District Comissioners for an estimate covering school costs in the next 15 years. The Commissioners have requested an annual estimate from the years 1933 to 1936 and lump sum estimate from 1937 to 1946.

Kindergarten problems include the question of whether to continue transferring teachers to lower grades of elementary schools and how many kindergartens, if any, should be cosed. Miss Catherine Watkins, head of the white kindergartens, has appealed to the board not to transfer any more kindergarten teachers on the grounds that they are technically unfitted to teach in the grades.

DEMOCRAT-INSURGENT GROUP MAY USE POP-GUN TARIFF BILLS

and recall how the Democrats in Congress fought it. The Democratic party, they say, is opposed to periodic general revision of the tariff, and prefers instead limited changes recommended by a non-partisan board of experts.

In view of that statement, this question arises: Do the Democratic leaders think that the passage of "popgun" bills revising a schedule here and there would be taking advantage of the administration, or do they think that it would be in line with their promise of enacting legislation in the interest of the public good?

President Hoover has never believed that the Hawley-Smoot bill was a perfect bill. In fact, he issued a statement in which he said as much. In the same statement he promised that, through the flexible provision, he hoped to correct many of the manifestly unwise rates that had been written into the measure.

It will be 13 months before the Seventy-second Congress meets. In that time, no doubt, many changes will have been made in the bill on the recommendation of the Tariff Commission. However, it is hardly likely that these changes will completely satisfy the Democratic - Insurgent group that will come into power in December, 1931.

Nor is it likely that the idealistic thoughts that were voiced yesterday by the seven Democratic leaders will be taken so seriously then as they are now.

Garner Will Give Nick Ride if He Wins Car

(Associated Press.)

Before the election Jack Garner, the minority leader, called the Speaker's limousine "our car," but yesterday he referred to it as "mine."

The machine is furnished the Speaker of the House by the Government, and Garner rode in it frequently as Nicholas Longworth's guest. He referred to it as "ours" and insisted "Nick" had it only by sufferance on the part of the people.

Longworth sent him a telegram yesterday asking "Whose car is it?"

Garner replied: "Think it's mine. Will be pleasure to let you ride."

If the Democrats should have the necessary majority of House members, Garner would become Speaker.

NEW DANISH ENVOY TO U.S. APPOINTED

Otto Wadstead Will Succeed Brun as Minister, Says Press Report.

HAS BEEN HERE BEFORE

Otto Wadsted, a prominent official of the ministry of foreign affairs of the Danish government, has been appointed Danish minister to the United States, according to an Associated Press dispatch received last night. He will succeed Constantin Brun.

It wa sstated at the Danish Legation last night that no official communication had been received from Copenhagen to that effect, and members of the legation staff declined to comment on the appointment or the dispatch.

The new minister is 70 years old and is a veteran of the Danish diplocorps. He has been stationed at Washington for two long periods, the first time for thirteen years, going from here to London as British Minister, and then returning here for an eighteen year period.

Mr. Brun was the signer for Denmark of the treaty between this country and his ceding the Virgin Islands to the United States, and he was also a delegate to the peace conference at The Hague in 1907. Members of the legation in Washington say that he is an authority on Danish foreign affairs.

The retiring minister first came to this country as minister in 1885, and has been here since that time with the exception of a term of service as minister to Great Britain. He has been minister to Washington since 1912, after being transferred back from London.

Davis Quits Labor Post December 1

Plans to Take Senate Oath "About Noon" That Day; No Vacation.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis said yesterday he would continue as a Cabinet member "until about noon, December 1," when he plans to take the oath of office as the junior senator from Pennsylvania.

In the meantime, he said, he would complete unfinished business, which he said included the Child Welfare Conference, the Cabinet Employment Committee and the Statistical Employment Conference, of which organizations he is a member. Unlike others elected to high office this week, Secretary Davis said he planned to take no vacation before assuming his new duties.

Should the program he has outlined be carried out, a precedent in American political history will be set when Davis leaves his post in the Cabinet—an executive position—to become a senator in the legislative branch of the Government.

Sullivan's Police Captaincy Passed

New Commander of Fourth Precinct Advanced With Enviable Record.

Promotion of Lieut. Jeremiah Sullivan to a captaincy was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners on recommendation of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. Lieut. Sullivan was promoted to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Capt. C. P. M. Lord. Capt. Lord asked for retirement effective November 15, and his request was approved.

Sergt. Eugene L. Eby was promoted to lieutenant, and Private Clarence A. Musselman was made a sergeant. The Commissioners also approved the finding of the retiring board awarding a pension of $60 a month to the widow of Capt. R. E. Doyle.

Seventeen commendations mark the record of the newly made Capt. Sullivan. Born in 1880, he was appointed to the police force in 1904, made a precinct detcetive in 1918, a sergeant in the following year, an acting lieutenant in 1925, and a lieutenant in 1925. Capt. Sullivan will take command of the Fourth Precinct, formerly commanded by Capt. Fred M. Cornwell, who recently retired. Capt. Walter Emerson, who is now in charge, will take the Brightwood precinct command vacated by the retirement of Capt. Lord.

Soviet's Aims Told By Dr. E. A. Walsh

Litvinoff's Recent Speceh Held Deliberate Insult to League.

Conditions in Soviet Russia and "indications of that country's desire to foment a world revolution" were discussed last night by Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., at a public meeting held at Georgetown University, of which he is vice president.

Declaring that Maxim Litvinoff's recent speech at Geneva was "a deliberate attempt to insult the League of Nations and ridicule proposals for world peace," Dr. Walsh said that the Communist party in America had been urged to take advantage of the unemployment wave to further plans for a world revolution. The Wall street crash, he added, had been forecast by the agitator, Bukharin, in his address before the sixth congress of the Third Internationale, held in Moscow last summer.

In earlier lectures, Dr. Walsh discussed the Soviet industrialization program and other phases of Soviet activities as he found them on his recent tour of Russia.

Jailer's Tickets "Lost;" Prison Under Suspicion

Any one who doubts this should ask James F. Dealy, a guard at the House of Correction. Twelve tickets for the Notre Dame-Pennsylvania football game tomorrow were taken from his pocket.

Every prisoner in the place who stood within gunshot of Dealy is under suspicion. The guard remembers being close to several while they were working in the yard, but each man had a rake or a pick and a pickpocket doesn't use such tools for such work.

Dealy had purchased the tickets through Notre Dame University.

Germany Settles Mixed Claim Debt

Rhine Occupation Account Is Included in Payment of $755,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

Final action was taken yesterday to fund indebtedness of Germany to the United States growing out of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission and costs of the American Army of Occupation after the World War.

Secretary Mellon announced yesterday that Rudolph Leitner, First Secretary of the Germany Embassy, yesterday delivered to the Treasury German government bonds valued at 3,169,700,000 reichmarks (approximately $755,000,000) of which 2,121,600,000 reichmarks was on account of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission and the remainder for the Army of Occupation.

Part of the bonds already had been paid and there were returned. They were for 61,000,000 reichmarks for the Mixd Claims Commission awards and 37,850,000 for the Army of Occupation. The settlement was authorized by the last session of Congress and has been approved by the German Government.

Democrat's Lead Slim For Alaskan Delegate

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—With 1,100 Indian votes, which for a score of years have given solid Republican support, unreported, George B. Grigsby, Democrat, led James Wickersham, Republican, by only 80 votes today in the election of Alaska's delegate to Congress.

Grigsby had 4,683 and Wickersham 4,603.

Woodring Holding His Kansas Lead

Margin So Slim, However, That Completed Count May Upset It.

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Today's official canvass of precinct returns by county clerks in the governorship race increased to 674 votes the lead of Harry H. Woodring, Democrat, over Frank Haucke, Republican.

Official and semiofficial returns from 78 counties of 105 in Kansas were substituted for unofficial figures in the Associated Press tabulations in the revised compilation. The total: Haucke, 214,679; Woodring, 215,353.

Many intercounty absentee ballots were included in the figures. This cut down the Hauke chances to pick up enough votes to balance the total out of the absentee ballots, expected to total about 3,500.

It was, however, by no means impossible for Haucke to win because the larger part of the absentee vote was still to be counted and the canvass of the three most populous counties of Kansas was still to be completed.

SINCLAIR ASSOCIATE "STARTS LIFE ANEW"

APPROVED BY EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Henry Mason Day, one-time associate of Harry F. Sinclair, who, with his boss, served a jail term for contempt, as a result of the Teapot Dome oil scandals, is, in his own words, "starting life anew" as a partner of Redmond & Co., brokers, of 48 Wall street, this city, Philadelphia, and Lido, Long Island.

In April announcement was made of Mr. Day's resignation from Sinclair and his affiliation with Redmond & Co., primarily as a customers' man. From then on his promotion was rapid, as he told it today to newspapermen in a short interview: "I started in six months ago and now, as a partner, I am starting life anew." He smiled as he made reference to his jail term, which he served purely on a technical and not a criminal charge. "I have severed all connections with all corporations," Mr. Day emphasized.

His admittance to the firm means he received the approval of the Stock Exchange, which passes on the sale of all seats and the admittance of new partners into membership firms.

James B. Taller, jr., and Allan McLane, jr., are the exchange seat holders of Redmond & Co. Other prominent members of that firm are A. Perry and Henry Fairfield Osborn, jr., brothers, and sons of Henry Fairfield Osborn, famous paleontologist connected with Columbia University.

At the same time, the New York Stock Exchange announced in a morning bulletin that Arturo P. Ramos, husband of the former Millicent Rogers, was being considered as a special partner in the firm of Bainbridge & Ryan, but a superceding announcement failed to make any mention of the proposed admittance of Mr. Ramos, and the firm itself was reticent about discussing the matter.

There was nothing to be said about the proposed admittance to special partnership of Mr. Ramos to Bainbridge & Ryan, the firm explained today, as the whole matter was still unsettled.

It is known, however, that Ramos has been a very active executive and general partner of J. P. Benkard & Co., a brokerage house dealing with Standard Oil securities. Col. H. H. Rogers, father-in-law of Ramos, is one of the founders of the Standard Oil Co. Other members of Bainbridge & Ryan are Lawrence M. Bainbridge Ralph T. Ryan, Archibald C. Curry, Perry B. Strassburger, Kenneth B. Smith and H. L. Hotchkiss, jr.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE thing for us Republicans to do now is to get up some sort of a reception for the boys who are returning, tattered, maimed and battle-scarred from the firing lines. After all they did the best they could. It was not their fault that the enemy bore them down by dent of sheer brute strength.

Perhaps, we at home here are not wholly blameless. We didn't send them as many goodies or homespun sweaters and sox as we could have.

At any rate, they are our boys who willingly left the social warmth of Washington and went out into the political cold of the hustings and threw everything they had in the advance of those political Huns, the Democrats.

• • • •

WE must remain adamant, too, to the efforts of these invaders to impress their quaint language and their ideas upon us. Have no traffic with them, fellow Republicans.

They won't be here long. Our cause will again rear itself and push them back. History proves that it will.

Oh, it will be hard for us while they are in our midst. There is no doubt of that. But don't take down the grand old Republican flag as they march by with their gloating trumpets. Let them take your silver and gold and throw you into jail.

Martyrs, if necessary, is what we all should be.

• • • •

I DON'T believe those stenographers and clerks at the Capitol who are already ogling at the invaders, edging coquettishly up to them and making as if to be fascinated with their weird dialects, represent the heart of Republican Washington.

The greater part of us will make their interregnum miserable. You can bet your boots on that.

After all, the individual instances of courage among our men should serve as a warming glow in our grief.

Take Majority Leader Tilson, for example. Although a colonel, did he content himself with directing the fight from behind the lines? He did not. As the enemy approached his home precinct, in fact, he got himself a chair and took unbudging position at the voting booth.

And Col. Stimson's characterization of Roosevelt as unfit which must have gotten Roosevelt 200,000 more votes—that act deserves a war cross.

The soviets have a way of saying every time they shoot a man, that he died in the highest form of social justice.

Well, of course, I don't want to go that far in the matter of casualties, but at least, they did not die in vain.

BLIND DEPUTY LEADS ATTACK ON BRIAND

War Veteran Warns Revision of Treaty Will Mean More Strife.

"GRAVE RISK," DECLARES

Paris, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The blind Georges Scapini and Ernest Morbihan, one of the younger members of the chamber, led the debate in the Chamber of Deputies today as the opposition resumed its attack on the policies of Foreign Minister Briand.

Scapini, who lost his sight in the war, held the chamber silent as, running his trembling fingers across notes in Braille characters, he warned that revision of the Treaty of Versailles would result in the demoralization of Central Europe.

"Attempts to revise the treaty," he declared, "would mean war. It is a grave risk to think of Franco-German rapprochement without providing safe guarantees against the fluctuations of German policy."

Morbihan won the approval of virtually the entire chamber with his declaration that Franco-German differences must be settled amicably, but that "revision of frontiers is only a snare."

"We must remain strong," he cried. "We must refuse to permit revision of the treaties as a condition to cooperation with Germany, but we must recognize the Germany nation as a force alongside us and we must strain every effort to reach an economic and political understanding."

M. Briand, whose German policies are under fire, probably will reply to his critics next Thursday morning, when the chamber will reconvene.

Toiletries Scattered In Motor Collision

The intersection of Florida avenue and First street northwest smelled like "shave and a haircut, bay rum" last night following an automobile collision in which one of the cars was a truck of the National Barber Supply Co. Bottles of perfume and other barber supplies were scattered for some distance.

Tito ScisCent, 18 years old, 5421 Fifth street northwest, was driving the truck, with Lorenzo Capone, 17 years old, 2606½ Georgia avenue northwest, and Frank Galuppo, 18 years old, 1323 North Capitol street, as passengers. The latter two were treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations. William J. Dow, 40 years old, 1360 Oris street northwest, was the driver of the second machine.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

PATRONS of the Fox Theater this week have an opportunity to hear, for the first time in Washington, a lyric soprano of more than a little distinction in her native Panama.

As a brief interlude in an overture comprise dof Latin-American and Spanish melodies, Leon Brusiloff, conductor of the orchestra, is presenting Senorita Maria Pacheco, niece of the secretary of the Panama Legation, under whose auspices Senorita Pacheco is making her professional debut in the United States.

Senorita Pacheco arrived in this country only a few weeks ago for the purpose of taking screen and voice tests for a career in talking pictures. Her visit was prompted by her having successfully passed a similar test made in Panama by the representative of an American producing company searching Latin-America for new talent for the talkies.

Senorita Pacheco is a striking brunette, of distinctive Spanish beauty of both face and figure. She appears upon the stage agrbed in a picturesque costume de fiesta, with high camb and typical lace mantilla adding to an appearance already striking. Her selections are familiar Spanish compositions—"Clavelitos," the carnations, and the popular "Ay, ay, ay."

Although not known to the American stage, Senorita Pacheco has appeared professionally many times in her own country, having sung even such exacting roles as that of Micaela in Bizet's "Carmen," in which she appeared when the American Fleet visited Panamanian waters last year.

Now about that youngster, Buddy Messinger, who bobbed up unexpectedly in Washington a week or two ago. Buddy now has returned to the land of his fathers—and his own screen successes—California, and no doubt will soon again be strutting his material before the cameras and microphones.

As I understand it, it was this way. Buddy was a member of a bridal party—not as a contracting principal, however—that boarded a train in Los Angeles to see the happy pair off, and didn't remember to leave the train himself until it had reached New York. Wondering why he was in the Eastern metropolis, he playfully wired home for a return ticket and was playfully wired back that none would be forthcoming. There were no opportunities awaiting his juvenile genius in the Eastern studios, so he came to Washington just to give the Capital the up and down and maybe permit Uncle Sam to give him a job of one sort or another. Uncle Sam apparently failed to get the idea, and for the time being, that was that.

But parents seldom stay put under conditions such as these, so when they concluded that perhaps the lesson had sunk in, that return ticket was forthcoming and away went Buddy, wearing a smile big enough to fit Joe E. Brown!

Speaking purely as a bachelor, I should say the moral is, that any wedding is liable to be poison, whether it's yours or not!

In tomorrow's issue of The Post—a very fine buy for a nickel at any newsstand—the motion picture department goes overboard for the Fox production of "The Big Trail" in an ample and robust way, and has no intention of taking back any part of it.

It has been many a long day since any motion picture has impressed this typewriter as so remarkable in its every production aspect as this semifictional picturization of the blazing of the Oregon Trail by those hardy pioneers who set out from Missouri for the Puget Sound country by wagon train almost a century ago. I say semifictional because the story of love, treachery and intrigue that threads the major narrative is nothing more or less than a conventional "Western" movie plot, based on Hal G. Evarts tale of "The Shaggy Horde," that ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post a few months ago. To be sure, the commonplace qualities that characterize this imaginative figment are largely obscured by the magnificence of the background against which they are unfolded, but, after all, they are merely the melodramatic hokum that lends "audience interest" to a subject so exalted in its historically and pictorial authenicity as to require no such feeble bolstering.

By the time it opens next Friday, I hope to have conveyed some glimmering of an idea that I think it is a great picture.

The Earle Theater is demonstrating a truth that should be valuable to astute showmen throughout the country. It is that by combining a limited number of vaudeville acts with a feature picture and the usual supplementary screen subjects, the acts can be restricted wholly to "all-star" caliber and click at the box-office proportionately.

The revival of the combination policy at the Thirteenth street house is making local box-office history. With Tom Patricola, one of the foremost of the stage's dancing, clowns and ukulele plunkers, and the Brox Sisters both present in the flesh, this week's line-up at the Earle promises to match the best that has preceded it—or maybe move the mark up even a little higher.

In another week Charles Bickford and Evelyn Knapp will be seen at the Earle in "River's End," a new talkie version of the Oliver Curwood story in which Lewis S. Stone made one of his first screen hits. Evelyn Knapp, a Kansas City girl who went to New York to acquire an English accent so that she might succeed on the stage, has been cast exclusively in underworldand out-of-doors parts since signing on with the pictures—which may or may not prove something or other.

At least, it brings to mind the talk of remaking "The Miracle Man" and the fact that only one of the cast of that sensational picture remains in harness. That one is Betty Compson. Lon Chaney and Joseph Dowling both are dead, as is George Loane Tucker, the director. Thomas Meighan is in temporary retirement, although flirting with several new contract offers.

I know of nothing that moves like the movies!

Incidentally, there is no sympathy in this column for the cheap aspiration of a second-rate actor, whose name would not mean a thing even if it were mentioned, who has conferred upon himself the home-made title of "The New Lon Chaney."

It will take something more than a lack of taste and a label to ascent to the place left vacant by one of the most remarkable character actors the cinema has developed.

And there's talk that if they do permit it, it will be 4 per cent! Or don't you care for pretzels?

Chicago Mayor Is Recovering.

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Attending physicians announced today that Mayor William Hale Thompson now is recovering so rapidly from an emergency operation for appendicitis that he may expect to leave the hospital within a week.

FLORENTINE PRINCE OF CHURCH, 78, DIES

Cardinal Mistrangelo Had Undergone Operation for Poisoning.

11 COLLEGE VACANCIES

Florence, Italy, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Cardinal Alfonso Maria Mistrangelo, Archbishop of Florence, died at 10:18 o'clock tonight of gastric poisoning. He was 78 years old.

Cardinal Mistrangelo underwent an operation earlier in the day. Ecclesiastical circles said tonight that the Mistrangelo death and that of Cardinal Charost at Rennes, France, today makes a consistory in December increasingly certain, as there are eleven vacancies.

Also, there now are only 29 Italian cardinals, while the list contains 30 foreign. It is usual for Italian princes of the church to dominate.

Cardinal Mistrangelo, Archbishop of the historic City of Dante, was one of the most venerable figures in the sacred college of the Catholic Church.

Born in Savona, Province of Genoa, on April 26, 1852, he distinguished himself early as a teacher, and above all as a disciplinarian of the more persuasive species. At the same time he established for himself the reputation as a preacher which was to follow him well into advanced age. In fact, he delivered a notable series of sermons at the College of Finalbergo when he was still in minor orders.

Upon being raised to the priesthood, he evinced remarkable gifts as an organizer, particularly of religious ceremonies designed to have wide popular appeal.

Militant as Evangelist.

His first real test as a militant evangelist came when the population of a certain town outside Ovada rebelled violently against the bishop, and threatened to go over to Protestantism. The still young Mgr. Mistrangelo arrived in the dissenting locality one morning, gathered the malcontents in the cathedral, and by sheer force of oratory prevailed upon them to return to their old faith and be obedient to their clerical superiors. That evening he returned to his college, with order restored.

The cardinal made a show of resistance to the breaking up of such juvenile organizations as the Catholic Boy Scouts.

He was one of the last supporters of the newspaper Unita Cattolica, sole outstanding organ of the dying popularist movement, and which disappeared after the conclusion of the Lateran treaties in 1929.

Police Guard Chicago Debutante After Threat

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Police guarded the debut today of Miss Betty Offield, granddaughter of William Wrigley, chewing gum millionaire and owner of the Chicago Cubs. The action followed receipt by Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield, parents of the debutante, of a letter threatening kidnaping of their daughter. The father refused to discuss the letter, but Mr. Wrigley said:

"I didn't see the letter, but Mr. Offield told me of it. Of course there is nothing to it. I get such letters by the dozen."

BOLD BANDITS TAKE $60,000 FROM TRAIN

JESSE JAMES RECALLED

in the gang but some passengers told of seeing seven. She was in a coach next to the baggage car and saw a mail sack passed out of the baggage car to a bandit on a flat car who passed it on to men in the waiting sedan.

Shot Fired None Hurt.

Miss Skaale said she heard a shot fired but believed it was done to intimidate some one. No one was hurt.

After the robbery C. F. Fredericks, station agent at Stege, found $1,000 in currency in grass behind a hedge fence. The money was supposedly thrown or lost there by the fleeing robbers. An empty pistol holster and an empty mail sack, slashed open, were found not far from the scene.

On June 22, 1920, the same train was held up and robbed of several thousand dollars by a gang that functioned in a similar precise manner. That gang was believed to have been led by the late Jake Fleagle, notorious outlaw who was shot and killed in Missouri recently by detectives who sought him in connection with a bank robbery at Lamar, Colo., and four murders.

The holdup of a Southern Pacific train near Nobel, Calif., recalls other notorious train robberies in the West—and looking back at them all, it's a business that leads to violent death or long prison terms.

Only a few desperadoes who took to train robbery ever reformed after being chastened by prison terms, Al Jennings being a notable exception.

The history of train robbery, of course, goes back to Jesse James, now almost a legendary character. The James boys and their gang, hardened by the guerilla warfare of the Missouri-Kansas border during the Civil War, turned to train and bank holdups in the reconstruction days.

End of Jesse James.

Jesse died with his boots on, but not in the grand manner of the old West, with blazing guns in his hands. He was shot in the back by Bob Ford, an associate interested in reward money, as he was hanging a picture in a house in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1881.

Henry Starr, bank and train robber, promised to reform and was paroled from prison by President Roosevelt. In 1921 Starr was shot to death after a bank robbery at Harrison, Ark., and his protege and associate, Al Spencer, took over the leadership of the Starr gang.

Robbery to Evangelism.

Spencer was killed September 16, 1923, by a posse led by Federal officers near Bartlesville, Okla. In his clothing was found $10,000 in bonds taken in a Missouri-Kansas-Texas mail train robbery at Okesa, August 20, 1923.

Long before that Bill Carlisle entered the picture by robbing Union Pacific trains in the Northwest. He subsequently was captured and sentenced to the Wyoming prison. An application for his parole is pending. He helped prison authorities control a fire that threatened the penitentiary.

Al Jennings, bosom friend, penitentiary mate and literary protege of O. Henry, was a farm boy student, cowboy, boomer, lawyer, bank robber, train robber and life-term convict. He now is an evangelist. His promise to reform earned his parole by President McKinley.

Dynamiting of Train.

Twenty years ago "Big Bill" Latrasse was a desperado in the vicinity of Kansas City. On Christmas night, 1910, he robbed a Missouri Pacific train between Leavenworth and Kansas City and shot one man who resisted. Awaiting trial, he escaped jail and was captured later in Illinois. He is serving a sentence in the Kansas Penitentiary and hoping for a parole.

The D'Autremont brothers, Hugh, Ray and Roy, in June, 1923, dynamited a Southern Pacific train in the Siskiyou Tunnel of Oregon, killing four men, in an unsuccessful robbery attempt.

Hugh, who said he once joined a posse searching for him and his twin brothers, was found in February, 1927, serving in the United States Army in the Philippines. Ray and Roy were captured at Steubenville, Ohio, in June, 1927. All three are serving life sentences.

Robbers Began Too Late To Seize $85,000 More

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 7 (A.P.). The men who robbed a Southern Pacific train at Nobol today of about $60,000 were not as expert as they thought they were. Had they boarded the train a few minutes earlier they might have obtained $85,000 more.

The Bank of America, formerly the Bank of Italy, announced the robbers got $14,000 belonging to that institution, but they missed $85,000 on the train for suburban banks around Oakland.

The $14,000 was consigned to branches at Dos Palos and Firebaugh.

Taxicab Driver Is Held After Two Are Injured

Edward C. McConnell, taxicab driver, of Fourth street southeast, near E street, was charged with having bad brakes by police of the First Precinct yesterday in connection with an accident on F street near Fourteenth street, in which two persons suffered minor injuries.

CARDINAL CHAROST, WAR HERO, EXPIRES

HONORED BY VATICAN

Rennes, France, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Victim of a cold which overtaxed his heart, Cardinal Charost, Archbishop of Rennes and noted for his war relief work in northern France, died today at the age of 70.

For the last few weeks Brittany has been experiencing rain and tempest. Despite the inclement weather, the cardinal performed his offices and caught cold in church last Sunday.

When the German army under command of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria entered Lille in August, 1914, some of the officers on the second Sunday of the occupation went to church.

Arrested for Sermon.

They remained for the sermon and heard Cardinal Charost, then bishop of Lillie, tell the congregation:

"A serious, anomalous situation obtains. Lille is in the hands of the enemy, the city is occupied by soldiers of Germany. You must bow before force and attempt no overt act of rebellion. But you must also do nothing that will assist the invader to carry out his designs against our country and maintain stout allegiance to the republic."

Four hours later the bishop was under arrest and sent to Aix-La-Chapelle as a hostage. He stubbornly refused to retract any of his utterances.

A few months later he was repatriated via Switzerland. He returned to northern France and remained there throughout the war, having installed his bishopric about 30 miles behind the battle lines.

Native of Le Mans.

The prelate was born in Le Mans on November 14, 1860. His war record of charity and organization of relief among the refugees in northern France during the war was recognized by the Vatican, and in June, 1920, he was created an archbishop and transferred to Rennes.

He was nominated as cardinal and received the red hat from the hands of Pope Benedict XV in December, 1922. The Pope, wishing to emphasize the new cardinal's "war service," consecrated him under the auspices of Sainte Marie de la Victoire (Holy Mary of Victory).

During his cardinalate the little Norman girl, Therese de Lisieux, was canonized by the Vatican and made the Blessed Therese of Lisieux.

Valentino Letter Sought By Judge Reported Stolen

Executor of Star's Estate, Accused of Loaning Himself $22,300; Says Missing Document Directed Handling of Funds.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Attorneys for S. George Ullman, retiring executor of the estate of Rudolph Valentino, late film star, reported to the probate court today a "document of the utmost importance" had been stolen from the dead actor's safe.

Probate Judge Albert Stephens, hearing charges against Ullman's administration of the estate, disclosed he had issued a subpena for production of the missing document.

Ullman's attorney told the court the missing document was a letter from Valentino to Ullman, directing his handling of the estate. It was written in 1925 and attached to the will. The attorney said Ullman had received a copy of the letter but failed to find the original.

Charges Ullman had loaned $22,300 to himself and $90,000 to other parties from the estate funds without court approval were disclosed. Ullman admitted he loaned $50,000 to the defunct Pan-American Bank which he said was lost when the company went bankrupt. He admitted, under stipulation of his attorney he had loaned $40,000 to Frank Manila, friend of the late actor.

He told the court the combination of the safe was known by only three persons, Valentino, his brother, Albert Guglielmi, and L. H. Mahoney, the actor's valet.

Guglielmi and his sister, Maria G. Strada, brought about the hearing by accusing Ullman of misusing estate funds and demanding an accounting before his withdrawal as executor.

Half-Holiday Demanded For Federal Employes

Efforts of the National Federation of Federal Employes to secure year-round Saturday half-holidays for Government workers were described in an address broadcast from Station WOL last night by Gertrude M. McNally, secretary and treasurer of the organization.

She criticized Government workers who confine their support of the half-holiday program to "fervent wishes for it. If you wish the benefits of the shorter working week," she added, "see to it that you actively work with the federation, which is dedicated to the advancement of the interests of the Federal Government and the Federal employe."

CHURCHES TO EXTOL ARMISTICE LESSONS

ONE SERMON IN FRENCH

Armistice Day will be observed in many of the Washington churches tomorrow. In some well-known Army chaplains will take part in the services, and in others the ministers will preach a sermon appropriate to the anniversary.

At New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Col. J. E. Yates, chief of chaplains of the United States Army, and Capt. Sydney K. Evans, chief of chaplains of the United States Navy, will assist. The Federal Council of Churches in America will join with this service in its observance of Armistice Day. Dr. MacFarland, the general secretary, and Dr. William L. Darby, the Washington secretary, will take part also. Dr. Sizoo will preach the annual Armistice Day sermon on the subject, "Taps or Reveille."

In the evening a special Armistice Day service has also been arranged, at which time the quartet will give a special musical program. With this service the World Alliance of International Friendship, through the churches, will join, and Col. Raymond Robbins, of Chicago, will take part in the worship. The address will be "The Last Frontier."

At Covenant Church.

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Church of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will preach a special sermon on "The Persistent Passion for Peace." And in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Rev. Theodore Noss will speak on "The Patriotism of Tomorrow."

Grace Episcopal Church in Georgetown has arranged for a special memorial service, the topic for which is "The Spirit of the Cross."

A number of prominent Washingtonians will, as is the custom, take part in the presentation of the pageant service, which is being directed by Mrs. Fulton Lewis and the rector, the Rev. M. M. Perkins. This historic old church, located on Wisconsin avenue, between the old canal and the river, is ideally suited for the service which begins in the edifice, and has its conclusion under the beautiful old trees that surround the church.

"The Spirit of the Cross" presents outstanding events in the story of Christianity, beginning with the early church, through the middle ages, up to the American period and ending with a "vision of the citizens of tomorrow" through the motherhood of today.

Not the pulpit, but the Church School will have charge of the service at All Soul's Unitarian Church.

Rally Week By Teas.

An Armistice week rally will be held Wednesday night at Washington Hebrew Temple on Eighth street between H and I northwest, at which "nonviolence as taught by the great prophets" will be discussed by Christian, Jew, Hindu and Moslem representatives. The speakers include Dr. Henry Atkinson, general secretary, Church Peace Union; Syud Hossain, journalist and nationalist leader of India; Kedar Nath Das Gupta, director, All-World Gandhi Fellowship; Charles Frederick Weller, general executive, Threefold Movement; Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, rector, St. James Church, Philadelphia (invited); Abram Simon, Ph. D., rabbi, Washington Hebrew Congregation, presiding.

At the Metropolitan Baptist Church, Sixth and A streets northeast, in the evening the National Band of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, led by Maj. Harvey Miller, will render suitable musical numbers outside the church one-half hour before the service begins. Fifty War Mothers of Washington will be the especial guests of the church. An automobile and an escort will attend each War Mother. About 40 War Mothers will be present. Mrs. Gertrude Lyons will sing "Taps," accompanied by two cornetists from the United States Army Band. The service flag, with its white and gold stars, will be displayed back of the speaker. Admiral Robert E. Coontz, junior commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be on the platform and lead the audience in the salute to the flag. Pastor Ball will deliver the address on "War No More."

Scene at St. John's.

The French Congregation, which meets at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, every Sunday afternoon, will observe Armistice Day tomorrow at 4 p. m., and the Rev. Florian Vurpillot will preach on "Coeur d'Homme Change en Coeur de Bete."

The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, will give an appropriate message on the subject, "My Peace Creed."

Dr. F. F. Holsopple, of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, has chosen for his Armistice Day sermon: "Defective Foundations."

Leading churchmen of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish congregations have joined in supporting the annual Red Cross roll call, which opens Armistice Day and closes Thanksgiving Day. Sunday will be dedicated to the Red Cross in services in thousands of churches throughout the Nation. The special needs facing the organization this year call for increased membership, the clergymen have been advised by the National Red Cross here.

Three prominent churchmen, the Most Rev. John J. Glennon, archbishop of St. Louis Mo.; Mr. Irving F. Reichert, rabbi of the Congregation Eman-U-El, of San Francisco, Calif., and Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, of St. Louis, have united in an appeal to the public for this support.

Union Methodist Will Hear Endeavor Leader

Charlton M. Sherwood, of the National Christian Endeavor, will speak at the morning service of worship in Union Methodist Episcopal Church, Twentieth street near Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Mr. Sherwood has come to Washington to participate in the fifteenth annual meeting and good will congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches.

The choir will sing "The Recessional," by De Koven.

Eastern Star Members Will Attend Service

At the union Protestant service in Chevy Chase members of the Chevy Chase Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will attend Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in All Saints' Episcopal Church.

In addition to the local chapter, several leaders from the Washington organizations will also be present. The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, will preach the sermon.

Glover at Dumbarton Musical Institution

By DAVID RANKIN BARBEE.

"You just can not have a church without a good choir," said "Pop" Glover to this interviewer, "and neither can you have good congregational singing without a volunteer choir."

"That seems like pretty good philosophy," said I. "On what do you base it?"

"Experience, my dear friend; experience."

When you survey his intelligent head with its crest of snow-white hair, you realize that his years have not been few and that he has had opportunities to know what he is talking about. Solomon said to the sluggard, "Go to the ant and learn wisdom," but he did not have music in his mind, for the ant is no singing bird. Had the wisest of men lived in this day he might have said to the Washington churches: "Go to Dumbarton Methodist Church in Georgetown and see how 'Pop' Glover makes music mean so much to worship."

His choir and the numerous choir singers Mr. Glover has trained call him "Pop," and he likes it. In reality his name is Mr. W. T. Glover. He not only makes music, but he sells it, for music has been the breath of his nostrils and the food on his table since his early boyhood in England.

Director 25 Years.

At Dumbarton, where he has wielded a baton over a choir of 25 mixed voices for 25 years, he is as much an institution as Isaac Birch, without whom Dumbarton would not be Dumbarton. In that old Methodist chapel Mr. Glover, the Episcopalian, introduced Church of England music, and put far away what he calls "ranting stuff." His Sunday programs consist of classical church music, the great anthems, and choral numbers and even solos. And the beautiful thing about it is that he has made the Methodists like it. Somehow they never have made a Methodist out of him, for though he has not darkened the door of an Episcopal church in a quarter of a century, he still holds his membership in one. When he is finally gathered to his fathers I tremble over who shall bury this grand old man of music.

"Do you have any trouble giving such programs with untrained voices," I timidly asked.

"Not untrained, my dear friend, not untrained," said he. "We take them in young and we train them. A number of my choir singers have gone out from Dumbarton and are now soloists in some of our best churches."

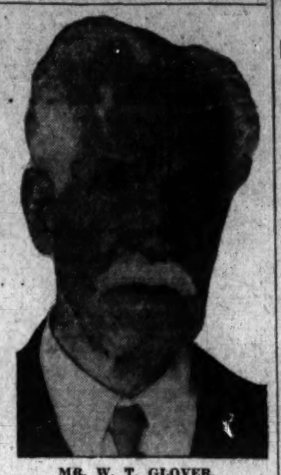
So the Dumbarton choir is a singing school, or a school of music as well as a choir. And that is one of the secrets of its success.

Singers There From Start.

There are five musicians still connected with that choir who were parts of it when Mr. Glover took charge. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Birch are probably the oldest, and after them in point of service come Mr. Joseph Oliver, Mrs. Alvin Miller, Mr. Hudson and Mr. S. D. Tucker. The last named is the tenor soloist, and he came into the choir as a boy.

On last Sunday night Mr. Glover inaugurated an all-music service, giving a program of classical music, with a very brief talk by the pastor. This is to be a regular feature at this church on the first Sunday night in every month. For it Mr. Glover brings to his assistance a well-known Washington soloist, simply for a variety.

Church-going people, and ministers, too, will be interested to know that this service filled the church with worshippers, which may be one solution of the problem, what to do with the Sunday evening service.



MR. W. T. GLOVER.

"Can you organize a choir in any congregation?" I asked Mr. Glover.

"Of course. Why not?" was the reply.

"Nearly everybody can sing. All one needs is a bit of instruction, and then some practice. Not all of them will be soloists or first-rate choristers, but they can be brought to such a pitch that they will improve the general singing of the choir and also of the congregation."

Whole Congregation Enlisted.

"You believe, then, that singing is spiritual; that there is an element of worship in it?"

"Certainly. And when you take your choir from your congregations you have enlisted at once the interest of the whole congregation in the choir. That is what makes it different from singing by paid choirs. I do not underrate paid choirs, and it is always well to have highly cultivated voices mixed in with your volunteer choir and leading it, but if you cannot afford that, you can make up a splendid choir from any body of reverent worshippers."

Mr. Glover's father was a schoolmaster in England, and one of the courses in his school was music. Here his son learned his early music, and at 8 years of age was a member of a boy's choir in one of the Church of England churches. By the time he was nearly grown he was a tenor soloist, and even today, at 77, he can, if he will, do you a tenor solo that you will want to hear again.

At 27, with a wife and two children, he came to America and went to Brunswick, Ga., where he had an uncle. In that little tidewater city, he organized a choir in every church in the community, even in the Roman Catholic Church. In a little while he was in Columbia, S. C., and there he repeated his experience in Brunswick. But he longed for a larger field of operation, and this led him to come to Washington in 1897, and here is he.

Soloist at St. Paul's.

On coming here he was engaged as tenor soloist at St. Paul's Church, and a little later he organized and directed a boys' choir at the Church of the Incarnation, after which he went to Christ Church in Georgetown. From that ancient church he transferred his services to Dumbarton, at the urging of Joseph Oliver.

There is a ministry of music just as there is a ministry of the pulpit, and when they fit into each other, as they do at Dumbarton, you have an ideal situation. One thing can be said of music: it is truly nonsectarian, and Mr. Glover could sing or direct a choir in a Catholic church or for Rabbi Simon with the same spirit that he directs the choir at Dumbarton. However, Rabbi Simon might ask to look over his program, and the Catholics would not permit the "ranting music," which Mr. Glover also objects to.

Calvary M. E. Laymen's Service Draws Throngs

The audience at Calvary Methodist Church last Sunday evening was by far the largest of any attending the Sunday evening services since the special laymen's committee took charge on October 1. Should the present rate of increase in attendance continue it will be necessary to throw open the Sunday School room.

Assisting the Rev. Dr. Mark Depp tomorrow evening will be H. G. Taylor, who will make the announcements, and T. R. Dodd, who will read the Scripture. Dr. H. M. Dudley will conduct the song service. Special music will be furnished by Mrs. Ruth Bronson Logan, violinist.

The address of the evening will be delivered by Harry N. Holmes, field secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches. His subject will be "A Shrinking World and Big Men." The questionnaire will be again presented to the congregation.

Meeting Will Further Practical Bible Study

A gathering in the interest of practical Bible study will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Columbia Bible Training School, 1724 H street northwest, at which time an address will be made by the Rev. R. Dunwoody Walker, formerly of New York, on prophetic truths in general.

Mr. Walker has been engaged in work of this kind for several years and has spoken in many of the large cities of the Nation and in Canada.

Dr. Stokes Will Preach At Ascension Tomorrow

Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the Cathedral, will address the congregation of the Church of the Ascension tomorrow morning on the diocesan mission.

The Rev. Harry C. Goodman is the priest in charge during the illness of the rector.

SENTENCE SERMONS

By DR. SAMUEL JUDSON PORTER

(Pastor of First Baptist Church)

THE SACRAMENTAL NOTE

COMMEMORATION, communion, communication, consecration, combine in the Lord's Supper to make it the crowning act of Christian worship.

It is commemorative. "This do in remembrance of Me," said the Master. Again: "As often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death." For all time He would have all His people remember that He gave Himself wholly to them and for them. The elements of the Supper cry out to us of Calvary; they remind us of the Cross, lest we lose sight of its meaning. Like the little flower flung back to his beloved by the lover falling over the precipice to his death, the Holy Supper is our divine Master's "Forget-me-not."

It is communion. As in the holy place of the ancient tabernacle, upon "a fine table of gold," was set the "bread of the Presence," so within the Christian sanctuary stands the Supper reminder and pledge of Him who promised to be with His people whenever they met in His name, to commune with Him and with one another, for it is an act of social as well as individual worship. And to go further—who has not at some time in such a service sensed the mystical presence of "the spirits of just men made perfect," who have entered "the general assembly of the Church of the Firstborn, which are written in Heaven."

Communication. Whatever interpretation may be accepted at this point, all Christians can assuredly agree on this—that the Lord's Supper should be regarded as a unique way, certainly the blessed occasion, of appropriating and assimilating Christ Himself as our very own. The hour of the communion service ought to be a high festal event for hungry souls who must go out of themselves for true life, and for sustenance feed on that "bread which comes down from Heaven."

Consecration. At the Lord's table we are summoned to adjust, and take new hold of ourselves, and so, by a beautiful necessity, which every fine person can not fail to understand, this sacred Feast passes on into an act of consecration to live not unworthy of Him whose blessed intercourse with us has given our life its truest value. Hence we speak of the Lord's Supper as a "sacrament," taking the Latin word sacramentum, which meant the vow of allegiance of a Roman soldier, his vow of fidelity and honor—we take that word to describe our high intention to dedicate ourselves to Him who gave Himself for us.

ST. PAUL'S WILL LAY NEW CORNER STONE

EDIFICE IS ITS SECOND

The corner stone of the new St. Paul's English Lutheran Church at Connecticut avenue, Ellicott and Everett streets, will be laid with impressive ceremonies tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of the church, will preside and will deliver the principal address. The Rev. Dr. John T. Huddle, pastor emeritus, will read the scriptures, and the Rev. Dr. W. C. Waltemyer, a former pastor, now professor of religious education at Gettysburg College, will offer prayer. Many distinguished guests will be present and will bring greetings from the national and city governments. The pastors of all the local Lutheran churches and the clergy of many other denominations will be present.

An augmented choir under the direction of William Fowler, organist and choirmaster, will render several anthems. A special hymn for the occasion has been written by Harry Tennyson Domer, whose father, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Domer, was pastor of St. Paul's for over a quarter of a century. The writer of the hymn was born in the parsonage next to the old church at Eleventh and H streets northwest. Luther W. Linkins, chairman of the building committee, will read the list of articles to be placed in the stone.

The laying of the corner stone tomorrow brings back to mind many interesting events surrounding the corner stone ceremonies of the old St. Paul's Church back in 1844. In this day when many denominations are erecting so-called "national churches" or memorials in this city as representatives of their faith, it is interesting to go back through the 87 years of the history of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and find that this was one of the earliest, perhaps the earliest, national churches ever organized in Washington.

A group of 40 English-speaking Lutherans, splitting off from the old German Concordia Lutheran Church and desiring to form a congregation of their own, were organized as a mission by the Maryland Synod by special resolutions offered by the Rev. Dr. Benjamin Kurtz, of Baltimore, a famous clergyman of the Lutheran church, and editor of the Lutheran Observer, on October 15, 1842, and an appropriation made towards its support. The complete organization was effected, by the election of a church council, on Easter morning, April 15, 1843. The mission was fostered in every way by the national leaders of the Lutheran church, particularly by such men as the Rev. Dr. John G. Morris, famous as scholar, preacher, scientist, author, editor, edicator and churchman, at that time president of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church. Dr. Frederick W. Conrad, a noted preacher and professor, Dr. Kurtz and others.

Mission Grows Rapidly.

Under such patronage the mission made rapid progress. The Maryland Synod by special resolution on October 13, 1843, stated that: "Whereas, the permanent establishment of an English-speaking Lutheran church in the City of Washington, D. C., the metropolis of our common country, can not fail, under the Divine blessing, to exercise a very happy and desirable influence on the general interests and prosperity of the Lutheran Church in the United States; and, whereas, a mission, under the auspices of this synod, with a view to the accomplishment of such a desirable object, has been there established; therefore, be it resolved by this synod, that the said mission be affectionately commended to the confidence, patronage and Christian liberality of the Lutheran churches of the United States and to the Christian public at large."

With this strong indorsement a circular was sent to every Lutheran minister and congregation in the United States soliciting support and stating that the amounts and names of donors would be duly acknowledged in the Lutheran Observer.

A site at the southwest corner of Eleventh and H streets northwest had already been donated to the congregation by Gen. John P. Van Ness, an Episcopalian and probably the wealthiest citizen of the District at that time, his good offices having been solicited by the ladies of the church, generously seconded by the Rev. Septimus Tustin, a Presbyterian clergyman, at that time chaplain of the United States Senate. In order to still further emphasize the national character of the enterprise a memorial was presented to "His Excellency, John Tyler, the President of the United States," setting forth the prospects of the church. That the good will of the administration was gained thereby was manifested in various ways.

Enlarging the horizon of the new congregation to Lutheran lands beyond the seas, a similar memorial was sent on August 1, 1844, to His Majesty, Frederick William IV, King of Prussia. This memorial was signed not only by the officers of the congregation, but by the Mayor of Washington and the Secretary of State, John C. Calhoun, the seal of the United States was affixed, the memorial was sent through diplomatic channels and was presented to the king by the American Minister at Berlin.

Gift From King and Queen.

The result of this communication was the gift of a silver chalice as a token of good will to the congregation from the king and queen. It bears an inscription in German of which the following is a translation: "Frederick William IV, King, and Elizabeth, Queen, of Prussia, to the Evangelical Congregation of St. Paul in Washington, 1845." This historic chalice has been in constant use at communion services of the church from that date to this, a period of eighty-five years.

The national appeal, locally and throughout the United States, resulted in a response which warranted the congregation to proceed with the erection of their church. The laying of the corner stone on June 12, 1844, was an event of prime importance in the history of the city, being attended by a pomp and circumstance rare to occasions of that sort in this day and generation. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a long procession formed at the City Hall and, headed by the United States Marine Band, marched through the streets to the site at Eleventh and H.

Prominent among the marchers was former President John Quincy Adams, hale and hearty at seventy-seven years, then known as "the old man eloquent of the House of Representatives." Gen. Van Ness was also in line as were many other distinguished guests, clergymen of various denominations, and members and friends of St. Paul's Congregation and Sunday School, one of the latter bearing a beautiful model of the church. The officers of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the District, in full regalia, assisted by members of subordinate lodges were in attendance, as were also the order of the Sons of Temperance. An immense crowd had assembled at the site.

Service Was Elaborate.

Upon arrival of the procession, the exercises began, being presided over by Dr. A. A. Muller, pastor of the congregation. The third chapter of St. Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians was read by the Rev. William Smith, of Pittsburgh, and prayer was offered by the Rev. Septimus Tustin, chaplain of the Senate. The address of the day was delivered by the Rev. Dr. John G. Morris, president of the general synod of the Lutheran Church. He was followed by the Rev. Dr. Benjamin Kurtz, of Baltimore, who enumerated the various articles, documents, &c., which were deposited in the corner stone. The stone was laid with the assistance of the Masonic ritual. The doxology was read by the Rev. Dr. Samson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Tustin, of the Presbyterian Church.

The corner stone was thus laid under national, civic, Lutheran and interdenominational auspices and showed the widespread interest manifested in the project. St. Paul's continued for 30 years as the only representative of a national Lutheran body in the city of Washington, in 1873, two missions being established by her, one the Memorial Church, on Thomas Circle, and the other the Church of the Reformation on Capitol Hill. Still a third mission, St. Mark's, was organized later by St. Paul's in the Southwest section of the city.

The Epiphany congregation, which separated from the Memorial Church in 1909, laid the corner stone of its chapel at Sixteenth and U streets northwest, on Easter, 1911. The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Steck was then pastor of the church. On April 28, 1926, the St. Paul's and Epiphany congregations voted to merge, taking the old name and charter of St. Paul's and approving the site at Connecticut avenue, Ellicott and Everett streets as the location for the new church, which is now in course of construction.

The pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, has arranged for services every night except Saturday. The Rev. J. E. Cousar, of St. Albans, W. Va., will preach each night, presenting various phases of the home mission work. The following themes have been selected: "The Task," "The Wealth of the Hills," "Our Brothers in Black," "To the Jew First," "Witnesses in Jerusalem." The Rev. J. E. Cousar was formerly a missionary of the Southern Presbyterian Church to Japan, but is now pastor at St. Albans, W. Va.

At First Brethren.

The First Brethren Church, Twelfth and E streets southeast, enters upon its third and final week of evangelistic services, during which the Rev. Charles Ashman, of Johnstown, Pa., has been doing the preaching. Sunday will be decision day in the Sunday school and special services will be held for the children.

Dr. John E. Briggs has closed the revival meeting at the Fifth Baptist Church, which was conducted by the Barker-Martin group. He says it was a wonderful blessing to his people. Already many of the converts have been baptized, and Sunday evening Dr. Briggs will go down under the water with a number of others.

Centennial Baptist Church will close its revival Sunday with Dr. R. E. White doing the preaching and "Radio Charlie" Clark leading the song service. Mr. Clark will also preach Sunday afternoon.

A ten-day Bible conference and evangelistic convention will be conducted by the Rev. Donald Gee, the internationally known preacher, of Edinburgh, Scotland, at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, North Capitol and K streets, beginning tomorrow. Mr. Gee has spoken in the principal cities of Great Britain and is closing a preaching tour of the United States. He will speak especially upon the deeper Christian life, and the ministry and gifts of the Holy Spirit. In addition to his unusual ministry on the spiritual gifts to the church he is an accomplished musician and was organist in one of the larger Edinburgh churches.

He will preach tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., and every evening at 7:45, except Saturdays. He will also give a series of messages on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 2:30 p. m. All interested in the supernatural ministry of the church are invited to hear this noted speaker.

Bishop S. C. Breyfegel Will Preach at Albright

Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, Fourth and Rittenhouse streets northwest, will celebrate the third anniversary of the dedication of its church school building. Bishop S. C. Breyfegel, of Reading, Pa., will be the speaker of the day.

Bishop Breyfegel has been a bishop of the Evangelical Church for the last 39 years. At the recent general conference of the church held at Milwaukee, Wis., he retired from the episcopal office and the general conference made him senior bishop emeritus.

Loving Cup for Pastor.

The Mount Carmel Baptist Church is celebrating its fifty-fourth anniversary and the eighteenth anniversary of the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Jernagin. Dr. C. A. Ward, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will occupy the pulpit all day tomorrow. At 3:30 p. m. he will preach the pastors' anniversary sermon. The exercises will close out Monday night with a reception to the pastor, at which time a loving cup will be presented to the pastor by the Baptist Convention of the District of Columbia and vicinity.

A graduate of St. Andrew's School in Tokyo, he received his theological education at Osaka and in 1898 was ordained a priest of the Episcopal Church. INDUSTRY ALARMED.

Democrats of national prominence have united in a public statement intended to reassure the country that the Democratic victory of last Tuesday will not injure business. The mere fact that such a statement is deemed advisable by Democratic strategists is proof that the political overturn is not a happy thing, so far as an early return of confidence and prosperity is concerned.

The increase of insurgent strength in Congress is the forerunner of agitations and investigations that may greatly hamper the hoped-for business recovery. The stock market interprets the Democratic-insurgent victory of last Tuesday as a bad sign for business. Unemployment will not be lessened by the increase of uncertainty in business and financial circles. Industries that may have been on the verge of signing contracts calling for expanded activities will probably wait now for a return of confidence.

One of the probabilities of the immediate future is a more determined attempt upon the part of advocates of Government ownership to make a breach in the American policy that frowns upon Government participation in business. The chief exponent of socialistic "Government ownership" schemes is Senator Norris, of Nebraska, who can count upon more help than he has heretofore obtained in Congress. Although many Democrats are utterly opposed to Government participation in business, others listen only too credulously to Senator Norris and in specific instances are willing to vote for his proposals. He actually carried through his resolution providing for Government business operations at Muscle Shoals, and only the veto of President Coolidge stopped that plan.

Senator Norris aims his shafts directly at the public utilities—the "power trust," as he calls the aggregation of power and light corporations. It is quite possible that he will bring about investigations of far-reaching consequence, even if he should fail to put the Government into the power business. Tuesday's vote in the Western States can not be construed as a warning to him to desist from his attacks upon the so-called power trust.

The Democratic field marshals who issue the statement designed to reassure American industry would have done well to give some guarantee that the Democratic party will not run amuck with the Norris insurgents in the un-American attempt to put the Government in business. But no such assurance is given, and so the Democratic manifesto lacks convincing force. Industry knows that reckless agitators are about to make trouble in Congress, and that the Democrats signing the "reassurance manifesto" have no control over the Democrats in Congress, to say nothing of the insurgents.

TO STIMULATE CONSUMPTION.

Benjamin M. Anderson, jr., economist of the Chase National Bank in New York, is authority for the statement that "the business depression scare has been overdone." The year 1930, he says, stands well above the year 1921, and the worst of 1930 is not as bad as the worst of 1921. In 1921 the domestic credit situation was very bad, whereas today it is good. In 1921 many of the strongest corporations were suddenly caught with a great volume of unsalable inventory, with a high volume of quick debt, and with very scant reserves of quick assets. Today, these same corporations have moderate or low inventories, very little quick debt, an abundance of cash in bank, and other highly liquid assets. Consumption by the people and retail buying by the people has been, for four or five months, outrunning buying by the retailers and jobbers and has been, for three or four months, outrunning production by the factories. Production has fallen below consumption, even though consumption has declined. Thus does Mr. Anderson analyze the business situation.

If production has fallen below consumption it is only a matter of time until compensating influences must set in. When retail store shelves become visibly depleted, a flow of orders will materialize which, if properly managed, will result in the reestablishment of prosperity. But the prosperity will not be of the sort to which America has become accustomed unless consumption is stimulated to the level of recent years or higher. How can this stimulation be accomplished in the face of the unreasoning and unreasonable reluctance of the American people to spend their money while the depression lasts?

Roger W. Babson, in a current magazine, suggests an answer. The crash was caused, he says, by overproduction, a condition that will correct itself as soon as mass consumption is stimulated to catch up with mass production. There is nothing wrong with the patient, he contends, but poor circulation. Money is being held instead of being circulated. What is needed is a stimulant, and that stimulant is advertising. "The basic cause at which the jobless should shake their fists," says Mr. Babson, "is not that too few mills are running, but that too few advertising campaigns are running."

It is a simple remedy that Mr. Babson proposes, one that has been familiar to business geniuses for years. The founder of the Heinz "57 varieties" establishment was a most careful student of business trends, and it was his invariable practice to increase his advertising appropriation in inverse ratio to the activity of business. But business men have yet to learn to look upon advertising as other than an expense. When money is rolling in they are ready to pay for large advertising campaigns, but when economy becomes necessary they prune their advertising appropriations. The firms that seized upon the recession of business to increase their advertising will reap a double reward when prosperity returns. They will have created a demand for their products, while those who reduced their advertising campaigns will have to build from the bottom.

PROSPECTS FOR 1932.

In the enthusiasm of its victory the Democratic party is inclined to take for granted the election of its candidate for President in 1932. Democratic leaders are busy outlining the policy of the party as if they had already been delegated to take over the reins of government. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has already put his foot down emphatically in an effort to prevent a Roosevelt-for-President boom.

All speculation as to the strength of either party in 1932 is so much wasted breath. The nominations will not be made for more than a year and a half. No one knows what will happen during that time, but it is certain that conditions will be materially changed. Who could foresee a year and a half ago that the fall of 1930 would find the country in the midst of an economic depression? Anything might happen before the people again go to the polls in a national election, and the odds are strongly in favor of an improvement in business conditions.

The very fact that President Hoover swept the country with his Republican victory in 1928, and that two years later the Democrats made extraordinary gains, indicates that the hold of the parties on the people is not very strong. The electorate protested against the depression in spite of the fact that the administration was not responsible for it. If hard times have disappeared by the spring of 1932 they will be forgotten, and the logical swing will be back to Republicanism.

The Democrats will have no chance to enact their program into legislation, whatever it may be. During the short session, beginning next month, Republicans will be in control of the House, and during the long session, commencing a year from December, the membership will be so evenly divided that no political legislation can be enacted. In all probability it will be a stagnant session bristling with recriminations and obstructed by political maneuvers. Of course the Democrats will attempt to blame the Republicans for the deadlock, but if the Republican national committee is on the job the truth will be made known.

The Republican party is fortunate in having the economic slump and the drought occur in the middle rather than at the end of the presidential term. The administration is doing its utmost to prevent suffering and to restore the country to normal conditions. There is every reason to believe that it will succeed, for there is nothing fundamentally wrong with the country. If normal activity is restored before the 1932 preconvention campaigns begin, the administration will have an excellent claim upon the confidence of the people. The energetic and constructive attitude of the Government is at present one of the most potent contributions toward an early restoration of good times.

If the Democrats fail to cooperate in any part of the administration's program for relief they will be held accountable by public opinion. It is more probable, however, that the country will pull itself out of the depression without much help from Congress, and that there will be an entirely new deal before the people again go to the polls.

RUSSIA'S GHASTLY CELEBRATION.

Few more ironical exhibitions have ever been written into history than the celebration of the thirteenth anniversary of the bolshevist regime in Moscow. The masses turned out to commemorate "October day," which marks the commencement of the proletariat revolution.

On this day the working masses of Russia are supposed to have gained their liberty. But they celebrated the event without a vestige of the freedom they expected to obtain under the Communist regime. The so-called "dictatorship of the proletariat" has ruled the working class out of the Communist party, which is in reality the government of Russia. In place of freedom, workmen are drafted into the Soviets' industrial plants. The kulaks, or well-to-do peasants, have been virtually exterminated. Life in Russia is not safe from the secret police. Suspicion reaches everywhere. Soviet envoys to foreign governments desert, and refuse to return to Russia under threat of death. Counterrevolution, which means opposition to the dictatorship in any form, is a capital offense. The whole country is governed by the most ruthless form of martial law. Such are the blessings that have come to Russia under the "proletariat dictatorship."

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign minister, was in Geneva predicting war while the reds celebrated in Moscow. His sarcastic denunciation of European nations for failure to disarm was figuratively lost in the cheers for world revolution from Moscow. While dummy statesmen go abroad to preach the Soviets' bogus dogmas of peace, the Communist regime goes right ahead with its program to overthrow every government in the world by violence.

The most encouraging aspect of the celebration, so far as the peasants were concerned, was a slight increase of rations. Having surrendered what little liberty and self-reliance they had under the old regime the Russian people now survive on handouts from a government that has confiscated all wealth, and enslaves all labor. In honor of the holiday those holding "bread cards" were removed a little further from the danger of starvation.

The cheers that marked the progress of the parade were probably inspired by the hope of these gullible peasants that they are engaged in revolutionizing the world for the benefit of all mankind, and by the propaganda of the dictatorship, which maintains that every other country in the world is being crushed by the curse of capitalism. They celebrate their failure, their degradation and their poverty, and expect the world to be impressed.

Well, the ratifications to the disarmament treaty have been deposited at London and all Uncle Sam now has to do is to build ships.

That $15,000,000 in gold, orphaned by the Brazilian revolution, oughtn't to have much trouble finding a good home.

British scientists have succeeded in growing hair on a watch crystal. Now let 'em try it on the masculine dome.

WASHINGTON BICENTENARY

By Hon. SOL. BLOOM,
Associate Director, George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in the Nation's Capital Magazine.

George Washington, the first great citizen of America, will be honored upon the occasion of the 200th anniversary of his birth in 1932 by the greatest celebration ever organized in this or any other country. The celebration will be Nation-wide in scope and directly sponsored by the Government of the United States. To plan and put into operation this unique event Congress has created a commission officially known as the United States Commission for the Celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the office of public buildings and public parks of the District of Columbia, and I have been appointed associate directors of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission. It is our duty to execute the plans for this gigantic celebration. As this event continues from February 22, 1932, until Thanksgiving Day of that year the associate directors are, indeed, confronted with a huge task. Our aim in this project is to make the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington a Nation-wide affair. We wish every man, woman and child in the United States to participate. We want the celebration to extend into every village, town and city of the entire country. It is for this reason that a national exposition is not being planned. The commission wishes to avoid a geographic concentration of the celebration. With this purpose in view Congress requested the cooperation of all the States of the Union. Many of them already have active George Washington Bicentennial Commissions. The remaining States will undoubtedly appoint such commissions in the near future.

The Federal commission is made up of three main divisions: The division of information and publication, the women's division and the historical division.

The division of information and publication collects and distributes the great quantity of available Washington material. This service answers the hundreds of inquiries which constantly pour in from individuals and societies.

The associate directors of the commission have procured the services of Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, a member of the commission by presidential appointment, to take personal charge of the division of women's activities. This division has originated twelve complete programs for the use of women's organizations during 1931-1932. Copies of the programs or papers can be secured by interested organizations upon request.

In order to guarantee historical accuracy to all publications issued by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission a historical division headed by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard, has been established.

By a special act of Congress the publication of "Washington's Writings" was authorized. Dr. John C. Fitzpatrick, of the Library of Congress, long a leading authority on Washington and his time, was selected by the commission to edit this work. It is expected that the "Writings" will require some 25 volumes. The first of these will appear before the end of this year. These volumes will be printed by the Government Printing Office, and will be sold to the libraries throughout the country at a nominal price—the actual cost of printing.

An interesting project under advisement is the proposed historical motion picture. I have reached a tentative agreement for such a film, but no contract has as yet been signed. The plan is to depict the principal events of George Washington's private and public life. This will be a monumental undertaking, and if carried out successfully will remain as an enduring memorial to "The Father of His Country," and one which will carry the lessons and inspiration of his life to millions of Americans, now and for generations to come.

Besides the above-mentioned projects the commission is also working on other plans. Space permits only the briefest outline of these undertakings.

The commission expects to ask Congress to authorize a medal for appropriate official use. Arrangements are being perfected to hold an exhibition of sculpture, painting and historic objects pertaining to Washington. Special information on colonial gardens, and those of George Washington in particular, is being prepared for distribution. The Government will issue special memorial postage stamps in 1932, and probably there will be special commemorative coins struck. An effort is being made to collect the music of Washington's time, and some leading American composers have consented to write special music in honor of George Washington.

A series of radio broadcasts is being arranged, to bring the message of George Washington to the entire Nation.

A Nation-wide song service is contemplated. More than 120,000,000 people will simultaneously join in singing "America," to honor George Washington on the occasion.

While in Europe during the past summer, I organized committees in several of the principal cities to cooperate with the Bicentennial Commission. My proposals were everywhere received with great enthusiasm, both by Americans living abroad and Europeans representing many nations where Washington is admired and loved. So, Europe will join with America in celebrating the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

THE TREE IN SCARLET.

All year I passed it by.
It merely seemed to me
An ordinary tree
With naught to catch the eye.

Like others of its kind
It stood among a throng,
Neither tall nor strong
With no charm man could find.

That it some purpose had
In that particular spot
All year had struck me not.
'Twas neither good nor bad.

And now these autumn days,
Where scarlet ought to be
That long unnoticed tree
In scarlet ablaze.

A picture past compare
Make all beholders pause;
Perfect the scene, because
That one red tree is there.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: When your mother and I drove up to the college yesterday afternoon and took you out to eat dinner, window shop and see a movie (Poor freshman, you couldn't have been happier to get out of jail!) I observed several things that required comment not easily made at the time.

Prepare yourself for a lecture on styles and art.

We judge the world by the little part of it we see, and you can't be blamed if you think the world's best people wear the exaggerated styles affected by some of the younger social leaders down here in the sticks.

They don't, however. Women of the "half-world" in Paris and women who don't amount to much in this country are the ones that go one step farther than the style makers—that wear dresses three inches shorter than short ones or six inches longer than long ones, that cut the V-neck one notch too low fore and aft and multiply every other oddity of style by two.

The dream of social climbers, as you know, is to be presented to Queen Mary. Girls who make the grade are the "somebodies" of America. Their way of dress may be accepted as the standard for the best kind of people. Isn't that logical? Well, there isn't a flapper type among them—ever. They never adopt freak styles. They spend more for clothes in one season than you'll spend in five years, but their clothes never seem to advertise the fact that they cost much.

Good taste, whatever the style may be, contrives to resemble the plumage of a dove—not that of a parrot.

The flashy finery that reminds you of a backwoods girl dolled up on a circus day is made for the hick trade—not for those who know how to dress right.

Now about art. The art of make-up, in the language of Dad Grady, is to seem what you ain't. A face is powdered, not to resemble a powdered face, but to counterfeit a creamy white skin. Rouge and lipstick are used to give cheeks and lips the natural color of health—not to make them seem artificially colored.

When make-up looks so natural that no one can be quite sure it is make-up it is good art and good taste. When it makes the lips and cheeks too red and the face too white it confesses bad taste and vulgar standards.

I know of few things that more loudly proclaim trash background than a flour-white face, spotted with red, above a neck that looks yellow by contrast.

Powder your nose as you will, honey, but remember that it's bad taste to overdo anything. If you aren't quite sure what good taste is merely avoid the style affected by backwoods flappers. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press

Utilities in for Trouble.

New York Times.

Tuesday was a bad day for the utilities. They had been under fire in a dozen States, and in almost every case electoral victory perched on the banners of their severest critics. In Pennsylvania Gifford Pinchot was elected governor, in New York Franklin Roosevelt, in Wisconsin Philip La Follette. All are foes of what some of them like to call the "power trust." All are dissatisfied with the present-day methods of regulation. Pinchot had a new scheme to propose this time—substitution of an elected "fare rate board" for the existing Public Service Commission. Nebraska returned to the Capital that battle-scarred veteran of utility warfare, George W. Norris, champion of Government ownership and sponsor of the Muscle Shoals bill. East Tennessee rejected Representative Reece because he had led the opposition to the Norris bill in the House. Massachusetts, Montana, Arizona, Colorado, Ohio and Oregon all plumped for candidates who had prodded the utilities, or criticized the commissions, or favored municipal ownership, and in Connecticut a governor was elected who promised to cut the cord between politics and electric light and power.

Now might be a good time for the utilities to take sober thought about the future. They are not blameless.

March of Progress.

Topeka Capital.

The Ellsworth Reporter makes the sweeping statement, without furnishing any data to confirm it, that "the people are not as easily fooled as formerly." At that, it doesn't help much, since the ways of fooling them have improved at least as greatly. This is an age of progress.

Next Year Will Decide.

Topeka Capital.

It is one of the ironies of politics that this reverse to the Republican party should happen under a President who actually has larger legitimate claims to economic leadership than any of his predecessors. In one of the country's severest business recessions President Hoover has saved many jobs by his prompt and wise action. The country is fortunate to have him at the helm.

While the Hoover administration is charged with hard times, as the Coolidge administration profited by good times, yet when normal business is restored Hoover will receive the credit which in the full tide of depression is withheld from him. It is conditions a year hence that will determine how he stands.

Difficult Voting.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Chicago's electors had to wrestle with a ballot of 32 inches square, containing the names of 199 candidates and demanding answers to 25 "assorted questions of public policy"—constitutional amendments, &c., we infer. Each voter, if he did his full duty by that ballot, had to fold and refold it repeatedly and mark 87 crosses in the right places. As mechanical aid to his labors the voting booth was equipped with a "one-foot shelf." One needed no prophetic gift to foresee the slighting, neglect and botching of this complex and voluminous task by hundreds of thousands of voters including no few of the most intelligent and conscientious class.

Look Out for Indigestion.

Atlanta Constitution.

Now that the Democrats have got the candy, they should be careful to have political peppermint handy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Enthusiasts Already Nominating a Democratic Presidential Ticket—W. J. Dwyer Suggests Roosevelt and Bryan.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Because it is illogical I want to take exception to the letter signed "Hickory" in The Post. In it he warns Democracy "that it will sacrifice whatever chance it may have in 1932 if it permits certain purblind politicians to lay stress on "wetness" as an issue in the latter year." Then he names this ticket: For President, Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York; for Vice President, J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

The inconsistency of his ticket lies in the naming of the dripping wet Lewis.

I agree with the statement: "The mushroom wet-dry vote is, I think, the finest example of an unstable equilibrium history has ever furnished." The writer had Franklin Roosevelt nominated by the next Democratic national convention by acclamation more than a year ago, and since Roosevelt's magnificent victory on Tuesday I see no reason to change my opinion.

The vice presidential candidate, however, from a political point of view is equally as important, and for that reason I nominate Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, who has just been elected governor of that State, overcoming a lead of 65,000 votes as compared with the election in 1928. Although he is a dry, I feel sure that he would consent to run with a modificationist at the head of the ticket, since I am certain from a close personal and political association with his brother—William Jennings—that if the latter were living today he would admit after ten years' trial that the eighteenth amendment can not be enforced in the United States and would favor a modification along the lines of government manufacture, control and dispensation, especially since The Commoner went out of his way on numerous occasions to express to me his high regard for Franklin Roosevelt. Charles W. Bryan, as shown in Tuesday's election, would add great strength to the ticket on other issues of the campaign, and is geographically right.

Therefore I nominate this ticket: For President, Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York; for Vice President, Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska.

W. J. DWYER.

Some Factors of Unemployment Situation Overlooked—Three Kinds of Jobless People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No doubt that unemployment is far too great, and every effort to reduce it is praiseworthy, but some of the factors are overlooked when the wail goes up against present conditions. We should note that there are three kinds of jobless people. First, (a) those who are skillful, able and eager and (b) those who are unskillful, though able and eager—new laborers, but deserving. Second, those whose working days are past and would be unable to hold a position or take a job under any conceivable conditions. Third, those who claim to be looking for work, but are praying that they won't find it, many of whom are able to labor and should be, somehow, compelled to do so.

Manifestly, a statement that masses these three strata of idle people and then regards the whole as one is so unfair as to need only to be stated to have the dishonesty of it appear. In such a round-up of those who are not now working a case is made out that must be about 50 per cent off the perpendicular.

If work were instantly provided for every one, within a week many would flunk, and before a month had passed the deserving ones who could perform would be busily happy and the "ranks of the unemployed" would still serve as something to find fault about, and charge the Government with inability to meet a situation that "could be handled by real statesmanship." There is now under way a vast amount of work to be done. There is the usual amount of money in the country. When only a few put their lazy dollars to work the game is not won. There must be teamwork. Empty the old stocking. Start the circulation by buying and paying, and we will have more business, and that means a better market. Restore confidence by your language and your effort. Look at the "doughnut" and forget about the "hole."

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

Private Driver Knocks Taxi Drivers—But Is He as Skillful as They Are?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The traffic regulations provide that the speed limit in the District of Columbia shall be 22 miles per hour. This, seemingly, does not apply to taxicabs, which roll merrily along at a speed in accordance with the mood or need of the hard-boiled egg at the wheel. Thirty, 35 or 40 miles per hour are not unusual speeds for taxicabs, as any motorist can attest. That such speeds are winked at by the police is proved by the negligible number of arrests of taxi drivers.

Does your taxi driver wish to pass a machine on the right, thereby greatly increasing the chances for a smash-up? Well, he just passes on the right. The fourth dimension not yet being discovered, he can only pass on either of two sides, otherwise he would probably choose the third.

The right-of-way at street corners? Pooh! There is no such thing! The taxi driver just steps on the gas and bulls the other fellow into yielding. The taxi driver must take short cuts, and use plenty of speed in order to make a living. I can find nothing in the traffic law or police regulations setting forth this principle, although I read every day of drivers of private cars being arrested for doing the things that are just a part of the everyday routine for the taxi man.

DISARMAMENT BODY STUDIES NAVY LIMIT

Peparatory Commission Now Working on eMthod of Cut in Personnel.

AGREEMENT IS EXPECTED

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The preparatory disarmament commission, now working on a formula to cover the method of the limitation of naval personnel, tomorrow will take up the difficult problem of trained reserves.

The French spokesman, Rene Massigli, today defined his government's desire to fix a limit for the specific category of naval officers, in addition to a total limit for all classes of naval personnel. France, he said, desires to have the treaty specifically prevent a disproportionate number of officers who might be used for the hasty expansion of naval forces.

The American, British, Japanese and Italian delegations, however, maintain that a total limitation of personnel was really all that was necessary.

Netherlands Support France.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian delegate, and V. H. Rutgers, representing The Netherlands, supported France.

N. Sato, of Japan, proposed a scheme of the annual publication of figures on naval personnel as a compromise measure. With this to work on, the problem was turned over to a subcommittee of representatives of the naval powers. It was felt that an acceptable formula could be reached by the subcommittee.

In tomorrow's consideration of the article dealing with trained reserves, Count von Bernstorff, of Germany, will lead the attack against France as the chief exponent of the conscript military system.

The American and British delegations, whose governments follow the professional army system, have indicated they will not press for limitation of trained army reserves. This attitude is regarded in commission circles as a concession to France and the other nations who employ citizen armies and was designed to facilitate an agreement on a draft convention.

Conscript Contingent Issue.

Count von Bernstoff again will offer a resolution which calls for the limitation of the annual contingent summoned for military service. France, it is understood, will stand by the text adopted on the first reading which provides for limitation of the period of service, but makes no reference to the size of the annual contingent.

Germany, limited to a small professional army by the treaty of Versailles, would like to have some limit put on the number of men called each year for military training by her neighbor states—France, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The United States and Great Britain have expressed the feeling that this question chiefly concerns the continental powers which rely primarily on armies for defense.

Mine Death Toll Is Raised to 83

Four More Bodies Found at Explosion Scene in Ohio.

Millfield, Ohio, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The deep tunnels of No. 6 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Co., gave up the bodies of four more miners late today, bringing to 83 the known dead in last Wednesday's explosion. Discovery of the bodies was made by fellow miners and inspectors of the Federal Bureau of Mines.

Immediately after being brought to the top of the 180-foot shaft, the additional victims were taken to one of the three store rooms that have been transformed into temporary morgues.

Search for these four men was started after a checkup revealed they were unaccounted for in the explosion, although rescuers expressed the belief that the bodies found today were all that remained in the mine, search of the tunnels will be continued by miners and inspectors.

Health Talks for Young To Be Broadcast Today

In her conversation with Dr. Anderson into the microphone, the little girl is expected to tell something of her daily experiences at the camp and of the health program arranged there for the 60 children under supervision.

U. S. S. Galveston Listed By Navy for Disposal

(Associated Press.)

The U. S. S. Galveston, 25-year-old cruiser of the second line, yesterday was stricken from the Navy register and listed for disposal.

The vessel was built in 1905 and on its first voyage formed part of the squadron which brought the body of John Paul Jones to the United States. During the war, the Galveston was used as a convoy for cargo ships across the Atlantic. The vessel was decommissioned September 2, 1930, at Philadelphia.

Verdict Against Thaw Is Reversed by Court

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—A verdict against Harry K. Thaw awarding $25,000 damages to Marcia Estardus, night club hostess, for injuries she alleged Thaw inflicted at a New Year's Eve party in 1926, was reversed today by the appellate division of the State Supreme Court.

A jury a year ago awarded Miss Estardus $75,000 damages, but Supreme Court Justice Levy later reduced the award by two-thirds. The appellate division held the verdict to be "against the weight of credible evidence."

Former Bank President Gets Seven-Year Term

Mansfield, La., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Guy F. Provost, former president of the Mansfield Bank of Commerce & Trust Co., today pleaded guilty to five counts of mishandling the bank's funds and was sentenced to a total of seven years in the State Penitentiary.

Provost's alleged peculations amount to about $90,000.

ITALIANS ARREST 20 IN ANTIFASCIST PLOT

Statesman of Old Regime Is Confined to Island After Trial.

DRIVE ON REDS STARTED

Rome, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The government today announced, through the official Stefani News Agency, that some 20 persons had been arrested in alleged anti-Facist plots and that other investigations were under way.

The communique asserted that the arrests occurred in the days preceding the anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome (October 28), and charged that those held had prepared criminal actions against the regime in concert with anti-Fascist elements in Paris.

Word came from Milan that the announcement created much excitement there, since it is understood the plot centered in that city.

Statesman Is Exiled.

Among those arrested in Milan thus far is Bartelo Belotti, a statesman of the old regime, who was sentenced to confinement on an island for political prisoners.

It is reported other prominent Milanese are involved, including a prominent lawyer who formerly was a city official, another lawyer supposed to be active in Italian Free Masonry, and a widely known Socialist. Aside from Belotti, however, there has been no official confirmation of the complicity of these others.

Men of prominence also are under suspicion elsewhere. Giuseppe Rensi, professor of philosophy at the University of Genoa, also had been sentenced to imprisonment upon an island, while Ernesto Rossi, 34-year-old instructor of political economy in the University of Bergamo, was taken to Rome today for questioning. As Prof. Rossi's train reached Viareggio today he escaped from four detectives by leaping out of a window, but was found later.

Continues Drive on Reds.

At Padua four persons have been arrested on charges of anti-Fascism and will be tried before a special tribunal in Rome.

Meanwhile, the government is continuing a drive against Communists and was especially active today, the thirteenth anniversary of the red revolution.

Several men were arrested today at Empoli, near Florence, on charges of distributing Communist literature, while nine Milan reds were on trial in Rome today under similar accusations. In addition, eight Milan street railway employes, accused of Communistic leanings, already have been sentenced.

Vatican City, Nov. 7 (A.P.—Mgr. Pumasoni Biondi, apostolic delegate of the Holy See in the United States may very likely be created cardinal in a consistory Pope Pius is understood to be contemplating for the middle of December.

Mgr. Pumasoni Biondi, it was appointed out, has been in his present important post since) 1922 and the time may well be considered ripe to recall him for an imporatnt post in the Curia. This is a customary proceeding with papal diplomats who have distinguished themselves in long service in posts abroad.

New York Pedestrian Shot Down From Auto

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Driving west through 118th street in Harlem early today, four gunmen in a small sedan shot at close range and critically wounded a pedestrian, who identified himself as Joseph Trambaturi, 40. A short distance away the gunmen threw a shotgun and an automatic rifle from their car and sped away. Police were unable to question the victim because of his condition.

Notale Durso, 38, a wholesale grape dealer, was killed under similar circumstances in 116th street last night.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The list price for shots at former husbands was quoted at $2.50 each today in police court here. Mrs. Roy Bingham took two shots and was fined $5.

LABOR PARTY LOSES BY-ELECTION SEAT

Position of MacDonald Held to Be Growing Steadily More Uncertain.

EMPLOYMENT IS ISSUE

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Labor party lost to the conservatives today what was considered a safe seat in a by-election at Shipley, and tonight political commentators were of the opinion the position of the Ramsay MacDonald government was steadily growing weaker.

"I suppose my defeat was due to my being caught in a whirlpool of discontent arising from the growing unemployment figures," said the Labor candidate, W. A. Robinson, after the results was declared.

Experienced observers agreed with his diagnosis tonight and commented that the unemployment problem had become so serious its solution had become a matter of life and death to the Labor government.

Depend on Liberal Party.

The administration is kept in office only by support of the Liberal party, which holds the balance of power, but certain Liberals now are inclined to slip away and have found a powerful leader in Sir John Simon, who voted against the government in an important division Tuesday night that the MacDonald party won by only 31 votes.

Sir John also has informed David Lloyd George, Liberal chieftain, that in the future he will vote as his conscience dictates irrespective of political tactics.

Thus with the Conservatives heartened by the result at Shipley, with a number of Liberal votes likely to stray away, and with its own left wing in a restless condition, the Labor government is felt to be in a precarious position.

Election Predicted Next Year.

Most commentators believe the government might fall any day were it not for the British imperial conference and the forthcoming Indian round-table meeting, which all parties are eager to assist.

As it is, experts predict the general election for early next year.

In the Shipley election J. H. Lockwood, Conservative, was elected with 15,238 votes. The Labor candidate received 13,873, while A. Davy, Liberal, tallied 12,785.

E. B. M'LEAN SUED IN MAINTENANCE CASE

serts that in order to do this she has been compelled to sell "securities as a sacrifice on a falling market." She tells the court that at present her income is insufficient to meet demands.

Tells of Husband's Travels.

Continuing, Mrs. McLean states that after her husband left Friendship and took up his residence at the H street address he went to Los Angeles, Calif., where he maintained an establishment for some months. During the winter of 1929-1930, she avers, he went to Palm Beach, Fla., and maintained an establishment there. In the summer, she says, he went to Atlantic City, N. J. All these establishments, the wife tells the court, were maintained for the benefit of her husband, his friends and his associates.

Mrs. McLean also points out to the court that her husband maintains an apartment in the Ritz Hotel, New York City; has two Rolls Royce, one Packard and one Dusenberg automobiles, and at one time owned a private railroad car.

In addition, Mrs. McLean states that it requires the expenditure of at least $4,000 a month to support the minor children in their usual station in life.

Friendship Costs $4,500 Monthly.

She also explains that the upkeep of the Friendship estate averages about $4,500 a month "upon a more economical basis than when the said Edward Beale McLean lived there," and she asserts she has spent at least $50,000 of her own money for improvements.

Mr. McLean, according to the wife's petition, receives $25,000 fixed annual income from his father's estate, and also the entire residuum of the estate. He owns a 2,600-acre stock farm near Leesburg, Va., estimated to be worth $200,000, while blooded horses and cattle at the place are estimated to be worth $800,000. The wife states that the farm was purchased with money received from his mother's estate. It also is asserted that he owns a $30,000 ducking camp on the Potomac River, and that two years ago he received outright $200,000 from the estate of a relative and sent the proceeds to New York City for safe keeping. The wife also mentions her husband's newspapers—The Washington Post and The Cincinnati Enquirer.

STORMS THREATEN DO-X FLIGHT TODAY

WALES' GREETING LOOMS

Amsterdam, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Stiff winds whistled across the English channel tonight; gale warnings were hoisted at Calshot, the naval base near Southampton, and prospects for tomorrow's promised flight of the seaplane DO-X to England were not promising.

Nevertheless, the big plane's crew proceeded with preparations for their salt water debut—a flight to Calshot on the second stage of a transatlantic voyage to New York by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

The 400-mile stretch of open water between here and England would consume not more than 3½ hours. At Southampton, it was reported, both the German Embassy and the British Air Ministry had invited 200 guests to witness the arrival of the biggest seaplane in the world.

Designer to Make Trip.

It was thought possible the Prince of Wales might fly over from London in his private plane to take part in the reception.

A crew of 15 and 21 passengers are to make this first flight of the DO-X between two important seaports, and with only 36 aboard the ship will be flying light, for on her trials she has carried as many as 169.

Dr. Claude Dornier will be aboard, together with two representatives of the Italian government, for which the Dornier Works is building two sister ships of the DO-X. The others will be newspaper representatives.

Ship Battles Snow.

Today the great plane carried several passengers on a brief flight over this vicinity, cutting into cold winds with brief snow flurries. It took her only 40 seconds to lift herself off the water after her twelve engines were started.

The National Air Council of Portugal removed what might have been an obstacle to the first leg of the Atlantic flight today by granting formal permission for the ship to land at Horta, in the Azores. It had been thought for a time the Franco-Portugese monopoly might make such a landing impossible.

According to present plans the DO-X will reach Lisbon on November 12, and leave for Horta three days later.

I. C. C. Ends Fight On B.&O. Bus Line

Refuses to Interfere With Passenger Transfer Into New York.

(Associated Press.)

A refusal to interfere with the Baltimore & Ohio's bus line operation for passenger transfer from trains into New York City was announced yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It dismissed a petition by the Pennsylvania Railroad which asked an investigation into the Baltimore & Ohio arrangements and alleged that they constituted a discrimination under Interstate commerce law. No statement accompanied the commission's order.

Since the inauguration of passenger bus transport several years ago by the Baltimore & Ohio, a long contest by that company and the Pennsylvania has been maintained. The Pennsylvania was refused permission to establish the type of bus service it desired, as a result of the Baltimore & Ohio appeal to the commission, and the further move in the contest resulted in yesterday's order.

U. S. Orders Pensacola To Return From Brazil

The U. S. S. Pensacola, 10,000-ton cruiser, which was ordered to Bahia, Brazil, to stand-by to aid American refugees during the Brazilian revolution, was ordered yesterday to return to home waters.

Capt. A. G. Howe, in command of the Pensacola, has been ordered to report to Vice Admiral Arthur L. Willard, commander of the scouting fleet. The vessel is scheduled for routine overhaul on November 17 at the New York Navy Yard.

POSTAL CHIEF

THOMAS M. MILLIGAN

MAIL-THEFT SOLVER TO BE POSTAL CHIEF

DENIES ANY ROMANCE

(Associated Press).

Thomas M. Milligan, who has solved thousands of minor mysteries besides playing the detective role in two mail robberies of million-dollar proportions, yesterday became chief inspector of the postal service.

To his important office, he brought the picturesque background of 18 years in the inspection service, the two outstanding events being the Rondout, Ill., $2,500,000 mail robbery of 1924, and the $1,000,000 Toledo, Ohio, mail truck robbery of 1921.

Milligan succeeded the late William R. Spilman, who died August 25. He had been serving since Spilman's death as acting chief.

A disclaimer of the romance in solving mysteries, a disbeliever in the supersleuth, Milligan presented no poker-face as he answered questions yesterday.

The detective stories which are said to be the hobby of President Hoover and many other prominent men have no lure for Milligan. He doesn't even read them, he said.

"The stage play stuff is all right for headlines, but it doesn't exist in actual practice," was the comment of the chief inspector. "Hard work and patience, the following up of every clew, common sense—that's what solves most of the postal theft problems."

Famous $2,500,000 Robbery.

The Rondout robbery was one of the most spectacular postoffice annals. It was the only case in which a postoffice inspector ever turned big-time bandit. William J. Fahy, "ace of postoffice inspectors," organized a band of desperadoes that held up and robbed the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train. Milligan was one of a small group of inspectors who solved the crime, recovered all but $14,000 of the stolen currency and coupon bonds, and gave evidence which placed the conspirators in Federal prison.

Worked Year on Case.

The Toledo truck robbery, complicated because 15 or 20 persons, several of them women accomplices, were involved, was just another year's work to Milligan, recovering bonds and returning them to insurance companies. Unlike the detectives of the customs service, Milligan said, the postal inspectors seldom are aided by voluntary informers.

"When we get a tip-off, we consider it a very lucky break," he said.

SANDINO'S FIGHTERS BLAMED FOR ATTACK

Five National Guardsmen Slain or Captured in Attack on Outpost.

MARINES FLY OVER AREA

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 7 (A.P.). Headquarters of the Nicaraguan National Guard announced today its outpost at Matiguas, in the Department at Matigalpa, had been besieged on Wednesday by a band believed to have been followers of Augusto Sandino, insurgent leader, and that five guardsmen had been killed or captured.

The ten men stationed at Matiguas made a brave defense for several hours, the announcement said, killing several of the attacking party before five of the garrison fled to an outpost 15 miles to the south.

United States Marines made an air reconnaisance of the vicinity today, reporting the Matiguas barracks burned to the ground. There was no sign of the attacking party, but ten mounted men, sighted several miles to the south of the outpost, were bombed from the plane until they fled into the jungle.

The Liberal newspaper La Noticia cited the reported attack today as an argument against contemplated reduction of the national guard forces.

Trusty Shoots Convict Attempting to Escape

Parchman, Miss., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—After having overpowered one guard and shot at another, Louis Griffin, Negro serving a life term at the State Prison Farm here, was shot and killed today by Jeff Atkinson, a white trusty.

The Prison Farm officials said Griffin and another Negro, Charles Callahan, serving two years, overpowered a guard at a molasses mill where they were working, and took the guard's pistol.

Atkinson was sentenced in Leake County to a life term for having killed a Federal officer.

Seeker of Junior Plane Mark Lands at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Stanley Boynton, 18, landed his plane at the municipal airport at 4:30 p. m. today from Kansas City in his attempt to set a new West-East junior transcontinental flight record.

He said he would take off at daybreak tomorrow for New York and did not know where he would stop for refueling. Boynton left Amarillo, Tex., at 7:15 a. m. today and made stops at Wichita, Kansas City and Moline before reaching Chicago.

Cashier Held for $160,000 Theft.

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The arrest in Nashville, Tenn., of William H. Hoppy, cashier of William H. Hussey & Co., New York wholesale plumbing supply firm, was reported today to the district attorney's office. Tugs Try to Refloat Oil Tanker in Pacific

San Francisco, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Pounded by a rough tide, the Richfield Oil Co's. tanker Tamiahua, which nosed into the Pescadero Beach sands 50 miles south of here in a fog last night, was in grave danger of being cracked up today. A crew variously estimated at between 40 and 50 men remained aboard.

Three tugs, lashed together, heaved against the mighty strength of the Pacific to free the vessel from the sands. Meanwhile Capt. George Anderson and his crew lined the tanker's rail watching rescue operations.

One Killed in Building Collapse.

Jacksonville, Tex., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—One workman was killed and eight or ten others, all Negroes, were injured dangerously when a Negro ward building at the Rusk State Hospital, 15 miles south of here, collapsed today. The building was undergoing repairs.

300 More Clerks Urged To Speed Pension Work

(Associated Press.)

Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, yesterday urged Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of Veterans' Administration, to call on the Civil Service Commission for 300 additional clerks to expedite disbursement of pension awards to 100,000 Spanish War pensioners.

Congress increased Spanish War pensions last June and November 4, Kelly said, was fixed as an arbitrary date when added payments would begin. Due to the checking of applications from veterans, widows and dependent children, he said, the pension bureau was unable to issue checks, although most of the applications have been certified as payable claims. Kelly said the action would cause money to be put in circulation and give employment to some 300 idle clerks in Washington.

JURY ADMITS DEFEAT IN CRATER MYSTERY

POWERS ARE EXTENDED

New York, Nov. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The county grand jury today formally presented to the court its findings in the inquiry which the grand jury itself proclaims to be unique and unprecedented—the disappearance of Justice Joseph Force Crater, who dropped out of sight here the night of August 6 under circumstances, and for reasons which, the investigating body admits, it has been utterly unable to fathom.

To the grand jurors, who held 16 sessions and examined 95 witnesses since it began its deliberations September 15, the disappearance, first announced September 4, is as much a mystery as to the friends of the missing former political figure.

Expressing the desire to be held subject to further call by the court should Mrs. Stella Crater, the justice's wife, present herself, or matters of importance develop, the jurors state that:

"We have examined all persons who, so far as we are aware other than Mrs. Crater, could give testimony in aid of our inquiry. The evidence is insufficient to warrant any expression of opinion as to whether Crater is alive or dead or as to whether he has absented himself voluntarily or is a sufferer from disease in the nature of amnesia or the victim of a crime."

Baffled by Mrs. Crater.

Mrs. Crater, whose persistence in remaining in Maine out of the county jurisdiction is another mystery to the authorities, is referred to in one paragraph which reads:

"We have fruitlessly endeavored to induce Mrs. Crater to appear before us and give testimony."

The grand jurors made one other request of the court—that the minutes of the inquiry be filed and made available to the police and the public.

General Sessions Judge Collins took the matter under advisement but indicated refusal when he said that such a course might establish a bad precedent. Judge Collins then extended the powers of the grand jury until January 8 when it is conceivable Mrs. Crater may have returned to her town home here.

Seen at Mayor's Office.

While no clue is divulged in the sixteen-page report of the jurors and these admit "we have explored and exhausted every avenue of investigation," much new evidence, some of this with a seeming political slant, is uncovered.

One such bit of evidence is testimony of a luncheon on July 21 which the jurors state Crater attended with Martin J. Healy and Frank Crater, the jurist's father. The place of the luncheon is not divulged.

But "later that same day," the report continues, "he was seen by the said Healy at or near the mayor's office." The luncheon and call at City Hall was followed, the jurors state, by a meeting of Healy's Cayuga Democratic Club of which Crater was president until his appointment to the bench last April.

Attaches of the mayor said tonight that if Crater called at City Hall he failed to see the city's executive.

Girl Held in Death Tells of Romance

Furrier Killed Self After Trying to Slay Her, She Tells Police.

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Vera Thompson, 24, divorcee, tonight told of her four-year romance with Samuel Bauer to policemen who had sought her after finding Bauer shot to death in his automobile. Bauer, a furrier, married and father of five children, had contributed to her support, she said, since the day she took a coat into his shop for repairs. Last night, while riding, she continued, he accused her of going out with other men. When she denied it, he drew a pistol.

She struggled with him, she claimed, and he pulled the trigger. One bullet carried away two fingers of her left hand one struck her in the right side. She fainted, she said, recovering to find Bauer dead beside her, a bullet through his head.

Police Capt. Thomas Duffy said later that he believed the girl's story and will recommend a verdict of suicide to the coroner's jury.

Airplane Strikes High-Tension Wire

Two Passengers Thrown Into River and Escape With Bruises.

Narrows, Va., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—An airplane carring two passengers struck an 88,000-volt line here today, hurtled upsidedown into the New River, a few yards away, and its occupants emerged only slightly injured.

The pilot, Harvey Amos of Bluefield, W. Va., was strapped in the cockpit and was stunned when the plane struck the water. A passerby, Dr. C. M. Newton, saw the accident. Directed by the plane's passenger, Herman Doyle, Dr. Newton waded in and rescued Amos.

Doyle had jumped after the plane hit the transmission line. He and Amos were cut and bruised, but apparently that was all. The plane had circled the town of Narrows twice, and was heading for a field across the river.

ORPHANAGE OFFICER IS DECLARED GUILTY

trustees in June, Jones made a settlement of $14,000 cash, and later another settlement of obligations amounting to approximately $23,000, which the trustees pronounced satisfactory to them. In the meantime, however, the commonwealth's attorney made an investigation which resulted in Jones' indictment.

At the trial the superintendent of the orphanage, a member of the Board of Trustees and an auditor testified that Jones had admitted using $20,000 of orphanage funds in his furniture business. Other witnesses who said they were present when Jones was alleged to have made this statement denied that he had done so.

The case against Jones was based principally on the audit made by F. L. Worcester, of Richmond. Worcester's figures being returned in the indictments. Another auditor, J. M. Culbreth, was engaged by Jones to check Worcester's figures. On the witness stand Culbreth admitted 71 errors in his testimony and his evidence later arraigned by both prosecution and defense counsel. Jones was released on $15,000 bond.

Germany's Reported Tobacco Duty Rise Hit

(Associated Press.)

Reports that Germany was planning a heavy increase in its duty on leaf tobacco have led Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, to seek the aid of the State Department in an effort to prevent such action.

Virginia tobacco growers protested to Senator Swanson. He visited the State Department and Ambassador Frederic Sackett, former Kentucky senator, was informed of the situation.

No Relief Session Needed in Virginia

Gov. Pollard Says Assembly Will Not Be Called for Drought Measures.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard said today no extra session of the Virginia General Assembly would be called to consider drought relief measures.

Commenting on a statement of Lieut. Gov. James H. Price, urging a special session to provide from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 additional for road construction, Gov. Pollard said the Assembly could not raise the money except by levying additional taxes. He said the constitution prevented the Assembly borrowing money except by popular vote and then to a limited extent. Road construction has been urged to furnish employment. The governor said conditions might arise to warrant a special session, but that he did not think such conditions exist today.

A Feast that doesn't cost a fortune

* Look for the Red, White and Blue Package

As a Change from Potatoes

YOU can prepare a really sumptuous meal at very little cost. Just for a change, serve MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI. It is so tasty and tender that it makes a tempting dish, even when served plain without any flavoring but pan-gravy or butter.

The Mueller Recipes

There is also a wide variety of appetizing ways of serving—all most inexpensive and all highly nourishing. Why not try this one?

SPAGHETTI CHOP SUEY

1 pkg. MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI; 2 tbsps. butter; 2 green peppers, chopped; 2 onions, chopped; ½ pound ground round steak; 1¼ cups chopped celery; 3 cups tomatoes; 1 tsp. salt; 1 tsp. sugar; ¼ tsp. pepper. Parboil spaghetti 7 min. in 4 qts. boiling water, with 1 tbsp. salt. Drain. Melt butter in frying pan; add peppers, onions and celery; cook slowly 10 min. Add tomatoes, seasonings, cook till mixture thickens; add spaghetti and cook slowly for ½ hr. Fry round steak in small cakes, crumble over top of mixture. Serve hot. Mushrooms may be substituted for steak.

Lightest and "Fluffiest"

The choice farina-blend used—the most nourishing part of the wheat—and the special Mueller processes make this better spaghetti an ideal food both for children and adults. It cooks up lighter and "fluffier" than any other. Easy to prepare, easy to eat, and easy to digest.

Boil for 9 Minutes

—in four quarts of water, with one tablespoonful of salt. In this way you avoid overcooking. If especial tenderness is desired, one or two minutes more may be allowed. And—when you ask your grocer—be sure to say "MUELLER'S." He has it, or can get it for you.

DALE WIMBROW, who was born in Whaleyville, Md., in 1895, and is a graduate of the Western Maryland College, came into his own in the sphere of radio entertainment through an accident. He was a tenor and could reach high C with no effort at all, until he was gassed in the war.

As a result his vocal cords were affected and his voice became a croak, good for nothing except imitations of Bert Williams and Sir Harry Lauder. The experience apparently also developed his sense of humor, with the result that he is now a leading radio comedian.

A joke going the rounds as to the reason for Amos 'n' Andy's picture closing yesterday was that the toothpaste people who sponsor them "had removed the film."

An odd musical instrument is an old vinegar jug used by the Levee Band in the Southland Sketches (WRC, Sunday, 3:30 p. m.), a feature well worth tuning in on.

OPENING the winter series of the National Radio Forum, facts concerning the general welfare of the children of America will be told tonight by Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur, chairman of the White House conference on child health and protection (WMAL, 9:30 p. m.).

The child health conference was formed more than a year ago by President Hoover and will convene in Washington November 19. Dr. Wilbur will explain the purposes and scope of the meeting in his radio talk.

The program to be played by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra tomorrow afternoon will be as follows:

Little Symphony (1st performance by N. Y. Philharmonic), Krenek; Tone Poem "Don Juan," Strauss; Salome's Dance, Strauss; Symphony No. 3 (first performance by N. Y. Philharmonic), Schubert; four German dances—a, Minuet, b. Canary Bird, c. Organ Grinder, d. Sleigh Ride (first performance by N. Y. Philharmonic), Mozart; Waltz, "Spherenklange," Joseph Strauss.

Toscanini will take the stand a week from Sunday and continue directing the Philharmonic's radio concerts throughout the remainder of the year.

SPIKING rumors that have been afloat in Washington the past week, Sam Pickard denies that he is to resign as vice president of Columbia.

"Absolutely nothing to it," said Sam. "Things were never sweeter and I can not understand how such a report got started."

7:30 p. m.—(WMAL) Chevrolet Chronicles.

8 p. m.—(WRC) Address by President Hoover from the White House.

9 p. m.—(WMAL) Concert by the Tuesday Evening Club.

10:15 p. m.—(WJSV) Dance Orchestra.

They have quite a laugh around the New York radio studios when persons inquire for this or that orchestra. As a matter of fact, although the conductors change during the evening, all of them having big names, the orchestras, that is to say the musicians themselves, frequently remain the same.

In other words, it is the same group of musicians with a different conductor. Some of the big radio orchestras, therefore, exist in name only.

VERDI'S REQUIEM will be given tomorrow afternoon as a tribute to the men who were killed in the World War (WMAL, 2 p. m.).

A Danish ship building company, in reply to a cablegram from the United States, forwarded by facsimile radio telegraphy, machine drawings of a Diesel motor so that repairs could be made upon a ship laid up in an American port.

The drawing was sent in four parts, and was received by the inquirer within 24 hours, a saving of ten to twelve days. This is believed to be the first time machinery drawings have been sent by radio photography.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York Nov. 7.

I DO firmly believe that instinctive daintiness nd refinement are purely physical and feminine qualities. That every woman is born with them in a more or less degree, and that they are developed either environmentally in childhood, or with conscious effort in later years.

Some of us develop these qualities more than others. Many women who think that they are as dainty as they can possibly be, are—as dainty as they can possibly be—for themselves. But they overlook extending this instinctive refinement to others with whom they come in contact. More intelligent women realize to what extent daintiness should be carried, not only for themselves, but in their civilized life.

And that, my darlings, is the morning's effort, inspired by the perfectly glorious and helpful and clever idea we have just finished perfecting for you! No, it wasn't mine, this time nor even one of the gang's—'twas the idea of the lovely white lady who has a big name in radio, you know her.

But we had to figure it out, because it took that to perfect, and now it is perfect, and all you have to do is make out that stamped, self-addressed envelope and send it to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the directions for making it, and you will—er, where am I? Oh, yes, I haven't told you what it is yet! Well, it's called the "Hot Water Bag Hidey," which should explain itself to you. Yes, indeed, a clever and attractive thumagig that hangs on the bathroom or closet door, and completely hides your hot-water bag from sight—not to mention keeping it where you won't have a bit of trouble ever finding it. How's that for a big idea for this new leaflet?

Oh-h-h, yesterday I forgot to tell you that "sequins" were "paillettes," too—what we used to call spangles!

• • • •

And one must be careful of all that glitters, whether it be gold or sequins or strass. For the dress that outglitters one's personality is the Christmas tree lost in the woods with all the other lovely snow and frost covered fir trees, if you see what I mean. Only a very striking, strong and vividly colored type can wear jewels and dresses that glitter, and not be outshone.

• • • •

'Nif you haven't all the lovely tea sets that your heart desires, either for yourself or for Christmas gifts, there is still time to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet of new designs for these charming sets.

• • • •

Watch for a new serious-les next week entitled "She Fell to Pieces." Neavah mind who—watch and you may find out it is you yer vewy own self!

• • • •

Yes, certain of the very haute of them still sponsor artificial flowers for trimming—boutonniers, corsages, shoulder ornaments, &c. But, only a very few in each collection, just enough to show one that the wearing of flowers artificial or any other kind, is entirely a matter of personal taste, not a style matter these days. Molyneux, Patou, Chanel, Poiret—all show an occasional flower trimming, that's all.

• • • •

And tomorrow you may read again our weekly fashion letter. It'll be in The Sunday Washington Post as usual.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the name of the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf. MRS. H. F. S.

Leaf resembles a blade of grass.

Please tell me why the leaves of my nasturtiums turn yellow and the flowers become smaller each week. The plants to which I refer are in a porch box. Plants from the same seed, but planted in a southern exposure, are doing very well, indeed. MRS. ARTHUR L. D.

Lack of sun is probably the cause of your nasturtiums not having larger flowers and leaves. Next season better plant these boxes with begonias, which will tolerate shade, and plant your nasturtiums in the sun.

Please tell me the name of the bush from which the inclosed flower was taken. MISS F. E. B.

The flower and leaves resemble those of the crepe myrtle.

Please tell me what time of the year the flowers on a Jerusalem cherry should be allowed to mature in order to have the plant in fruit at Christmas. A READER.

The Jerusalem cherry usually sets its fruit in the late summer; it ripens after the plant is indoors. After it sets fruit, keep in a cool but very sunny place, as too much dry, warm air always causes the fruit to drop off.

I am inclosing a leaf and also the insect which is ruining the plant. Please tell me what to do to save my plant. I am very fond of coleus and do not want it to die. M. L. J.

Your coleus has been attacked by mealy bug. Better begin to spray it regularly every day with cold, soapy water. With such treatment you will soon get rid of these insects. Coleus are prone to attacks of the mealy bug.

I have a snake plant which requires transplanting. Please tell me when to do this work and the kind of soil to use, also the amount of water to give the plant. I would also like to know the winter care of a rose geranium. M. P.

You can transplant a snake plant at any season. You must do the work whenever you feel that the plant is potbound. The sansevieria requires water when in a warm, dry atmosphere about three times a week. Give it enough water at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot. Keep your rose geranium in a warm, sunny, well ventilated place and water it every day.

Please tell me if the inclosed twig is from a filbert nut tree; also why it fails to produce nuts of it is this species. M. P.

The leaves are from a filbert nut tree. Possibly it is not old enough to bear nuts.

Please tell me what to do to make a large poinsettia bloom at Christmas, also tell me the name of the inclosed leaves which come from a hardy shrub of some sort. A. F. K.

At this season your poinsettia should be in a warm, sunny room where there is plenty of fresh air at all times. It should be thoroughly watered every day and a little later, when the buds begin to show color, it should be given some food in the form of liquid manure. I am sorry, but the leaves submitted were in such a broken condition that I could tell nothing about them.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Can a Libertine Settle Down?

CAN a libertine change the ways of a life time and settle down to being a husband and father? Madge has gone out into the open market and picked herself a nice batch of assorted trouble in the form of a slick looking affair aged 40, which she describes as a libertine, but who sounds to us more like a cheap imitation. Madge would like to tame this and set up housekeeping with it, while Madge's parents threaten violence and pray for help. Madge, if you can believe it, is nearly but not quite of age. She has everything that a girl could ask at home, but she is ready to forsake father, mother and home for this interesting specimen that she has found in some dark corner and dragged out into the light. Can you imagine what is in store for Madge?

Dear Mrs. McDonald:

I am almost of age and ought to know what I want, as I have been in love dozens of times. This is different. I met him—never mind where—but it was love at first sight on both sides. He did not know anything about my circumstances so my father's accusation that he was after a living is just one of those things. We were in love before we even knew each other's names. Here is the trouble. My people are the thick-headed type. They can not imagine any one being different from some one else. People do this and do not do that, &c. You know the type. Even if they knew that it would wreck my life they would not be embarrassed by an "unusual" marriage in the family. The family is so old it creaks. Well, this is getting no where. I want to marry the man and was fool enough to tell them instead of just going off and explaining after. He was against what he called ill-advised conduct. Well, I broke the news. And just because it wasn't Lindbergh, the family reared up on end.

Here's the story. He hasn't been much. That I will admit. He is a libertine. But so was Byron, wasn't he? Anyway, he says that only the future counts and that it is only in the United States that people are always talking about morals. He says discussing people's morals in public is a lot more immoral than doing the things Americans talk about. I do not get what he means, but I thing he is honest to admit his past.

My side is this. I do not like the man I go with. If I do not marry him I marry no one at all. I love this man and he loves me. Whose business is the rest? Is it unknown for a libertine to settle down when he meets the right woman? On second thought, I will tell you the truth. He sings in a cabaret. That in itself would down him with the clan even if he were a saint. But he has been mixed up in some things, all years ago. He is 40. Well, you just can't imagine. Mother says it is the "vulgarity." Father says it is the "menace" of these people. I just look on and hope they are having a good time.

I am no fool. If chances are all against it, I will recover. But are they? He is priceless. He cares for nobody. I told him about father and he said, "Well, Lord help him, according to his light he is doing his duty." Not excited at all. They picture him shooting up the house or something. It is so silly. He is just a good-looking somebody, always in a lovely humor, always doing what he wants, always looking forward to tomorrow, never cross, and never worried. Full of fun. And could marry lots of women with more money than I will ever see. Dance. Oh, how that man can dane. Gorgeous hair and gorgeous smile. He admits that he adores all women. I try to pin him down about the future, but all he says is "Please do not be vulgar." Would he settle down? MADGE.

Madge, you know very well that when a man is a "libertine," as you call your Apolio, he is that because his make-up prevents his being anything else. Your dad knows it. Every thinking being knows it. Why be just one more disillusioned woman in his train? Take a trip to California. And leave the sheik at home.

His Own Bookshelf.

We want every child to acquire a genuine love of books.

He should treat them carefully and enjoy their contents from the time he thumbs his way through his animal picture book to the day when he is able to appreciate his father's library.

A child whose books are jostled about among his toys or thrown into corners because there is no particular place to put them can scarcely be expected to value either his own books or others'.

He should be trained from the very beginning to handle books carefully. He may be taught to turn the pages without tearing them and always to put them back where they belong when he is through.

It is an essential part of this training to give him from the start a proper place in which to keep his own books.

If he has a room of his own there should be a shelf reserved just for them. Otherwise, a shelf should be set aside in the family living room.

He is likely to handle all books more carefully because his own have been given a place of honor.

My own little girl used her books much more often and with a great apparent increase in pleasure after they were taken out of their place beside her toys in the nursery and placed among the highly respected and much-used books of the living room.

Training School Begins Tomorrow.

The eleventh annual Standard Training School for Sunday school workers of Washington and vicinity will begin in Mount Vernon Place Church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the sessions from Monday through Friday of the following week to begin each evening at 7:15.

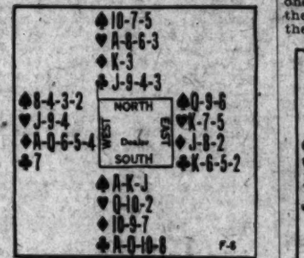
WORK ON BRIDGE

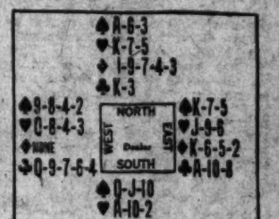
(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner).

With a low card led against No Trump and King and one small card of the suit in the dummy and no stopper in the closed hand (nothing better than Ten-x-x), it is important that dummy should play the King. It is the only chance to take a trick. That will be shown in the following hand:



South would be playing a No Trump contract (at Auction one, at Contract three) and West would lead the Five of Diamonds. It will be seen at once that if North, (dummy) failed to play the King, East's Jack would win the trick and the adversaries would take five Diamonds, thus saving game. With the King of Diamonds played, the Declarer could make game if he led the Jack of Clubs and (the King not covering) played South's Ten and followed with dummy's Nine, playing South's Eight. A third finesse in Clubs then could be taken and four Club tricks thus assured. Next he would lead the Ace of Spades to capture that trick and to avoid the remote possibility of a lone Queen winning. Then he would have to put dummy in with the Ace of Hearts in order to lead a Spade from dummy to take the finesse which would produce game.

But when dummy has King and one and closed hand Jack and two, the situation is very different. Note the following hand:



With the King of Clubs played second hand, the adversaries make five Club tricks. If dummy plays a small Club, one trick in the suit must be taken regardless of where the other high cards may be; and with one Club trick taken, five Diamonds, two Hearts and one Spade will assure game.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

When the burners on gas stoves become clogged they should be taken out, brushed, placed in a large pan and boiled in water to which washing soda has been added to the proportion of one-half pound to one gallon, rinsed and brushed, wiped with paper or cotton waste, fitted back in the stove and dried thoroughly by lighting the gas. The tray under the burners should be removed and washed frequently.

The burners and chimneys on oil or other liquid-fuel stoves should be kept in order the same way as kerosene lamps. In most makes the burners are detachable, and when they become clogged may be cleaned like those on gas stoves.

The heating elements on electric stoves may be cleaned with water and a soft brush. Any particles burned may be brushed out.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—Katherine Lewis holds the unique distinction of being Hollywood's best-dressed extra.

RALPH FORBES

Because she has a better and a more extensive wardrobe than most, she works more days than the average extra girl. From January to June this year Miss Lewis averaged 22 days a month.

During July, August and September, when production was low, she worked only about 10 days in every 30, but in October she had calls on 18 days.

Miss Lewis is one of that small class known as "dress extras." Among the several thousand girls who made a living playing extra parts, not more than 300 have the same rating Miss Lewis has in casting offices.

Dress extras are paid not less than $10 a day, while the others work for $7.50.

Miss Lewis is the type that "looks well in anything she wears." She is tall, slender and blond. In her stocking feet she is 5 feet 6 inches, but she always wears French heels to increase her height.

Home-Made.

The secret of her large and expensive wardrobe is that Katherine and her mother, Mrs. Jane Lewis, have made it themselves. Mrs. Lewis runs a small gown shop and devotes her spare time to designing and making gowns for her daughter.

Evening gowns and wraps that ordinarily would cost up to $300 are made by Mrs. Lewis for as little as one-third that amount. Katherine, she says, buys expensive material because cheaper goods would not withstand almost daily wear and frequent dry cleaning.

Katherine's working clothes consist of six evening gowns with wraps to match, two formal afternoon dresses, four street dresses and two sports outfits—in addition to such necessary accessories as shoes to go with each of the fourteen changes, gloves, hats, bags and costume jewelry.

Releases Timed.

Because the film "Morocco" is ready to be shown the release date of another film about life in the foreign legion has been put ahead a month.

It is Radio's "Beau Ideal," a sequel to "Beau Geste," in which Ralph Forbes plays the same character he did several years ago.

Stories about the legion are not limited to these two pictures. There also is "Hell's Island," and "Renegades" has just been completed.

It is not unusual for four pictures about one subject, or of the same locale, to make their appearances almost simultaneously.

IT WAS LOCKED

By JOHN HAWK.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"By this time my brother reached the prostrate man, and, leaning over, recognized him in the light of the moon as Pierre. He was still alive, but moaning and groaning. My brother pulled out a flask of brandy and gave it to the dying man, who went on murmuring: 'I'll get you yet, Bruin . . . see if I don't! Oh! But you did do me in then, Bruin. . . . Oh!' I remembered this well, because the story Edward told me so impressed me at the time . . . I had nightmare for weeks after he told me of this particular scene. Anyhow, Pierre died. On my brother's deposition a warrant was sworn out, and the usual efforts were made by the Canadian Mounted Police to get Bruin Peters, but he covered his trail well, and no sign of him was found, not anywhere. . . ."

"Is that all?" asked Linscott, seeing Lady Gwendolen was falling into a sad reverie.

"No! There's just one thing more. It was some time after Edward told me the story that he came to me with a newspaper from Canada which came marked for him in blue pencil. The item stated that Bruin Peters, wanted for the murder of Pierre Legrange, had been traced at last, but too late. The man who gave the report to the police had chummed up with him, not knowing he was wanted, and when he had died, as he did before they reached a trading post, he told his companion who he was, and to report to the nearest police that he was dead. Which his companion did. . . . That is all," Lady Gwendolen concluded her narrative.

"Um," murmured the inspector, disappointed, yet at the same time elated. He was disappointed because there had been no mention of an English-Canadian, for this Mr. Willis Hanson, he could have sworn, was certainly free from any French or Indian blood. Still . . .

"You don't remember any initials on the knife Pierre Legrange gave your brother?" he asked abruptly.

"I thought it was just elaborate filigree, but since your discovery of the initials on the other one"—her voice trembled with emotion, but she steadied it—"I think I may have overlooked them. You see, it was many years ago."

"You could get your brother's knife, I presume?"

"Oh, yes, easily," was the ready reply. "Only it would probably take a fortnight, as I should have to cable, and our old caretaker would have to look it up and send it."

"I see. Can you think of anything else which might help me, Lady Gwendolen?"

"Only the pictures."

"What pictures?" interrupted the inspector.

"Why, you know Edward was a very clever amateur photographer and very proud of it as well as fond of his hobby. He must have taken literally thousands of camera snapshots at one time or another. He kept them—the negatives and prints—in big boxes; there were dozens and dozens of them as I remember. I think most of them are in storage in London now. . . ."

"But you said something about some certain pictures . . .?"

"I was thinking of those Edward took on that particular trip. . . ."

"You mean the one where he got the knife, and his friend Pierre was killed?"

Lady Gwendolen nodded affirmatively.

"You think he had some of those two men?" the inspector asked excitedly.

"I'm sure of it. I've seen them. There were several of Edward and Pierre, and one of the two traders together. . . . Of course, it's years since I've seen them. I can't remember how they looked, but I should know the pictures from Edward. They were particularly good of him." She lifted misty eyes to the inspector's intent face.

"I hate to ask you, but would you go through your brother's pictures and find those for me?" said Linscott. "It will be hard for you, I know, but it may be of inestimable value to us. You see, the similarity of those two knives haunts me. * * *"

"I think there really were only two just like that. I understood at the time that Pierre, who was a very clever craftsman, had made them both, one for himself and one for Bruin. They had sworn friendship over them, and that made Bruin's treachery all the worse in Edward's eyes. * * *"

"That's it! If I can connect up this Willis Hanson with Bruin Peters or the man who saw Bruin die, and may have helped himself to his knife * * * they do such things, I believe * * * why, if I can hitch Hanson up in some way with this * * * I can't see how * * * still, I want every detail. * * *"

"Of course, I'll look through the pictures for them," said Lady Gwendolen. "I'd do everything to help liberate a man who I feel sure is innocent, and get the hateful scoundrel who dared to kill Edward * * *" Her voice broke in an angry sob.

"You know where they are all right?"

"Oh, yes. At Joseph May's. I'm sure I'll have no trouble getting at them, only it may take a couple of days before I can get them out here. * * *"

"I'll do all I can to accelerate matters for you there by putting in a word as to why you want them. In the meantime I'll get the Yard to find out from Canada everything they can about the man who reported the death of Bruin Peters, and whether they can in any way connect Mr. Hanson with him. That knife must have been the one which originally belonged to Peters * * * I feel sure of it."

"So do I!" Lady Gwendolen's dark eyes shone. "First I was so sure it was Edward's, but now I think we shall find Edward's has the initials 'P. L.' on it. I'll cable our old care-taker, and ask him to look at it, and let me know. And I can remember now Edward saying he believed there were only two of the kind in existence * * * his, and the one Bruin Peters had." Her voice had become firmer as her enthusiasm increased.

"We mustn't count too much on it," cautioned Linscott. "There's nothing certain yet * * * and Peters may have given his knife to almost anyone just to get rid of it. If he'd met a stranger who befriended or helped him, he might have handed over the knife as a thanks-offering, and to get rid of it, so that his whereabouts wouldn't be suspected if he ever lost it. You can't tell * * * still, I admit, I feel mightily bucked up by what you've told me. Mightily bucked, indeed!" The Inspector rubbed his hands with pleasure.

While the Inspector had been speaking Lady Gwendolen's face had grown whiter and whiter. He thought she was going to faint.

"What is it?" he asked in alarm.

"Nothing, really!" She drew her slim white hand over her eyes, as if to shut out something. "Only I just remembered. Once when Edward was feeling particularly depressed, he had said: 'I know, sis, that Peters fellow will get me yet. I feel it in my bones. * * *'"

"But," interrupted the Inspector cheerfully, "that shouldn't worry you now. You said Bruin Peters was dead. * * *"

"Oh, I don't know what's the matter with me," Lady Gwendolen burst into sobs. "But I'm terribly afraid!"

Just then Bruce Armstrong entered the room, evidently attracted by the sound of sobbing.

"What have you been doing to the poor child?" he asked the Inspector angrily. "Come, Lady Gwendolen, walk in the garden with me and try to control yourself."

"I think I'd better go and lie down," replied Lady Gwendolen weakly, as with a brief nod she slipped from the room.

"Well, Linscott, what were you doing to her?" repeated the explorer.

"Excuse me, Mr. Armstrong. I must get the next train to London," replied Inspector Linscott. "Important business. You'll understand. I shall expect you to look after the ladies in my absence."

"Certainly, Inspector. I only wish you had time to take me into your confidence."

"I shall do that immediately I return." Inspector Linscott smiled oddly at the explorer as he hurried from the room.

MME. JERITZA SUES AUTHOR OF NEW BOOK

ing allegedly defamatory statements about her is "really a small matter," the diva's husband, Baron Leopold von Popper, said today.

The baron said the author wrote the book "only to be nasty."

Baron von Popper disclaimed knowledge of exactly what the book entitled "Rit Raff" contains or on what passages the charges of defamation of character was based and declared Mme. Jeritza is equally ignorant. He explained they had authorized their attorney in Vienna to handle the case as he thought advisable.

Mme. Jeritza is singing at the Metropolitan Opera House this season as she has done for several years. The baron has been here with her since early in the fall, but plans to return to Vienna soon.

Diphtheria Rages In Virginia County

Physicians Move to Check Worst Epidemic in Its Histroy.

Berlin, Md., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Physicians of Northampton County, Va., south of here, moved today to check an outbreak of diphtheria they said was one of the most serious in the history of the county.

Sixteen cases have been reported since November 1, making a total of 39 in the last two months. Three deaths have occurred.

Efforts were being made to have the board of county supervisors borrow funds to reestablish the county health unit, discontinued early in October due to shortage of funds.

HEATING HOUSES.

A NEW method of heating houses is being given an extensive try-out. So far as things have gone it has proved satisfactory. It consists in heating the walls, ceilings, and floors and having them radiate heat into the air. Certain panels, set in the walls, ceilings and floors, are heated by means of electricity, hot water, or hot air, and, if electricity is used, insulated wires are imbedded in the plaster. The heat comes from the passage of electrical current through resistance coils or wires.

If hot water supplies the heat, hot water pipes run just behind the face of the wall, just under the floor, or just above the surface of the ceiling. The advantage of the method is that it heats the air in all parts of the room more nearly uniformly and maintains a more even heat than any other method. If the hot air is used the air ducts are below the plank of the floor or behind the face of the wall, and the air flows through the ducts and never into the room itself.

Another method consists in suspending fire clay plates some 10 feet or more above the floor. In these plates wire to conduct electricity are embedded. The plates are heated by means of electricty circulating in these wires, and the plates radiate and conduct heat to the room air.

The great shortcoming of all the better established means of heating is that they are insufficient when it comes to distribution of the heat to different parts of the room. The spaces near the radiators and the hot-air inlets are too hot and those near the windows are too cold. The space up near the ceiling is scorching hot and that near the floor is unpleasantly cold. This is responsible for some colds and other illnesses and for much discomfort on the part of the occupants of the room. It makes some space impossible for use, and it wastes heat. The new methods of heating are planned to overcome all these defects.

FEET AND WATERMELONS.

1. Is it possible for an adult to cure fallen arches or slightly flat feet?

2. What is the cause of blisters on the soles of feet? These contain a faintly yellow, slightly viscous fluid and itch. Can they be cured?

3. What is the nutritive value of watermelon? Is it difficult to digest for one having poor elimination?

REPLY.

1. Yes. He must build up the muscles of his feet and lower legs by walking pigeon toed and by foot-bending exercises.

2. These symptoms generally indicate ringworm of the feet. This can be held in bounds by treatment with applications which kill moulds.

3. Watermelon contains almost nothing except water, sugar, minerals, vitamins and flavor. It is a filling food and supplies the above elements and qualities. Most people digest watermelons easily.

Yes. It is rich in several vitamins and minerals.

Candidate for Congress Refuses to Campaign

Buffalo, Nov. 7.—As far as his Democratic opponent, Henry P. Jerge, is concerned, Representative Edmund F. Cooke, Republican, can win the election to Congress from the Forty-first district, hands down. Mr. Jerge, who was nominated without his consent, announced he would make no campaign. He publicly stated he was an unwilling candidate; that the courts had directed him to remain in the contest, but that he didn't have to campaign and wouldn't.

"In other words," Mr. Jerge said, "you can lead a horse to water, but you can not make him drink."

Macaroni and Spaghetti Recipe Contestants

Owing to the fact that the judges are faced with the responsibility of deciding on the respective merits of approximately 1,500 recipes, the announcement of the winners has necessarily been delayed.

Chefs A. Crocci, of the Raleigh Hotel; E. R. Rueddi, of the Hotel Harrington, and A. Moore, of the Ambassador Hotel, are acting as judges and painstakingly plowing through a sea of mail from which they hope to emerge with a list of fifty-six winners by this afternoon. Their decision will be announced at an early date.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Relaxing influences will be in force on this date—a nonworrying time, and inattention to business. Happy times within the home, and the burial of all feud hatchets. Some slight health trouble. Hopeful outlook.

The child born on this November 8 will give way to violent fits of passion and will need to learn self-control. It will be both sympathetic and kind, and will always regret hasty words or actions. It will be a very good student and a diligent worker.

Lack of self-confidence and nerve will not keep those born on a November 8 back in this world. You almost selfishly look out for No. 1, and you elbow your way to your desired goals. You are fiery-tempered and are not ready to overlook any abuse from others. You are not a trench fighter, however, for you are brave enough to come out in the open, and to face your enemies. Your tongue is your best weapon of defense, and you seldom leave your opponents with a comeback. You make a very devoted and loyal friend, and woe be it unto those who speak or act against them. Your tongue can be witty as well as sarcastic, and you make a most entertaining companion. If you be a woman, you are handicapped by the thought that you carry a coronet in your handbag, and this makes you unpopular, especially with those of the opposite sex. Love may show you the worth of the common man.

Optimism lubricates the machinery of your effort, and you never anticipate failures. You have a good mind, considerable foresight, an abundance of energy, and a fair amount of patience. You are willing to take chances, but you are not a wildcat gambler. You are rather inclined to hang on to your money, and its mere possession gives you happiness. The high-water mark of your life will not be reached until past middle age.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Harding" is of English origin and means "the son of Heard." "Heard" was an old personal name meaning "hard," "brave" and "firm." An English document of the thirteenth century mentions a certain Hugh Harding and a Nicol Harding. This name has frequently been confused with "Hardwin."

The family name "Hardwin" is found in the earliest English records. It is ultimately of Teutonic origin and means "firm friend." The French form, "Hardouin," was once very common. A certain Philip Hardwyn is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous list of English names of the year 1273.

The family name "Warren" is ultimately of Teutonic origin, being derived from the old Teutonic verb "warian," meaning "to preserve" and "to protect." Its full significance is "he who lives at, or if the keeper of, a game preserve." A certain Richard de Warenne, a John de Warenne and a William de Warren are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls. "Warren" has frequently become confused with "Warin" and "Waring."

The family name "Waring" (also spelled "Warin") was introduced into England by the Normans. It may be traced back to three different Germanic sources, according to which its meaning is "advice," "protection" or "truth." A certain Symon Warin is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls. Common French forms of this name are "Guarin," "Guerin" and "Garin." It occurs in Italian as "Guarini," and "Guarino."

The personal name "Gamaliel" is of Hebrew origin and means "recompense of God."

The family name "Hohenstaufen" is of German origin. It means "the high mountain peaks" and indicates an original place of residence.

BUY NOW
BETTER BUSINESS
Promote Purchasing Power

If every homeowner, store proprietor and business firm manager will inventory his odd jobs of replacement, renewal and repair enough work will be discovered to give immediate employment to every unemployed man and woman in Washington.

This step would increase at once the purchasing power of persons now unemployed. More money would be put into circulation, business operations would be speeded up and local firms would have to hire more employes to handle the resulting increase in business.

You can promote community purchasing power and hasten business revival by digging up long-deferred jobs of cleaning, redecoration, remodeling and repair and by giving such jobs to unemployed persons now willing and waiting for work.

Each new job which you create helps some worthy person back on the road to self-support. He then joins with you in the army of buyers whose united purchases are the only sure means of recreating confidence.

Calvin Coolidge states, "It is a public duty to buy what you can afford." Create a new job and enable others to join with you to "Buy Now for Better Business."

COUNTY HEADS SEEK WATER BOND ISSUE

Arlington Supervisors Ask New York Advice as to Eventual Approval.

FIRE SWITCH-BOARD AIM

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 508. Clarendon, Va.

Despite the opinion as given by Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Cloth, that the board of supervisors could not borrow any funds against the water system to extend mains except by proper bond issue, the supervisors yesterday authorized State Senator Frank L. Ball to confer at once with bonding attorneys in New York as to whether they will approve another bond issue to extend mains.

Chairman Edward Duncan stated that while citizens of Falls Church, including that section which is in Fairfax County want water, the board is powerless to give any assurance of cooperation until it is learned whether the needed funds will be avaible as mains across the Chain Bridge will have to be enlarged. This need has been brought to the attention of the board, he stated, by the engineer's office of the War Department.

Chairman Duncan declared that extension of water mains at this time is more important than building roads.

"We have since July 30 spent $78,000 in making water extensions and a majority of them have been in Arlington District, but I am willing to go further and put up more money if the two other members will agree," said Mr. Duncan.

In face of appeals of the chairman, the board, on motion of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, voted to award contract for grading Washington avenue, from Virginia avenue in Clarendon to Hatfield, a distance of one mile, to the Northern Virginia Construction Co. The accepted bid was in the amount of $8,219.85.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier stated that there are now approximately 1,200 homes in Arlington County where mains are laid fronting the property but where no connection has been made.

Approval of the request of Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, to erect welcome signs at the county lines was given by the board.

The secretary was instructed by the board to write to the State Highway Commission requesting that bids be immediately asked for construction of the Lee boulevard in order that relief may be given to hundreds of unemployed.

A resolution was adopted which will be presented to the State Highway Department at its annual hearing on allocations for State roads at Orange on Tuesday, that the State allocate sufficient funds to widen the Lee highway from Halls Hill to Falls Church.

Establishment in Arlington County of a central switchboard from which all fire calls would be handled was advocated by representatives of the several fire companies in the county at a joint meeting with the county board of supervisors held last night at the courthouse.

It was pointed out by a number of the firemen that with a central switchboard time and money would be saved because the company nearest to the fire would be called and none other, unless needed. This would put a stop to driving all over the county by other departments to fires where they were not needed and at the same time give better protection to each community, it was stated.

Walter U. Varney, president of the Arlington-Fairfax Counties Firemen's Association, declared that for the past 20 years firemen of the county have fought fires but not until a chief is appointed by the county and a central switchboard installed will the county have an efficient fire-fighting organization.

The board authorized County Engineer C. L. Kinnier to investigate as to the cost and operation of a central switchboard.

Mr. Varney also stated that he will see to it that every company has a report filed with the board at its December meeting showing the amount of gasoline which has been used during the year. The board will pay for all gasoline used by the companies. It was decided to hold quarterly meetings at the courthouse on questions of common interest to the fire companies.

Chairman Duncan, commenting on a report that the supervisors are considering a sale of the county water system, said that the matter has at no time been considered.

The County Board of Supervisors, at its meeting yesterday, withheld action on awarding the contract for the construction of the storm drain sewer for Ballston until its meeting to be held Saturday, November 15.

A special drill by Battery B, Fifteenth Field Artillery, Fort Myer, under command of Capt. Robert D. Maraise, will feature the Armistice Day program to be given at the Washington Lee High School Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock. Music will be furnished by the High School Cadet Band.

This program is being given under auspices of the Arlington Post, No 139, American Legion, and the Auxiliary unit to the post.

The Sunday school of the Clarendon Methodist Church at Clarendon tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock services will present a pageant culminating "The Childhood and Youth," which has been observed by the church.

In the evening the Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor, will give an Armistice Day message, "The Spiritual Warfare."

The Famous Brass Quartette will furnish the musical feature of the evening service tomorrow night at the Cherrydale Baptist Church. Services will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. M. R. Jahet, whose subject will be "The Judgment."

Services tomorrow morning at St. George's Episcopal Church will be conducted by the Rev. Henry J. Miller, pastor. His subject at the morning service will be "Christianity and War."

The Young People's meeting will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock. The topic for the evening will be "A Life With a Purpose."

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Ross B. Johnston, of the State department of agriculture, reported to the State drought relief committee today that there are 9,836 families in West Virginia in "dire distress" as the result of last summer's drought.

Hagerstown Plans Work for Jobless

Completion of Sewerage System Urged to Give 300 Employment.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 7.—The mayor and city council have been asked by a committee of leading business men to call a special meeting for the purpose of considering a program of work this winter to give employment to hundreds of jobless here. Business interests will ask the city to complete the sewerage system in Hagerstown this winter, at a cost of approximately $250,000, which will give employment to approximately 300 laborers for a period of three months.

Thomas W. Pangborn, manufacturer, already has offered to loan the city $50,000, interest free, for such a project, provided an additional $200,000 is raised.

FOX HUNT OF CLUB TO BE HELD TODAY

Many Washingtonians Will Take Part in Event in Fairfax County.

W. T. CARTER, 59, IS DEAD

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The year's initial fox hunt of the Fairfax Hunt Club will open this morning at the home of A. Smith Bowman, the president of the club, at Sunset Hills, Va. This is the club's second season, as it was founded last year with the 4,000-acre estate of Mr. Bowman as the nucleus. The club now has 30,000 acres of land under contract for exclusive fox hunting purposes, which gives it the largest hunting course in Virginia.

What was formerly a large summer hotel, located at Sunset Hills, has been remodeled during the past summer and is now being used as a clubhouse. All modern conveniences have been installed and about 40 rooms are available for club members.

Five jumping courses have been paneled and two more are under construction at the present time.

The club is located within 17 miles of Washington, with improved roads to the clubhouse. Many socially prominent Washingtonians are members of the club. The land under contract includes that territory of Fairfax County about Herndon and all the way to the Potomac River from Great Falls to Seneca.

President Bowman stated yesterday that there were 40 miles of bridle paths within the limit of the club grounds that were free from automobiles. There are 45 purebred fox hounds in the club's kennels, of which 25 will be used in today's hunt. Provisions have been made for feeding, keeping and grooming a large number of horses for the hunt field for members. A limited number of horses can be leased for riders at the hunt. The hunt will start this morning at 10 o'clock and a luncheon will be served at the Bowman home from 1 until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The executive committee and the board of trustees of the Falls Church Fire Department will hold a meeting this evening in the engine house on Washington street to discuss the ways and means of financing the erection of the proposed fire engine house which was approved last week by the members of the company. The house will cost approximately $25,000 to build. The company has outgrown its present quarters, the members state, and to enlarge them would not be practicable.

W. T. Carter, 59, of Fairfax, died suddenly at his home yesterday morning. For the past 23 years he has carried mail on Route 3 from the Fairfax postoffice. He has been treasurer of the Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, since its organization, 27 years ago, holding the office continuously.

He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Joseph Parkinson and Miss Virginia Carter, all of Fairfax, and several grandchildren. The Order of Fraternal Americans will take charge of the funeral arrangements. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon in Fairfax with interment in the Fairfax Cemetery.

The Workers Council of the Methodist Church at Chesterbrooke will give a masquerade party this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Chesterbrooke School. Prizes will be given for the best and the worst costume.

The Falls Church Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will give a food sale today in the old drug store building at East Falls Church. Mrs. T. M. Talbott will act as general chairman of the sale.

The Oakton School and Community League has appointed a committee composed of Ronald Blake, E. W. Follin and Harry Leigh to interview members of the State Highway Commission relative to the widening of Chain Bridge road. C. C. Carr was appointed the delegate from the league to the convention of the Cooperative Education Association which is to be held in Richmond Thanksgiving week.

The pupils of the R-3 class of the Madison School presented a program yesterday afternoon to their classmates. The Bible story was given by Chester Branson. Ruth Stine gave a sketch of the life of Robert Louis Stevenson. Recitations were given by Marion Robertshaw, John Gibson and Rachel Weetman. Grace Lester gave a sketch entitled "Foreign Children." Highway Commission Meeting Draws Crowd

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 7.—Several hundred men from the ten counties composing the Lynchburg district, attended here today a meeting of the State Highway Commission to consider allocations for highway development during the coming year.

During the hearing Chairman H. G. Shirley stated that the program has been speeded up to give men work, that the commission has already overrun its 1930-1931 budget, that the work is four or five months ahead of schedule, but that the revenues would take care of the expense so that there will be no deficit at the end of 1931. He said plans are already before the governor to allow the commission to anticipate some of its 1931-1932 revenue at once and go ahead with improvements, which will assist the jobless.

ALEXANDRIA SEEKS WOMENS COLLEGE

LETTER CITES HISTORY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Another effort to secure for Alexandria the Liberal Arts College for Women, to be established by the State of Virginia, is being made, through a letter addressed by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, to Miss Adele Clark, secretary to the commission appointed by the governor to secure a site for the college. The recommendations of the commission will be submitted to the next session of the Virginia Legislature.

In Mr. Hollenga's letter the advantages, not only of the City of Alexandria, but of the contiguous territory, are set forth. Mention is made of the fact that Alexandria has the honor of having had here the old Lancasterian School, founded by George Washington, who showed his deep interest in education by endowing a free school in Alexandria. The selection of Alexandria for the Liberal Arts College, this being the "home town" of George Washington, would be comparable to the selection of Charlottesville, the home of Thomas Jefferson as the site for the University of Virginia, according to Mr. Hollenga.

The last session of the Legislature rejected the selection recommended by the commission, and another recommendation must be made. The local Chamber of Commerce, according to Mr. Hollenga, will follow up the claims of Alexandria, if necessary, before the State Legislature.

In the Corporation Court yesterday, Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, an unusual suit was heard, Harold L. Knight, of New Alexandria, filing suit for $2,500 against Vincent Schiavi, contractor for the grading of the Mount Vernon boulevard, to recover alleged damages to his house and flowers by dust and dirt from the road where the boulevard grading is being done, adjacent to Knight's home.

The jury, after having deliberated 14 minutes, returned a verdict for the defendant, Schiavi. Attorney Charles Henry Smith appeared for Schiavi, and Attorney Albert V. Bryan for Knight, the plaintiff.

The monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to be held in the George Mason Hotel at 8 o'clock Monday night, will be addressed by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber, on "What Does Alexandria Need?" Ralph Bradford, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will also deliver an address.

The members of Company L, Twentieth Marines, of Alexandria, will go to Philadelphia Tuesday to participate in the Armistice Day celebration there. The local company will join other Marines from Washington, and make the trip on a special train at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. The local company is under the command of Capt. Hubert B. Moore.

A Boy Scout court of honor will be held in the corporation courtroom at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and at 7 o'clock this evening free moving pictures for all the scouts will be shown in Gadsby's Tavern. Dan S. Hollenga will preside over the court of honor, and it is understood approximately 30 boys will be up for promotion.

Tomorrow has been designated as rally day at the Methodist Episcopal Church South Sunday School. W. E. Dunn, superintendent of the school, with his assistants, T. W. Davis, Marvin Hudson and J. A. Sullivan, and aided by all teachers of the school, are working hard to have not less than 700 present at the rally.

The Knight sisters, from Lennon, Mich., will conduct evangelistic services in Alexandria, beginning tomorrow night and continuing through November 30, at the Free Methodist Church. These evangelists have held meetings throughout Michigan, and have specialized in young people's and children's work.

Miss Beulah M. Knight makes the principal address, and Miss Eileen Knight will have charge of the singing.

Leake, Chicago, Ill., and John S. Leake, Lonaconing, and three daughters, Mrs. J. H. Snyder and Mrs. C. L. Appel, this city, and Mrs. W. F. Mooney, Shadytown, Ohio.

Mr. Leake was a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. A brother, John Leake, of this county, served in the Maryland House of Delegates. The funeral will be held from the Vale Summitt Methodist Episcopal Church, with burial in the church cemetery.

MAN SUES TO DIVIDE ESTATE OF HIS WIFE

Action Is Filed Against Other Heirs in Court at Upper Marlboro.

SENTENCES ARE GIVEN

Asking that the estate of his wife be liquidated, John F. Empey yesterday filed suit in Prince Georges County Circuit Court against his daughter, Daisy B. Klock, and her husband, James J. Klock. Empey also asks that he be reimbursed for improvements he has made on the house which constitutes the bulk of the estate.

Empey's wife, Florence, died intestate in 1925, leaving a house and lot in Seat Pleasant. Since that time the man says, he has spent a total of $1,180 on the house. A new roof cost $200, and a heating plant $555. He has also paid a mortgage of $340 and taxes of $85, he claims.

Empey asks that trustees be appointed to conduct the sale of the place, and that he be paid the sum he has expended on the house. He also wants his share of the money remaining after these debts have been paid. Under Maryland law, the husband is entitled to one-third of the estate of his wife when she leaves no will. Frank Stephens appears as attorney for Empey.

Five persons were sentenced in police court in Upper Marlboro yesterday, one was held for the grand jury, and a case against another man was continued to next Thursdy.

Charged with the nonsupport of his wife, Ruth L. Smith, Gilbert Smith was held for action of the grand jury on $500 bond. The trial of Smith for assault and battery on his mother-in-law was postponed until next week, when he will be tried in the Capitol Heights Police Court.

As the aftermath of a fight at a Halloween dance at Silver Hill, four persons paid $5 fines for disorderly conduct. They are Anna Jenkins, of Seventeenth street near B street southeast; Walter Grimes, of Silver Hill; Frank Shorter, of the same town, and Oswald F. Fallin, of Fort Foote. Similar charges against Charles E. Copsey were dismissed.

John Kramer, of K street northeast near Ninth street, paid a fine of $5 on a charge of reckless driving, arising out of an accident near Forestville. The warrant against Kramer was sworn out by Harry White, of 2309 Sherman place southeast, driver of the other car involved. White also had been arrested on a warrant sworn to by Kramer, but the charge against White was dismissed.

Six men, all colored, were arrested yesterday on a charge of hunting out of season, and five of them were sent to jail in default of bond of $100 each. They were arrested together in the vicinity of Friendly, Md., by District Deputy Game Wardens James W. Rogers and John D. Fisher, who brought them before Judge Thomas D. Griffith for a hearing.

The men are William H. Stewart, of Seat Pleasant; his brother, Harold, of the same address; Milton Henson, of Oxon Hill; Thomas Smith, of Railroad avenue southeast; James Taylor, of Semner road southeast, and Henry Roy, of Bowen road southeast. Smith was released on bond, but the others were sent to jail while friends attempted to raise money for bail.

Weaver Davis, of Baden, Md., who died in Casualty Hospital October 27, came to his death "as the result of the reckless operation of a motor vehicle operated by a person whose name is unknown to the jury" a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Davis was found unconscious on the road between Baden and Brandywine, and died a few hours later after being taken to the hospital. Statements made by Holliday Hawkins and Richard Duckett said that Davis was standing beside their car and talking to them when he was struck by another car which failed to stop.

R-101'S GAS BAGS 'LEAKED SINCE JULY'

Ship Was Not Airworthy, Chief Inspector Tells at Inquiry.

FRICTION "WORE HOLES"

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Three months before the dirigible R-101 sailed on her last tragic voyage, aircraft inspectors discovered that leaks in the gas bags had decreased the ship's lifting power to an alarming extent, it developed today at the inquiry into the loss of the dirigible.

"I, it had been left to me," said F. McWade, Chief of the Inspection Department at Cardington, "I'm afraid the R-101 would not have received a certificate of air-worthiness."

Under questioning by Sir John Simon, head of the board of inquiry, McWade said he had reported the leaks last July. The gas bags were rubbing against wiring points when the ship rolled, he said, and the friction was wearing holes in the containers.

They tried padding the points of contact, McWade said, but this was unsatisfactory. He recommended certain changes in construction, but these would have necessitated removal of the gas bags and the job might have taken three months.

Lord Thomson Was Eager.

Meantime, Lord Thomson, the air minister who perished in the crash on October 5, was eager to get away on the flight to India. When the dirigible left, McWade said, she was, with the exception of the padding, in the same condition as when he had first reported the leaks.

Documents "Overlooked."

McWade testified after Sir John had read his memorandum recommending alterations in construction, and another document in which Col. V. C. Richmond, also killed in the crash, noted that the leaks were decreasing the ship's lifting power.

Sir John declared he could not understand why these documents had not been produced before, but it was explained later that they had been put aside for copying at the Air Ministry and had been overlooked when papers relevant to the inquiry were forwarded to the board.

Col. Richmond's memorandum, also filed last July, was written after he had observed that the dirigible handled heavily in a trial flight. His own inspection, he wrote, indicated that the loss of lifting power amounted to about one ton per square inch of hole in 12 hours. It was an alarming condition which required immediate attention, his memorandum said.

Employe Charges Attack in Danville

Strikers Conceded Right by Police to Parade Through Village.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 7.—William Snead was in jail here today charged with a felonious assault on James Dockery, a mill worker, who claims he was followed from the mill yesterday and attacked. Snead was also charged with being intoxicated, bringing the liquor issue into the local cotton mill strike for the first time. His hearing is set for tomorrow morning at Schoolfield, the mill village.

City and State police have conceded the right to paraders to march through Schoolfield unmolested. Nearly 1,000 men, women and children formed a vociferous and good-natured procession through certain streets last night. A smaller parade was staged in North Danville.

The trial of William T. Murdock, of New Bedford, Mass., on the charge of distributing incendiary dodgers, who appealed a jail term imposed in the police court, has been set for Monday owing to the absence today of an out-of-State witness for the defense.

Coal Strike Ended By Big-Vein Miners

Old Rate Is Accepted by About 350 Employes in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lonaconing, Md., Nov. 7.—The men at the Castle, Potomac, Caledonia and Pekin mines of the Big Vein Coal Co., about 350 in number, who had been on strike since October 1, decided at meetings today to return to work Monday at the old rate of 65 cents a ton for loading and $3.70 a day for labor.

The men demanded 75 cents for loading and $4 a day for labor and had Gov. Ritchie intercede for them, but the company declared the coal market was in such shape that it could not meet the demand, following considerable correspondence and one personal interview with the governor.

Employes at the Sonny, or Jackson, operation at Lonaconing, who have been out since May, have called a meeting Sunday afternoon to consider returning to work.

Boonsboro Garage Fire Threatens Township

Frederick, Md., Nov. 7.—Russler Bros.' garage was destroyed and the adjoining residences of Carlton Kepler, William H. Beachley and Thomas Moser were damaged in a fire that threatened the east end of Boonsboro today. The newly organized fire company and firemen from Hagerstown worked several hours before getting the fire under control.

The fire is supposed to have been started by a bystander lighting a cigarette at the entrance of the garage while an employe was drawing radiator alcohol from a barrel. The flames spread very rapidly and for a time threatened the business and residential section of the town. The loss is estimated at about $20,000. Boonsboro, with a population of about 1,200, is situated about 18 miles west of Frederick.

25-Cent Election Bet Provokes Lawsuit

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—To collect a 25-cent election bet, John R. Dyer, of Webster Springs, will bring a suit against Dr. J. B. Dodrill, Dyer's attorney, W. T. Talbott, said today.

Dr. Dodrill, according to Talbott, bet Dyer 25 cents that M. M. Neely would not defeat James Ellwood Jones by more than 10,000 votes in the race for election to the United States Senate. Neely, the Democratic candidate, defeated his Republican opponent by approximately 130,000. Dr. Dodrill was alleged to have refused to pay off on the bet.

100,000 Ethiopians Swear Fealty to Haile Selassie I

Mounted Horsemen Gallop Past Newly-Crowned Monarch, Whose Guards, Taking It's Chances, Keeps Machine Guns Trained on Horde.

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—One hundred thousand Ethiopian warriors today galloped past the newly crowned Emperor Haile Selassie I, in token of their fealty and as a great farewell demonstration for the foreigners from afar who attended the coronation Sunday. It was a thrilling spectacle, more exciting than a Wild West rodeo or an Indian raid.

Shouting and gesticulating like wild Apaches on the warpath, the hordes of feudal chieftains and tribesmen, attired in medieval garb of shaggy lion manes and armed with lances and swords, swept up before the monarch on beautiful and high-spirited horses.

Haile Selassie sat enthroned on a golden dais, wearing the uniform of commander-in-chief of the Ethiopian army. His hussar-like headgear was made from the mane of a lion.

As they rushed before the dais the warriors of the desert and mountain flung themselves from their steeds and lay prostrate before their ruler, assuring him of their bravery and their readiness to defend him against all enemies.

The emperor's foreign guests—including the Americans H. Murray Jacoby, Addison Southard, Gen. W. W. Harts and Charles L. Cooke—held their breath in amazement as the zealous warriors galloped at breakneck speed up the hillock where sat the enthroned potentate, brandishing their arms and yelling wildly.

For a time it appeared that the shrieking tribesmen would become a menace to the emperor. While it was known that the demonstration was supposed to be one of fealty, the local authorities took no chances and kept machine guns trained upon the participants from a strategic position. And at one point the emperor's guards, fearing an assault upon their ruler by the screaming horsemen, forced them downhill with lances and bayonets.

Andre Lavarre, of Washington, D. C., taking motion pictures for an American travel lecturer, was knocked down in the midst of the melee. He was unhurt but his camera was wrecked.

Christy Mathewson's Son Is Aviator.

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Nov 7 (A.P.). A son of the late Christy Mathewson, of baseball fame, is going up in the air, a thing his dad seldom did. Lieut. Christy Mathewson reported today for active duty training as a reserve officer in the Air Corps Reserve.

Record Hop Lost As Fuel Gives Out

Alicia Patterson Comes Down Within 12 Miles of Her Goal.

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Alicia Patterson, who is beginning to count that day lost on which she smashes no flying records, hung one up today—at the wrong flying field. She hopped off at Cleveland, Ohio, this forenoon, and 2 hours and 49 minutes later plumped down at the Curtiss—Wright Airport, Valley Stream, Long, Island, out of gasoline and slightly exasperated.

She was within a dozen miles of her goal, Roosevelt Field, but could not fly another minute without imperiling her life and the machine. Over at her intended destination, which she reached a few minutes later, after refueling, waited timing officials who would have given her an official record for the dash.

"Never mind," she avowed, "I'll go back and do it over again—with a little more gasoline." Miss Patterson contented herself with an unofficial women's record for the distance, which is 579 miles.

Biarritz, France, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Italian feighter Santa Rita, 2,250 tons, was driven ashore by gales a mile south of this city today. The entire crew of 23 was saved.

Granada Students Quit Classrooms

Spanish University Groups Demand Restoration of 1903 System.

Granada, Spain, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Law, medicine and pharmacy students of the University of Granada today went on strike and said that they would not return to classes until the government restores educational regulations adopted by parliament in 1903.

Recently students of many universities, including Granada, protested the severity of the Callejo educational plan instituted under the Primo de Rivera dictatorship. To meet their protests the minister of public instruction, Elias Tormo, ruled that the students might have the option in certain subjects formerly compulsory or might continue the Callejo plan intact.

The Granada students said today that they wanted neither the Callejo nor the Tormo plan, since they were not adopted by constitutional government, and urged that restoration of the 1903 laws was the only solution.

Prince to Carry Airplane On South American Tour

English Heir to Throne Will Leave on January 15 to Open British Trade Exposition at Buenos Aires and Plans to Do Some Tropical Flying.

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales, who sails for South America on January 15 to open the British Trade Exposition at Buenos Aires, plans to do some tropical flying, and his own private airplane probably will be taken over on the British aircraft carrier Eagle, which will be stationed at Buenos Aires during the exposition.

The date of his departure was announced today. He will go in the British steamer Oropesa, visiting Bermuda and Havana before passing through the Panama Canal to Valparaiso, Chile, his first port of call on the South American west coast.

Later he plans to go to Buenos Aires, and after that to Rio de Janeiro, where he will arrive on March 25. He hopes to spend three weeks in an informal tour of Brazil before returning to England aboard the royal mail packet Arlanza, arriving at Southampton April 29.

The Arlanza is a historic vessel in her own right. During the war she served in the Fifth Armored Cruiser Squadron and was mined in the North Sea. Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil before the recent revolution, went from his last European trip in the same vessel.

The heir to the throne has been improving his Spanish in preparation for the South American tour, tutoring with the Queen of Spain, who is in London on a visit. His younger brother, Prince George, also is studying the language.

Bank Cashier Is Saved By Bullet-Proof Glass

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Bullet-proof glass probably saved the life of Clyde M. Wolf, cashier of the Plainfield State Bank, today when two bandits fired eight shots at him in an attempted holdup. The glass had been placed around the cashier's cage a few months ago. Several customers were in the bank at the time.

Ten Are Acquitted In Lynching Trial

Mayor of Town and Policeman Included in Group Exonerated.

Walhalla, S. C., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—A Superior Court jury today acquitted ten men on trial for murder as a result of the lynching of Allen Green, Negro, last April 24.

Seventeen originally went on trial, but seven had been freed by directed verdicts. The entire group, which included Walhalla's mayor, R. B. Ballentine, and Policeman Alvin Jones, was also acquitted of charges of conspiracy to murder and assault with intent to kill.

Green was charged with criminal assault upon a white woman. In storming the jail to take Green, the mob overpowered Sheriff J. L. Thomas. The defense offered witnesses whose testimony provided alibis for the defendants.

University Group Names Head.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Henry J. Doermann, president of the University of the City of Toledo, today was elected president of the Association of Urban Universities at the annual meeting of the association here. Toledo was selected for next year's gathering.

A Goofus Catbird will steal milk
If she has Kittenbirds to feed;
No argument you can advance
Will stop her from this evil deed.

So, if you find your milk is gone,
No use to kick a row—
Just order extra milk for her
Or, better still, a cow!

SEVEN INTERSECTIONAL GAMES FEATURE IN EAST TODAY

350,000 Fans To Witness Action

U. S. Title Ambitions Involved in Three of Contests.

Philadelphia Thrilled by Notre Dame-Penn Clash.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—All along the Eastern gridiron battle front today, from the mountainous regions of West Virginia to cloistered walls of Harvard, the echoes of marching football battalions signalized the biggest invasion of the season from the South and Mid-West.

There are a flock of private wars to be decided tomorrow, especially in the South and Far West, but by far the greatest share of national interest focusses on a group of seven big intersectional battles, all involving "major league" teams.

Six of the seven will be fought out on the Eastern front, while unbeaten Fordham carries the Eastern banner into the stronghold of the University of Detroit's Titans.

Three Big Contests Feature.

At least three of the frays, Notre Dame-Pennsylvania, and Georgia-New York University in addition to Fordham-Detroit, involve national championship ambitions. Tradition flavors the Harvard-Michigan classic at Cambridge. Service color is reflected by the Army-Illinois and Navy-Ohio State contests. Two plain but quite rugged football clans meet when West Virginia entertains Kansas Aggies.

Penn-Notre Dame, at Franklin Field, 80,000.

Army-Illinois, at Yankee Stadium, 85,000.

Georgia-New York U., at Polo Grounds, 60,000.

Harvard-Michigan, at Cambridge, 85,000.

Navy-Ohio State, at Baltimore, 50,000.

Detroit-Fordham, at Detroit, 20,000.

West Virginia-Kansas Aggies, at Morgantown, 10,000.

There are no set-ups on either side of this line of gridiron fire. If there are any pronounced favorites in the group, they are the undefeated Notre Dame Team and Army's high-powered eleven, but these two also are likely to have their hands full before the boys have broken from the last huddle.

Interest High at Philadelphia.

Not since Red Grange ran wild against Penn at Franklin Field five years ago has the visit of any team attracted so much interest or so big a crowd in Philadelphia as Notre Dame.

The Quakers do not expect to stop the fighting Irish, who have another national championship in sight, but no inferiority complex will keep them from putting up a good game. Penn upset Kansas last week and looks to be decidedly on the upgrade, whereas it took Notre Dame two periods to get going a week ago against Indiana.

Army has a score to settle with Illinois for last year's reverse at Champaign, and the new-model Cadet machine appears capable of settling it against a subnormal Zupke product. Anyway, the Illini brought a 160-piece band to startle the folks. West Points Cadets will parade and the game will be the most colorful of the season in the big town.

Across the Harlem River, in the Polo Grounds, Georgia's Bulldogs, in their second Northern invasion, tackle the up-and-coming New York University Violets. The Southerners were beaten last year in an exciting scoring bee by N. Y. U., but they are entitled to their more impressive record, at least a record that was beyond reproach until the Georgians were tied a week ago by Florida. It may develop into another race for touchdowns.

Navy Holds Slight Edge.

Navy, having displayed superior offensive power in a somewhat erratic season up to date, may hold a slight edge over Ohio State, but the Buckeyes are about due to break loose.

West Virginia and the Kansas Aggies appear well matched, Detroit will take a crack at Fordham's Cosmopolitan defense, which has stopped everything in the East so far, but the titans are likely to find it a discouraging job.

Harvard has dropped close decisions in succession to Army and Dartmouth, besides being tied by William and Mary, but the Crimson will throw

West Point Head Hears Of Navy's Quick Challenge And Punts Out of Danger

General Smith and Co-Officers Very Suspicious of Admiral's Humanitarian Offer and Turn Up Many Reasons for Declining Game of Charity.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Admiral S. S. Robison's football challenge to the Military Academy, proposing an Army-Navy game for the relief of the unemployed, was relayed to Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, the superintendent of the Military Academy, and he immediately punted out of danger.

It does not look as though the Navy will score this year in the long politico-football row that began several years ago, although the admiral's challenge had the surprise element of a quick kick and set the Army back deep into their own territory for a few minutes. Of course, Admiral Robison's stated motives were of the purest humanitarian kind, but the officers at the Military Academy, other than the general, were very suspicious and thought he had taken advantage of a distressing public situation to embarrass the Military Academy and compell a resumption of the game.

The feeling of the West Point officers is quite bitter, and, inasmuch as the cadets receive their inspiration from the officers, it does seem that a football game between the academies this year would be an occasion for more blood letting than even so rugged a game as football ordinarily entails.

Gen. Smith, as spokesman for the Military Academy, of course, did not impugn the admiral's motives in suggesting the game, but confined his objections to academic difficulties and the physical peril to the West Point players. He said he had sent a report to the War Department six months ago, based on the Army's experience of postseason football in last year's Christmas week game with Leland Stanford in California, recommending that the cadets never play another postseason game.

Most of the cadets on the football squad who stayed in training and made the California trip, lost considerably in their class standings, some few of them as many as 60 files. The average physical fitness of the squad also declined, as noted by the sur-

By JACK ESPEY.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY is the favorite to win today's local college football feature, the game with Washington and Lee which begins at College Park at 2:30 o'clock. Washington and Lee outweighs the Old Line and has an edge in experience, but Maryland, judging from past performances, is a shade the stronger team.

All of Coach Curly Byrd's regulars excepting Bill Fisher, tackle, are fit and ready for the battle. They are looking for a hard game but are confident of their ability to triumph. If they succeed they will have defeated three of Virginia's "Big Four," as victories already have been registered at the expense of V. M. I. and Virginia. V. P. I. remains for the Old Line to tackle next Saturday at Norfolk.

This is Maryland's annual homecoming day game and hundreds of Old Line alumni will be present. A long day of festivities is scheduled. As a prelude to the varsity game the freshmen teams of the two rival schools will clash at College Park at 10 a. m. Various events of social nature are on the program which will be closed with a dance tonight in Ritchie Gymnasium.

Edge to Maryland on Comparative Scores.

The only direct line of comparison on the Old Liners and the Generals may be found in the scores of the games they played with St. John's, a mutual opponent. Maryland handily defeated the Annapolis team by 20-13, while Washington and Lee lost by 7-0. It also is significant that St. John's did not score against Maryland until the latter withdrew its regulars in the fourth period.

A keenly contested affair is anticipated despite the fact the dope favors Maryland. Warm battles between these rivals are traditional. Their scores always have been close.

In five previous meetings, the Generals have won four times. Maryland's only victory in the series was registered the last time they met in 1926. With "Snitz" Snyder tearing up the W. and L. line, Bryd's eleven hung up a 6-0 decision.

Chalmers Shines As Passer.

Maryland probably excels its foe in both running and passing, certainly in the latter department. In "Shorty" Chalmers the Old Line boasts without doubt one of the best forward passers in this section of the country. He's so accurate, they say, that he can part your hair at 50 yards. On the receiving end Maryland owns a pass-snatching wizard in Bozey Berger, former Tech High athlete. Berger also plays a prominent role in Maryland's running attack.

Leigh Williams, 6-foot-2 giant of the Washington and Lee back field, probably will carry off individual honors for his team. Maryland has been warned to watch this lad closely.

40,000 TO SEE OHIO STATE AND NAVY

Invaders on Scene at Baltimore; Fesler Triple Threat.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Ohio State University's band of football warriors bivouacked here tonight, while the Middies of the Navy Academy remained in Annapolis ready for their clash tomorrow in one of the East's big intersectional games.

A crowd of 40,000 or more is expected for the game in the Baltimore Municipal Stadium.

The scarlet and gray squad had their final limbering up drill at the stadium this afternoon under the eye of head coach Sam Willaman, while the Navy held a light drill at Annapolis. Both Willaman and Coach Bill Ingram, of the Navy, said their teams were in the best shape for the game.

Both Teams Reaching Top Form.

Neither Navy nor Ohio State have enviable records so far this year, but both apparently have reached top form after early season reverses.

Navy, after losing to Notre Dame and Duke University, in the last two weeks, smothered Princeton and West Virginia Wesleyan. Ohio made its greatest bid last Saturday in holding to a scoreless tie the strong Wisconsin eleven.

Big Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's passing, kicking, ball-carrying back on offense and end on defense, where he has earned all-American mention, is expected to divide attention tomorrow with the line-plunging "Bullet" Lou Kirn, the Navy's biggest ball-carrying threat, despite his weight of but 150 pounds.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TECH HIGH SCHOOL'S hard-driving football team exhibited to 3,500 chilled spectators yesterday at Central Stadium what has been a foregone conclusion since Coach Hardell unloosed his gray warriors in the current high school series—a blend of offensive and defensive play which knows no master among the high school teams. Presenting the same complex assortment of spinner plays which left Business and Central helpless, Tech experienced no trouble in tramping over Western High by the score of 33-0.

Today Tech finds itself on the edge of its third straight championship, with only the inexperienced Eastern High team standing in the way. Tech has amassed a total of 90 points in the series and has yet to see an opponent come close to scoring. There is no reason to believe that Eastern will imperil the Manual Trainers' clean slate.

So even was the drive of Tech that it is safer to laud the team rather than the individual performers. But Al Reichman, Tech half back, showed remarkable high school speed and thrust yesterday, scoring three Tech touchdowns, the final one after a streaking 55-yard run in the final period, which saw three Western tacklers, including the sure-handed Everett Buscher, grasp only the air behind him as he raced goalward.

Edwards Handles Team Perfectly.

But it appeared that any Tech back could have made three touchdowns, so regular were they in hitting Western's line. Carleton Edwards, who succeeded Dick Nelson in today's game, handled the team perfectly throughout and did his bit in ball running.

Tech's line was adamant. Western's backs were checked invariably, with only Stam Amidon able to nick Hardell's front wall for widely separated gains. In the line Capt. Sid Kolker and Ray Meikeljohn charged and blocked with skill that stood out just a bit from the others' performances.

Western took to the air in the final period in forlorn fashion. Tech, ever alert to the aerial threat, met this turn of events with a defense that left no openings and Webb's crisp passes went mostly for naught.

Rhodes, Tech guard, paved the way

Navy Completes Practice With Sharp Signal Drill

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7.—A sharp signal and formation drill this afternoon marked Navy's final "prep" for the intersectional tilt with the eleven of Ohio State University to be played in Baltimore Stadium tomorrow afternoon. With the continued cold weather the players put lots of snap into their work.

Head Coach Bill Ingram pronounced his charges in the pink for the battle, and although the edge would appear to favor the Buckeyes with Shasterling, all-around player, as their captain, Wes Fesler, the notorious deadly tackler, passer and runner, and also with a line that will be heavier and perhaps a bit more powerful than that of the Tars, there is confidence in the Navy camp that the Middies will come through with flying colors.

G. W. GRIDMEN VICTORS BY 86-0 SCORE

N. Y. Aggies Buried Under Avalanche of Touchdowns.

By JACK ESPEY.

STRANGE as it seems, a George Washington University football team scored 86 points to none for its opponents. This almost unbelievable fact was made history last night in Griffith Stadium as Coach Jim Pixlee's players walked, trotted and galloped through the New York Aggies before 3,500 amazed spectators.

FIRST QUARTER.

Score: G. W., 7; N. Y. Aggies, 0.

The Aggies received, were held, and G. W. scored on a 65-yard march. Carlin catching a 10-yard pass from Wells for the touchdown. Kriemelmeyer's kick was blocked.

Score: G. W., 13; N. Y. Aggies, 0.

G. W. repeated this parade two minutes later, Wells going over from the 4-yard line on a tackle slant. Kriemelmeyer missed.

Score: G. W., 19; Aggies, 0.

G. W. received and Wells passed to Fenton, who ran 32 yards to the Aggie 13-yard line. It was a gain of 52 yards. Wells dove 7 to tne 4-yard line as the quarter closed.

SECOND QUARTER.

Kriemelmeyer gained 2 and Wells ploughed through the line for 4 and a touchdown. Krielmeyer place-kicked the extra point.

Score: G. W., 26; Aggies, 0.

The Aggies kicked off and Wells passed to Fentown for a gain of 25 yards, placing the ball on the Aggie 40. Fenton, behind perfect interference, and despite stumbling, covered the remaining distance for a touchdown. Kriemelmeyer kicked for the extra point.

Score: G. W., 33; Aggies, 0.

The Aggies received and Kaundakjain punted to his own 40. Berkowitz and Kriemelmeyer made a first down on the 25. Berkowitz and Fenton made another on the 13 and Berkowitz finally went over through center. Kriemelmeyer kicked for the point.

Score: G. W., 40; Aggies, 0.

The Aggies braced to turn back another assault at their goal line, Gates knocking down a pass at the 1-yard line. Then G. W. took a punt

Benefit Game Sure, Says Whelan

Secretary Hurley to Consider Army's Accepiance.

Fordham Contest Is Alternative Should Cadets Decline.

THE Naval Academy football team will play a postseason game in New York for the benefit of charity against West Point if the latter accepts the contest, or against the undefeated Fordham team, if Army declined the offer.

This announcement was made yesterday by Grover Whelan, former New York police commissioner, who headed a committee of prominent New Yorkers to Washington and Annapolis, where he conferred with Secretary of Navy Adams, Secretary of War Hurley and Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy.

Mr. Whelan announced that he had received the assurance definitely that Navy would play and while here had invited President and Mrs. Hoover to attend the game at Yankee Stadium with December 16 as the probable date.

The game, if played in New York, would net between $500,000 and $1,000,000 for charity, Mr. Whelan said, with higher prices charged for tickets and the boxes sold at auction.

Mr. Whelan's committee later will discuss the project with the authorities at West Point. Mr. Whelan gave the impression that both Cabinet officials thought the question was one to be determined by the officers directly in charge of the two schools.

"We found Secretary Hurley and Secretary Adams sympathetic," said Whalen, "and it was sugested that we get in touch with the authorities at Annapolis and West Point. We pointed out that New York was the logical place for the game as it was the capital of unemployment at the present time. We believe that the differences between the two institutions which have led to a serverance of athletic relations can be waived for this charitable project."

Secretary Adams already has expressed a willingness for the Navy to engage in a post-season game for charity if the Annapolis authorities favored it, but Secretary Hurley, who has just returned to Washington, declined to say more than he would give the proposal consideration. Negotiations looking to a prompt resumption of athletic relations between the Army and Navy with a football game next autumn had mode no progress, it was learned at the War Department.

Navy Declines to Oppose Marquette or N. Y. U.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, said today that reports of resumption of football relations between the Army and Navy were "news to him."

At the same time it was announced by Commander Donald B. Beary, aid to the superintendent, that the academy had declined to meet New York University in New York and Marquette University in Milwaukee in a post season game. He said the offers had been made to the Athletic Department by wire and immediately refused.

While Fordham, the University of Maryland and George Washington University had been proposed for charity benefit games, Beary said that in the event the Navy did play a postseason game, it would meet a nationally outstanding team. The biggest crowd possible would be necessary before the Navy would agree to such a game, he said, and estimated that none of the games mentioned would draw more than a $60,000 gate.

Notre Dame, Army, Alabama Picked to Win by Lou Little

Boston College Choice of Coach to Win in G. U. Game.

By LOU LITTLE (Columbia Head Coach).

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With football well beyond the middle of the season we find traditional and intersectional games being played all around us, with writers and critics each day narrowing down their choices as to who is the outstanding team. Surprises have come forth with each contest and day after day we find some favored team being dropped into the discard as far as championship consideration is concerned.

Selections for tomorrow follow:

HARVARD-MICHIGAN—Hardly believe Harvard can hope to win due to excessive injuries. NEW YORK UNIVERSITY-GEORGIA—Here is a real contest. I favor N. Y. U. PENNSYLVANIA-NOTRE DAME—Notre Dame the favorite and should win. ARMY-ILLINOIS—No reason why Army should not take this one. PITTSBURGH-CARNEGIE TECH—Carnegie Tech ought to come back at the expense of Pittsburgh. YALE-ALFRED—Take your choice. N. Y. U. C.-ST. JOHN'S—Pretty close affair. St. John's may surprise. PENN STATE-SYRACUSE—Has every appearance of a Syracuse victory. PRINCETON-LEHIGH—The Tigers will get started with this game. DARTMOUTH-ALLEGHENY—Not much to it. Undefeated Allegheny will fall by the wayside. INDIANA-NORTHWESTERN—Northwestern should not have any trouble. WISCONSIN-SOUTH DAKOTA STATE—Wisconsin should win by several touchdowns. GEORGIA TECH-VANDERBILT—Vanderbilt ought to win. TULANE-AUBURN—Auburn improving, but not good enough. ALABAMA-FLORIDA—Alabama stands out as the real team of the South. Should win. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA-CALIFORNIA—No reason why Southern California should not win.

STANFORD-WASHINGTON—Here is a tough one. I believe Warner will surprise. TEMPLE-MIAMI—Indoor intersectional game. Temple, without any trouble. CHICAGO-PURDUE—Purdue, without a great deal of anxiety. WILLIAMS-WESLEYAN—No doubt Williams will be the Big Three champions. VILLANOVA-BUCKNELL—Bucknell seems to be the better at this time. RUTGERS-LAFAYETTE—Would not be surprised to see Rutgers win this one. DETROIT-FORDHAM—A tough game to pick. Fordham, on her record, deserves to win. BOSTON COLLEGE-GEORGETOWN—Not much choice, but I favor Boston. BROWN-TUFTS—Tufts will be stubborn, but can not hope to win. CORNELL-HOBART—Cornell, very easily. DREXEL-ST. JOSEPH—Drexel, by a touchdown. DUKE-KENTUCKY—Here is a good game, but I think Kentucky will win. FRANKLIN MARSHALL-SWARTHMORE—Close game. Franklin Marshall. GETTYSBURG-DICKINSON—Gettysburg to win another. HOLY CROSS-NEW RIVER—New River will make Holy Cross play all the way. IDAHO-

Shortstop Tavener Bought by Brewers

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Sale of Jack Tavener, a shortstop, to Milwaukee, of the American Association, was announced today by Fort Worth, of the Texas League. No price was announced. Tavener was obtained from the Cleveland Indians last winter.

Football Near "Racket," Penn Alumni Body Says

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The University of Pennsylvania alumni committee on athletics in a report today said "soft sinecures," the rich financial rewards declared to be frequently accruing "on the side," to successful football coaches, "threaten to make a veritable racket" of the college game if "they have not already done so."

The committee made its report to the National Conference of the Associated Pennsylvania Club. The report was read by Sol Metzger, captain of the 1903 Pennsylvania Team and later a coach, who is chairman of the committee.

College Football No Longer Players' Game.

"College football is no longer the player's game, but is a struggle between sagacious and clever coaches, a match between press-agented systems. Perhaps Pennsylvania is to be blamed here, for what gray-headed grad but remembers with pride and boasting the good old days when the Woodruff system went steam-rolling over all opponents."

The committee urged university officials to handle the football problem in a franker manner, praised the Middle Western method of granting scholarships to athletes "on the basis of scholarship, and advocated recruiting of students by local alumni groups rather than by the athletic coaches."

Members of the athletic committee, in addition to Metzger, are: William T. Tilden 2d, tennis star; John Dern 2d, New York City; William E. Lingelback, jr., son of professor of history at the university and now at Oxford University, England, and John P. Gardiner, of Toledo, Ohio.

"Our war is not against high-salaried coaches," the report stated. "Whatever they are paid they earn by sleepless nights and criticism from all sources, as any who ever filled such berths will affirm. The rub is

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 7.—Cornelius V. Whitney's entry ran first and second in the feature of the day, the Helpful Stakes, for 2-year-olds, a blue ribbon affair, although the stake was not large, the winner's portion of the purse being $3,670. Halcyon won with Workman up, but the filly stablemate, Thais, was left at the post and finished only a neck behind Halcyon. The Greentree Stable's St. Brideaux was third, beaten two lengths. The time was 1:13 4-5. The Whitney entry paid $6.80 to win and $6.30 to place.

Follow Thru was the favorite, and the Son of Epinard led to the far turn when Workman took command with Halcyon. In the stretch, the Whitney filly, Thais, closed very fast and finally outran St. Brideaux for the place. Seven 2-year-olds started in the six-furlong dash. After a delay at the gate, due to Albazanos' bad behavior, the field was away in good formation. Workman's ride on Halcyon was one of his hustling spectacles, but Robertson, on Thais, took off the honors by getting the place with the filly, left many lengths behind.

Good Track Makes Better Races.

Another large crowd was out for the races and it found the weather much improved over that of yesterday, and the good track also resulted in better racing.

J. Bishop's horse, Bowie, paid $109.50 for $2 for place in the first race. Archibald Barkley's Bright Day, a 3-year-old filly by Bright Knight, English classic winner, won the first race, much to the disappointment of the crowd, which had installed the ever-disappointing Amsterdam, of the Hatch Stable, the favorite. It could do no better than finish third after having been repeatedly taken back by Wells. Bowie came along in the stretch to pass Amsterdam and get the place. Amsterdam and Sometime alternated in the lead to the far turn when Bright Day, Watters up, went to the front and won easily. The winner was second choice on the board, but paid $18.70.

Another favorite was beaten when Spirit River failed in the second race for 2-year-olds bred in Maryland, making nine races since the choice scored at this track. A. G. Weston's Dancing Mack led all the way with Baboo second and Spirit River third. After delaying the start for several minutes refusing to go into the gate stalls, Spirit River, with Coltillett up, was away poorly and, while he fought it out with Baboo for place, failed even in that endeavor. Dancing Mack won by a length and a half and paid $28.80.

Favorite Finally Wins After Nine Failures.

A favorite finally won when Frank Hayes' Bounding Deep got a half-length decision over J. C. Kirkpatrick's Homelike in the third race at a mile and a furlong. G. W. Foreman's Rock Slide was third and Cogwheel fourth. Adams had the mount on Bounding Deep. Two lengths separated the second and third horses Bounding Deep went to the front on the far turn and was hard ridden to withstand the challenge from Homelike on the outside. Rejuvenation and Dolan went out to set the pace and Rejuvenation held on well, but finally gave up the chase when Homelike challenged. The winner paid $5.10.

The Southern Claiming Handicap, for all-age horses, fourth race, at 6 furlongs, was unexpectedly won by the suddenly improved Gerard from the Palmwood Stable, and it was run in the fast time of 1:13 flat. Mrs. V. M. Duncan's Clean Play was second, beaten a length and a half, and H. C. Hatch's Montanaro was third. My Sis was fourth. This filly and Crazy Coot were the favorites and the horses in the money were outsiders. The winner paid $52 for $2.

My Sis was the pacemaker after the field was settled in its stride, with Crazy Coot close up, and Hacky H. also showing a burst of speed. Rounding the stretch, Montanaro was bidding for the lead yet held by My Sis. At the sixteenth Gerard and Clean Play passed Montanaro.

Mrs. James Arthur's Berber won the sixth race by a length and a half, making a double for Jockey Adams. The Wheatley Stable's filly Nicotine was second, and Mrs. S. Bennett's We Dun It was third. Black Cloud was fourth. The three horses in the money belong to women. The winner paid $8.70.

Nicotine Closes Fast to Tak Second.

Dark Abbott was the first to break and led past the first turn. Berber then went to the front and Nicotine, which took the overland route in the stretch, closed fast to get the place. We Dun It tired in the stretch and was lucky to save third.

Baritone, the even-money favorite, Baritone, the even-money favorite, closed in game fashion to win the final race of the program today by a half length from Keith, with Fair Bill, a 50-to-1 shot, third, a length farther behind. Nine platers started the 1¼-mile journey. Baritone paid $4.10 in the $2 straight mutuels. Fair Bill was $10.20 for show.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

FIRE and water have always been enemies and you may have questioned our sketch of fire burning on water in Strange As It Seems yesterday; but it is the result of natural causes.

Quite a few years ago an effort was made to drill an oil well on the site and a heavy flow of boiling water was struck. About the time the hot water came in the drill was in what is known as "natural gas sands," with the result that natural gas made its way through the water. Some one touched fire to the gas and the resulting flame has withstood wind and rain and snow. It has been extinguished a few times, but is always relit, as the water is thought beneficial owing to certain medicinal properties believed contained in it, according to J. Russell Larcombe, of Malta, Mont., editor of the Phillips County News.

Frank Saullere, the youngest A. E. F. soldier, was enlisted as interpreter in the Eighteenth Engineers at the age of 12 years. His father, originally from San Diego, was in the French army. Frank is now a student at Harvard Law School, where court procedure is usurping the place in his mind formerly taken by memories of bloodshed and carnage.

Celluloid was discovered by J. W. Hyatt, in 1863, who was seeking to find a substitute for ivory in billiard balls. He mixed camphor with gun cotton and subjected it to high pressure.

geon's report to the general, although none of the young men became actual invalids.

West Point cadets upon their graduation from the academy are assigned to various branches of the service according to their standing in their class and some of the football players, who went to California consequently were relegated to branches inferior to those which they otherwise might have entered. Curiously, the infantry, which the late Marshal Haig in his last report on the war characterized as "still the spear-head of the attack" is the lowest or least preferable branch and the Corps of Engineers is first.

The general received word of Admiral Robison's challenge at his quarters and discussed his attitude in the presence of Maj. Phil Fleming, the graduate manager of athletics, and Capt. Walter Wells, the post publicity officer. In general, his objections were a review of the reasons advanced for the Army's original reluctance to leave the eastern seaboard in 1926 to play the last of the Navy games in Chicago, such as interference classwork, injustice to the cadets and the academy's responsibility to the Government to turn out proficient officers. These objections were overcome at that time but they are still held dear at West Point.

Cite Responsibility to The Government.

But beyond that he announced that West Point for years has been allotting 10 per cent of the football profits to military charities and pointed out that the academy was doing a very appreciable bit to relieve unemployment by pressing building operations on the post just now. In this he referred to the construction job now going forward on the new hockey rink, which is being paid for out of football receipts.

And any way, he said, he had read a piece in the papers only the other day in which President Hoover had remarked that there was now available $1,000,000,000 for public construction work, Federal and State, and the receipts of an Army-Navy football game, amounting to a million dollars at most, would do no good in relieving a general condition of distress.

In addition to all of which he was conscious of no obligation on West Point, with its single purpose of producing military officers, to assume a relief work properly the duty of the Government.

Head Coach Sasse Quite Upset.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, the head coach of the football team, was quite upset, insisting that the players had gaited themselves for a hard schedule of games, and must not now be called upon to go into any such tantrum of anticipation and fury as they would have to achieve to do themselves credit against the Navy, considering all that has passed between the officers of the two schools since the last game.

"You don't now what those Navy games mean," he exclaimed in a pretty good imitation of a man within a towering indignation. "This wouldn't be just another football game. I know what it would be, from my experience as a cadet, and I'm not going to have my kids used this way for this purpose. Why should they have to raise money for charity? We're producing officers for the Army, not showmen."

But when an unfortunate suggestion was made that the team be polled at mess, then going on, as to whether they would like to play the Navy, Maj. Sasse was even more indignant, refusing to permit any mention of the challenge to the men who would have to take it up. He and the general agreed that, in their young enthusiasm and inexperience, the cadets would be very likely to welcome a game that would be bad for them, but the general quoted Einstein to prove that man doesn't live long enough to take advantage of his experience, nor ever become sufficiently bright to avail himself of another's experience.

So, altogether, the Navy's challenge lit like a very decrease cat on the general's front stoop and was kicked clear over the parade ground and down the palisades into the Hudson without delay.

Again, there is great indignation.

Manly Memorial Line-Up

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 7.—The Sanford entry of Tourist II and Ivory II is a 7-to-5 favorite to win the $10,000 Manly Memorial Steeplechase, tomorrow's two and one-half mile feature.

The make-up of the Manly field follows:

P.P.	Horse.	Weight.	Jockey.	Owner.	Prob. Odds.

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 7.—The Manly Memorial Steeplechase Handicap, $10,000 added, an old Pimlico fixture, and the Pimlico Weight-For-Age Stake, for all-aged horses, $4,000 added, are the features for Saturday at this track.

The Manly Memorial brings out nine of the best jumpers to contest for the 2½-mile test for 4-year-olds and upward. The Sanford entry of TOURIST II and IVORY II, regarded as advance favorites, should be the winner, with TOURIST II the better suited of the two for the long distance. He carries top weight of 161 pounds, with W. Hunt up. IVORY II will be ridden by Jeffcott. Thomas Hitchcock's ACTOR surely will be a contender and will be ridden by Rigan McKinney, foremost amateur rider.

It may be that the Sanford entry will run first and second, and, if so, under the mutuel system, the place price may exceed the winning price. ACTOR finished in front of TOURIST II at Laurel in the stake won by Arc Light, due to a bad landing by the latter. TOURIST has won three of his five starts, and is believed the most seasoned jumper in the field. SPECKLED BEAUTY won his last start, which was at Laurel, and might get in the money if anything should happen to any of the others. ROONEY may run well, but the distance is believed too far for him. The jumping ability of the Brookmeade horse may stand him in good stead.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for 2-year-olds. MAJOR LANPHIER, a well-turned son of American Flag, is selected to win. The starters are all maidens. In his last start, LANPHIER was second to Dark Hero, and Rip Van Winkle finished behind him. That race repeated will win here. STELLENOVA, making his first start in a month, is rated the contender. BURGOO, second to Kensington last out is dangerous. The track will be fast.

SECOND RACE—The Annapolis Handicap, for 2-year-olds, brings out high-class young thoroughbreds. HAPPY SCOT seems to stand out a bit. It will carry the colors of Admiral Grayson and is coupled with SWEEP ALL, of the Dixiana Farm, C. V. Whitney's entry of SMEAR and TOTEM, should be the contender. SMEAR has won five races and beaten good juveniles. Walter J. Salmon's LADDER, which ran second to Twenty Grand, should hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth race is a claiming event. COIN COLLECTOR, at the distance, seems best. He has been running with better horses, but is none too consistent. His last race was his worst in some time, but at Laurel he beat Crystal Broom, and showed good speed. MAKE BELIEVE, winner of two races at Laurel, should be close up. STAR CRES'T has much early speed and looks best of the others. WRACKELL showed improvement last out.

FIFTH RACE—BALKO showed a return to his best form near the end of the Laurel meeting, when he took up 126 pounds and only galloped to beat Jock and others. Jock moved up off that race and won easily. BALKO is not only the class of this field, but he's the best weight carrier. BLACK MAJESTY hasn't been to the post since he won the Capitol Handicap, opening day of the Laurel meeting. He's been working well, however. JUDGE SCHILLING flashes a good race now and then.

SIXTH RACE — Conditions seem right in the sixth race for the return to form of DR. FREELAND. The distance is right, a fast track suits him, and the weight is not oppressive. He made a sorry showing behind Sun Beau, but his previous race in which he was third to Buddy Bauer, was an effort that would show win this race. HOT TODDY is the one most dangerous, and he is coupled with SUNVIR, as the K. E. Hitt entry. These two will give DR. FREELAND a lot of contention, and the entry will be favorite.

SEVENTH RACE—The seventh is a mile and three-sixteenths, suited to the distance-running AFRICAN, and he should win. There is not enough early speed in the race to get far enough in front to bother him, and he can pick them up in the stretch. SUN FRIAR is rated the contender. CLEAR SKY should get in the money.

SWAVELY 19-6 VICTOR OVER GONZAGA

Fumbles Aid Visitors in Running Up Margin of Victory.

ORREL MITCHELL'S light Gonzaga Eleven went down to defeat yesterday at Gonzaga Field to a bigger and ostensibly better eleven from Swavely Prep, Manassas, Va., by the score of 19-to-6.

Although playing without the hard-hitting services of Ernest Vlau, the Eye Streetmen showed offensive power throughout, scoring eleven first downs to their opponents' five. But fumbles usually halted the march of the Purple toward the enemy's goal.

A Gonzaga fumble shortly after the start of the game opened the lane for Swavely's first tally. Murdock and Cary, husky backs of the visitors, carried the ball to Gonzaga's 20-yard line in two rushes from midfield. McDevitt passed to MacAvory, who stepped over the line for the 6-pointer. A dropkick for the extra point failed.

Gonzaga Holds Foes Even.

The two teams battled evenly throughout the second and most of the third period, with Gonzaga's shiftiness offsetting the weight of Swavely. But late in the third quarter Swavely started an offensive from midfield which found the ball on Gonzaga's 2-yard line at the close of the semester. Cary plunged through right guard on the first play of the final period. The placement kick failed.

Nolan's fumble of a long punt later on in the period permitted Swavely to commence operations on Gonzaga's 30-yard line. McDevitt, on the first play, raced to the touchdown through most of Gonzaga's team.

A late drive left Gonzaga on the visitors' 20-yard line and for once they failed to fumble. Nolan passed crisply to Dunan as the former quarter back raced over Swavely's last line.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH UPSETS FREDERICKSBURG, 6 TO 0

Result Brings Triple Tie In Series

Travers Scores After 25-Yard Run by Capt. Luckett.

Visitors, Rated 3-to-1 Favorites, Bring 500 Rooters.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 7.—An inspired Alexandria High School football team today rose to its greatest heights and defeated the crack Fredericksburg high school eleven, leaders in the Third District, 6-0.

Before the game began, Fredericksburg was rated a 3 to 1 favorite. Over 500 fans from the historic city accompanied the Yellowjackets to this city to witness the game. A crowd estimated at 3,000 saw the contest.

With the Alexandrians winning this game, the district series goes into a deadlock. Washington and Lee, Fredericksburg and the Twins have each won two games and lost one. Fredericksburg defeated the Generals, while Alexandria's colors were lowered by the W. & L. boys, 21-0. The Twins, after a slow start, have come fast to the front.

Luckett Makes Long Run.

After the third quarter, after Captain Luckett had torn off 25 yards on a cross-buck play, the pigskin resting on the Yellowjacket 3-yard line, Hugh Travers, dashing half back, drove through the invaders' line with ease to score the touchdown that eventually gave the Alexandrians the verdict.

Fredericksburg threatened in the closing minutes of the second period, when they received a kick on the Alexandrians' 27-yard line. Two line plunges with Lowery and Middleton carrying the leather advanced it to the Alexandria 7-yard line. Here the Yellowjackets were held for downs as time for the half sounded.

The Yellowjackets took the air in the fourth quarter. Two passes, Lowery to Middleton, were completed, but the Alexandrians would always hold in the critical stages of the game.

Capt. Jimmy Luckett, of the Twins, played the greatest game of his high school career. Lindsey Turner, Mendelson and Jackson also starred.

Hugh Travers, eel-hipped half back of the Twins, got off several long runs, besides backing up the line.

Middleton, Brown and Lowery played best for the invaders.

The summary:

that a situation similar to that in amateur golf and tennis, the old stuff of soft sinecures, has arisen. The game threatens to become a 'racket.' It may already be one. Here is food for thought."

Game Overemphasized, Is Feeling.

"At Pennsylvania," the report stated, "there is a feeling among many other athletic coaches, now that we have gone in for shock troops, spring football practice and imitation tractor or tea wagons equipped with atomizers and other first aids, all modern tendencies, that football is being overemphasized at the expense of their sports. The university is now making a survey of athletic and physical education management at other universities for the purpose of finding, if possible, a more efficient way of administering these departments at Penn."

Catholic U. Eleven Favored To Beat American Today

Rivals, Weakened by Injuries, Expected to Put Up Hard Battle; Cardinals Seeking First Victory of Season.

A BATTLE of hard luck football teams is scheduled this afternoon in Brookland Bowl, where Catholic University meets American University beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Dame Fortune hasn't given these teams a tumble all season.

Catholic will be seeking its first victory, having taken the short end of the scores in six previous games. American will be out for its first major triumph. Incidentally, it is American's 1930 finale and the Methodist eleven would consider its campaign a success if it triumphs.

Both Teams Weakened By Injuries.

Both teams will enter the conflict with weakened line-ups due to the injury of numerous dependable players. Catholic will sorely feel the loss of Hugh Flynn, tackle, and Frank Donaher, half back, and also may not have the services of Johnny Oliver, star of the backfield, and Ed O'Brien, rugged tackle. This latter pair will be in uniform, however, and may see action in emergencies.

American's plight is more serious. The Eagles will miss two regular backs and two linemen, this group including their most valuable player, Frosty Diehl, full back. Diehl, Eddie Parke, half back, and Carl Levin, tackle, were injured last Saturday. Milton Polston, 175-pound guard, was lost because of scholastic deficiency. It is not certain, either, that American can use George Borsari, quarter back, who next to Diehl is the most talented back in the squad. Borsari is nursing a sprained ankle, but he will be available for relief work.

Catholic U. Favored To Win.

Catholic is favored to win, some experts having conceded Coach Dutch Bergman's club a margin of between two and three touchdowns. But American, eager to register an upset and having performed as the underdog in earlier tussles, is expected to put up a determined stand. An A. U. victory, however, is thought of only by the Eagles' most enthusiastic rooters.

Ty Rauber Leads Apaches Against Irvington Eleven

COMPARATIVE scores have meant little in Apache-Mohawk games of the past, but the Apaches were not pleased when the Mohawks walked away from the Tacony Aces last Sunday—a team that held the Little Indians to a scoreless tie earlier in the season. The Apaches see in tomorrow's game with the Irvington Club, of Baltimore, a chance to regain any prestige lost by that comparison.

Irvington held the Mohawks to a scoreless tie and the Apaches will be satisfied tomorrow with nothing but a decisive victory. However, the Little Indians will have to be at their best to turn the trick, notwithstanding the additions of Ty Rauber, former Washington and Lee star, and Ray Du Four, former Catholic U. tackle.

Weinstock With Irvington.

The Baltimoreans have also added strength since their first appearance here. "Nate" Weinstock, former college star, who opened the season with the Lansdowne Club, which defeated the Hawks, has shifted to Irvington. His presence in a line that held the Mohawks safe means that the Apaches might have to discard their line-crashing which has featured their three victories for an air attack.

Rauber to Start At Quarter.

It is expected that Hamilton, Spring and other former Navy stars who faced the Mohawks will be back and with them will come their clever passing game. This brand of play failed to function against the Hawks, but Irvington now has five games under its belt and should be working smoothly tomorrow.

The Apaches have been drilling hard this week and Rauber, who led the team to the championship in 1927, is ready to start the game at quarter back. He is in top physical shape as the result of his coaching activities at Central High.

McGuires Swamped By Woodberry, 48-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodberry Forest, Va., Nov. 7.—The Woodberry Forest eleven experienced little difficulty in downing the McGuire's University School of Richmond here this afternoon by a 48-to-0 count. Featuring the game was a 40-yard run to touchdown by Drayton Ford, star half for the Orange team, and numerous long passes, Taylor to Weaver and Freeman.

The kicking for points after touchdowns by Weaver and Taylor also shone. The visitors threatened once in the last quarter when McGuire intercepted a pass and raced down the side lines to the local 20-yard line, where Woollen downed him. Woodberry held at that point, however, and McGuires forced to surrender the ball when Kenan grounded a pass on the fourth down. Only three first downs were made by the losers.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 7.—Episcopal High School varsity eleven will meet an old foe, Virginia Episcopal, of Lynchburg, in the feature game in this sector tomorrow afternoon on Hoxton Field at 3 o'clock.

Bick Cardwell's club will be bidding for their fifth consecutive victory. The Lynchburg team has an impressive record. They lost to Danville Military Academy, 7-0, and this eleven held the Staunton Military Acadamy gridders to a tie score. Harris is the best bet with the invaders. He does all of the passing and punting, besides being a good ball carrier.

An announcement from Episcopal athletic authorities today stated that Evin and Zimmer, two star linesmen, hurt in previous games, would be ready for the Woodberry Forest Academy game on November 22.

Sylvester A. Breen, president of the Cardinal Athletic Club, today was named as chairman of the Roland Jones benefit committee. An entertainment will be staged by this group on November 26 at Lyceum Hall.

The Virginia Jrs. defeated the Episcopal High 125-pound team yesterday, 20-0. Mumford was the star for the winners.

The Pirate Athletic Club will mix with the Takoma eleven Sunday on Guckert's Field at 3 o'clock. Manager Hammond is dickering for a game with the Virginia Jrs. on Thanksgiving Day.

The Brothers' School sophomores defeated the Freshmen on the Shipyard field yesterday afternoon, 12-0. Kennedy and Bennett made the winning markers.

The Columbia A. C. will mix with the Del Ray Red-Birds in a league game on Edward Duncan Field Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Slewie Peyton's No. 5 eleven will oppose the Navy Yard Marines in Sunday tussle on Haydon's field at 3 o'clock. Billy Padgett is assisting Peyton in coaching.

G. U. IS RATED CHOICE IN BOSTON

Eagles Outweigh Hilltop Gridmen in Clash Today.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7.—Boston College and Georgetown will meet in football at Fenway Park tomorrow for the first time since 1927. At that time Georgetown won, 47 to 0, inflicting one of the worst beatings a Boston College eleven ever received.

Georgetown, fresh from its 14-13 victory over Michigan State, is the favorite tomorrow, but with the new life exhibited by the Eagles last week, it can not take too much for granted. Coach Tom Mills, of Georgetown, brought a squad of 35 players to Boston today and a record of four victories against two defeats. This is slightly better than B. C.'s three and three. The visitors differ, however, in that they have won some of their hardest games, while the Eagles have lost their three major tests to Fordham, Villanova and Marquette.

Fishburne Reserves Bow to Augusta, 6-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Nov. 7.—In a game marred by frequent fumbles, the Augusta Military Academy Tigers defeated the Fishburne Military School Reserves, 6-0, here today. The lone touchdown of the game was carried across by Waters in the second quarter after a Fishburne fumble had given the ball to Augusta on the Reserves' 12-yard line.

Fishburne threatened to score in the first period when a pass from Irons to Bevier advanced the ball from midfield to Augusta's 14-yard line. The ball was lost on a fumble four plays later. Again in the third quarter two passes from Gerbich to Irons netted 40 yards, but then the Tigers braced and took the ball on downs on their own 22-yard line.

and marched back, a 30-yard pass, Berkowitz to Venesky, and Kriemelmeyer's plunge producing the touchdown. Kriemelmeyer kicked for the extra point.

Score: G. W., 47; Aggies, 0.

G. W. made two first downs on another drive before the half closed.

THIRD QUARTER.

G. W. received and Carlin on the second play made 50 yards, being hauled down from behind on the Aggies' 14. Berkowitz, Kriemelmeyer and Vernesky alternated in a drive through the line and Vernesky piled over for a touchdown. Kriemelmeyer missed a kick.

Score—G. W., 53; Aggies, 0. Carlin returned the ensuing kick-off 52 yards to the Aggies' 30 and Berkowitz pounded across the goal line. Carlin scored the extra point on a pass from Berkowitz.

Score—G. W., 60; Aggies, 0.

The next G. W. touchdown resulted from a 75-yard march featuring passes thrown by Berkowitz and caught by Venesky and Vogt. Carlin made the score on a short line plunge. Kriemelmeyer missed the kick.

Score—G. W., 66; Aggies, 0.

Receiving the ensuing kick-off, G. W.'s attack fizzled and for the first time Kriemelmeyer was forced to punt, the ball going to a touchback. Venesky intercepted an Aggie pass and returned to the 10-yard line. Berkowitz ran to the 3-yard line as the quarter ended.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Score—George Washington, 73; Aggies, 0.

Score—George Washington, 80; Aggies, 0.

Nelson, for New York, returned the kick-off 35 yards to midfield, but George Washington held and Koundakjian punted 58 yards. Gates, for New York, gained 5 at end, and Nelson hit off tackle for 5 and the Aggies' initial first down. Brown, for George Washington, intercepted a pass. Two George Washington passes failed and Kriemelmeyer punted outside at the 9-yard line, a punt of 55 yards. Brown broke through and blocked Koundakjian's punt behind the goal for a touchdown. Kriemelmeyer's kick was blocked.

G. W.'S FROSH IN ACTION TONIGHT

Tackle Citadel Cubs Under Arcs in Griffith Stadium.

THE Citadel Freshmen, of Charleston, S. C., will be the foes of George Washington's Freshmen tonight in Griffith Stadium, when the local yearlings will try to register their second victory of the season. The kick-off is scheduled at 8:15 o'clock.

Despite the loss of eight star players through difficulties with the University administration, the Colonial Freshmen have developed into a capable team in their class. In their last game they easily conquered the Massanutten Military Academy team, which had not lost a game previously.

The only loss suffered by G. W. was a 20-6 reverse at the hands of the Pittsburgh University Cubs.

Howard Florence, former Tech High School reliable, will appear at left half back for the G. W. Freshmen. He played a conspicuous part in the triumph over Massanutten. Derbyshire, quarter back, and Fouts, 205-pound full back, are other mainstays of the local team.

Virtually nothing is known here of the caliber of the Citadel Freshmen. According to reports, they will present a heavy line and a light back field. If this is true G. W. will have an edge in total weight. The Colonials average 179 in the line and 172 in the back field.

St. Albans Bows, 18-0, In Game at Richmond

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7.—St. Christopher subdued its traditional rival from the National Capital, St. Alban's, this afternoon, 18 to 0, to register its fifth straight football victory of the season. The local Saints, claiming their most powerful eleven in five years, resisted practically every line attack offered by their Washington opponents. A pass, Meachan to Cabell, who raced 10 yards over the goal line, accounted for the first touchdown in the second quarter. Lipscomb scored the next shortly after the second half got under way after a 30-yard end sweep by Meacham placed the Saints within the shadow of the goal. In the last quarter Meacham faked a double pass shot off tackle, dashed 50 yards straight down the sideline like a phantom in the dark and over the last thin line for the final touchdown.

St. Alban's threatened only once, that midway the fourth quarter. The visiting Saints at that time had the ball on the home team's 6-yard line, but an attempted pass over the goal on fourth down failed and the Richmonders took the ball. Fletcher, Croghill and Wheeler played bang-up ball for St. Alban's.

TECH NEARING TITLE, WESTERN IS ROUTED

for Tech's first touchdown by recovering a fumble on Western's 40-yard line shortly after the game started. Hatos got away for 15 yards through right tackle, then Sachs ran totally unmolested 25 yards to the touchdown on a spinner play that saw Western's team racing the wrong way. Gormley kicked the goal.

Sachs' 30-Yard Run Fails To Help Tech.

Sachs' 30-yard run to Western's 10-yard line again put the Red in trouble, but Tech was held and Webb kicked out well from behind his goal. Tech came right back with Hatos and Gormley plunging well and the ball rested on Western's 12-yard line at the close of the quarter.

Richman, substituting for Hatos, scored on the first play of the second quarter, through left tackle. Gormley kicked again. A drive from midfield later in the quarter saw Reichman tearing off plunges of 5 and 7 yards, ably augmented by Hatos and Gormley. Gormley put the ball across in a hard smash at center. Gormley missed the placement.

Tech was not through scoring in the second period. Edwards, Sachs and Reichman moved down the field after the kickoff, their way paved by the Tech's linemen's perfect blocking. Three rushes from midfield carried the ball to Western's 3-yard line, whence Reichman dragged two Western tacklers across for the touchdown. Gormley's kick barely cleared the bar.

Western Threatens For First Time.

Western threatened for the first time in the middle of the third period when Webb's kick from his own 30-yard line was fumbled by Meyer on Tech's 35. Three Western men made certain of the sovereignty over the ball. On the first play Amidon gained 8 yards on a pretty run around right end. But Western fumbled on the next play and Rhodes recovered for Tech as the quarter ended. Successive rushes brought the ball to Tech's 45-yard line. On the old spinner play Reichman cleared Western's line and eluded their secondary defense. The last 20 yards of his run saw no one near him. Gormley missed his placement.

Western tried the air throughout the last period, but could make no distinguishable gains. Tech's offensive work slackened visibly toward the end.

Alabama Risks Title Chance As Fla. Dedicates Stadium

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Down at Gainesville, Fla., where a massive new concrete gridiron stadium is to be dedicated, Alabama's Crimson Giants stake their Dixie championship aspirations against a raging band of Florida Alligators tomorrow.

Four teams—Alabama, Florida, Tulane, Georgia—yet have a chance to win the Southern title, and tomorrow's engagement will whittle the list down to three.

Alabama, with six consecutive victories in as many weeks, seems headed for its fourth Dixie championship in seven years, and is a heavy favorite. However, some observers point to Florida's stand against a powerful Georgia offense last week and believe the Alligators will surprise their followers with their game against the Tuscaloosa Tide.

Governors to See Battle.

Chief executives of both States will witness the game, which comes as the headline attraction of the twenty-fifth home-coming program at the University of Florida.

Only one other conference game has a bearing on the conference championship, and in this case Tulane, 1929 champions, expects little trouble from a courageous but crippled Auburn machine at New Orleans.

Georgia heads the intersectional charge with its tilt with New York University in New York. The Bulldogs are in their best shape since whipping Yale a month ago and carry high hopes of triumphing over the Violets.

Mexican Gridmen At Jackson.

Jackson, Miss., furnishes the site for the second invasion of the United States this year by the National University, of Mexico. The gridders from the Southern Republic, defeated by Louisiana College a month ago, tackle the Mississippi College Choctaws.

Kentucky was in poor shape for its battle with Duke at Durham. Coach Harry Gamage announced that but three regulars would start and that Kelly, star half back, would not play. Georgia Tech planned to offer a changed line-up for the game with Vanderbilt in Atlanta, which would include at least five Sophomores.

Other games between conference teams bring together Clemson, and Virginia Military; Louisiana State and Mississippi, Maryland and Washington and Lee, and Virginia and Virginia Polytechnic.

Three conference teams were scheduled against outside opponents. Sewanee was to meet Chattanooga. Tennessee expected a breather with Carson-Newman, and South Carolina has its annual stake battle with furman.

Six S. I. A. A. games are scheduled.

Casey, Groth, Robinson Star as Poly Frosh Win, 39-6.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 7.—V. P. I. freshman backs ran wild back of an aggressive line here this afternoon to trounce University of Virginia freshmen, 39 to 6. The Virginia yearlings fought on almost even terms in the first half, yielding one touchdown in the first quarter and another in the second, but wilted before the drives of Casey, Groth and Robinson in the final half. Virginia scored on a pass, Harris to Abramson, against V. P. I. substitutes in the final minute of play.

After a 20-yard advance to Virginia's 40-yard mark, Casey passed 30 yards to Groth for a touchdown soon after the kick-off. Groth kicked goal. Baird, triple threat star of the Cavalier yearlings, came back with long drives through V. P. I.'s defense in the second quarter, but the Goblets took the ball in midfield.

Casey-Robinson Make Big Gains.

Casey and Robinson swept to the 6-yard line in two plays and Groth drove through tackle to score. Hard drives by Casey, Groth and Robinson swept the Little Cavaliers off their feet to run up 20 points in the third quarter. Casey reversed his field and galloped 55 yards as the half opened and Groth added another score a moment later after returning Baird's punt to Virginia's 20-yard line. Casey shot through tackle and ripped the Cavaliers' secondary with a 40-yard scoring gallop late in the quarter. Robinson went through the line for V. P. I.'s final score early in the final period to end a steady advance of 60 yards.

Abramson, shifty Virginia half back, ran through the V. P. I. subs for consistent gains in the last quarter.

Va. Varsity and Frosh Hikers Beat St. John's

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 7.—Virginia's harriers registered a double victory here this afternoon defeating both the varsity and freshmen cross-country teams from St. John's College, Annapolis. The varsity score stood 25 to 31, while the yearlings barely nosed out the plebes, 27 to 28.

In the varsity race, "Billy" Lauck, formerly of Washington, was the first in, covering the course of over 5 miles in 26 minutes 51 1-5 seconds. Close on his heels was another Virginia runner, Capt. Holden. Russell and J. Dunleavy, of St. John's, ran third and fourth, and Percy and Pangel, of Virginia, fifth and sixth. Collazo, Hancock, Hampton and Johnson, all of St. John's finished next, with Weaver, Virginia, bringing up the rear.

St. John's runners were first and second in the freshmen race, Paul Dunleavy finishing in 15 minutes 21 4-5 seconds to set a new record for the course of nearly three miles. Gray sprinted at the finish to nose out Clarkson, Virginia. Peden and Rosalsky, Virginia, were fourth and fifth. Others finished in order named: Milito, St. John's; Holloway, and Manuta, Virginia; Orvis, White, Hall and Eastman, St. John's; and Orr and Silverman, Virginia.

BLUES MEET SHEPHERD TODAY

Gallaudet, Lacking Reserves, Confident of Winning.

DESPITE loss of several reserves, which reduces its personnel to nineteen players, Gallaudet today is highly hopeful of scoring its fourth victory of the season when it engages the Shepherd College eleven on the Kendall Green Field starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The Blues fortunately have their regular team intact and expect to be able to beat the West Virginians without drawing on their reserves. The talented Gallaudet back field of Hokanson, Zieske, Williams and Ringle is in fine fettle.

RAILS' LOSSES HEAD DECLINE IN STOCKS

B. & O. Hits Lowest Price in Five Years; All Indices Slump Sharply.

3,367,880 SHARES SOLD

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The bear market in stocks rumbled on without a halt today, crowding prices to the lowest average level since August, 1927.

Selling was most active in the last hour and there was almost no covering at the close. Sales totaled 3,367,880 shares, the largest volume in three weeks.

Quotations on seasoned investment rails crumbled severely and it was in this group that the largest losses occurred. Union Pacific was off 9 points net, Pere Marquette 10 and Gulf, Mobile & Northern preferred 8. Baltimore & Ohio touched the lowest price in five years and New York Central and Pennsylvania made four and three-year minimums respectively. This represented real liquidation in addition to pressure from the shorts who have been pushing the rails consistently for many months.

Source of Selling Obscure.

The sources of the selling remained obscure. Banking circles professed to be in ignorance of any piece of bad news that might be hanging over the market. It was suggested that some of the offerings were for foreign account, France in particular, but the quietness of European exchanges weakened the point of this interpretation.

It was said also that two or three large investment trusts were liquidating rails apparently on the theory that a few dividend rates were in danger. Whatever the origin, the decline ruled the market throughout the day, spreading to bonds which were sold freely to protect equity accounts. Commodities, however, were firm.

The average drop in 90 stocks was 4.5 points, which meant that the closing composite stood at 127.8. The average for 20 utilities, with a 7-point loss, was in new low ground for the year in common with the rails and industrials, but nevertheless remained about 8 points above the November, 1929, low. Twenty carrier shares finished with an average of 100.5 against the year's high of 141.6.

View by Bradstreet's.

The weekly reviews reported quiet in trade, pointing out that the passing of the fall peak had resulted in a letdown in wholesale buying. Bradstreet's said regular seasonal business hardly reached full proportions, "leaving the satisfaction of holiday needs and regular retail buying to furnish chief occupation until the closing month of the year is entered." Dun's observed that the few encouraging signs did not obscure "the lack of a broad trade revival."

Some comment was heard on an unofficial report that U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage schedule for last month would be relatively favorable, and that a small increase might be shown when the figures are published next Monday. In support of this view it was pointed out that October operations had declined and that buying had been somewhat larger than had been anticipated. October normally brings better bookings, but this is an abnormal year.

The day's new lows on the Stock Exchange aggregated slightly more than 250, or about 30 per cent of the number of issues traded during the session, and included virtually every important share with the exception of American Can and Woolworth. U. S. Steel, closing at 140, was the lowest since 1928, and was heavily sold at that figure, which represented a net decline of 3¾.

American Phone Off 3¼.

American Telephone put up some resistance at 190, but finally broke to 188¼, later rallying a point. It, too, had a net loss of 3¾. National Biscuit, Radio, Westinghouse, General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, American Can and du Pont dropped 1 to 4.

Three-point declines in the utilities were numerous and covered American Power & Light, Electric Power & Light and Consolidated Gas. Stone & Webster and North American broke 6; Public Service of New Jersey and American Water Works 4 and Peoples Gas 12. Of the specialties, Canada Dry, Case, Coco Cola and Eastman Kodak tumbled 4 to 6. Youngstown Sheet & Tube lost 7.

Gains in wheat were small. The firmness was based on large exports and reports that the rust was spreading in Argentina. Corn was also nominally higher, reflecting firm cables and small receipts. Cotton was up 55 to 75 cents net.

France's calls on her billion dollar balances abroad, because of a recent bank failure and increased economic unsettlement in that country, firmed the franc slightly. Foreign currencies generally were steady.

NEW LOWS OF 1930 SEEN AS BONDS SAG

Stock Price Declines Cause Speculators to Liquidate Investment Holdings.

FOREIGN SECTION MIXED

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Heavy selling orders for domestic corporate obligations, particularly railroad issues, precipitated the sharpest declines of the week in the bond market today, and traders had their busiest session by more than a fortnight.

The steady decline in share prices caused speculators to liquidate their investment holdings at concessions which in many instances were 1 to 3 points under the previous closing prices. The close found an extensive list of bonds at new lows for the year, including some legal issues.

The average price of 10 railroad bonds was off seven-tenths of a point and the average price level of 30 domestic bonds sagged four-tenths of a point, to 98.6 against a year's low of 98.4. United States Governments were the lone exception among domestic securities in the bond market, holding firm. Treasury 3¾s of 1940-43 and 1943-47 reached new highs for the year, while Liberty first 4¼s again equaled their 1930 peak price.

New 1930 Rail Issue Lows.

Both stock privilege and lien issues of carriers were under heavy pressure and losses ranged from 1 to 3 points. Among convertibles, Alleghany Corporation bonds of three issues were down from 1¾ to 2½. Atchison 4½s dipped 2 points, to 120, a new 1930 low. New 1930 lows also were reached by Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s, Rock Island 4½s, Erie convertible 4s A.

Among lien issues, Erie 5s of 1967 and 1975, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis 4½s C, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s reacted to new lows for the year. Seaboard Airline Refunding 4s sagged 1½ to a new 1930 low, following announcement security holders' committees had been organized to effect readjustments in the road's capital structure. Seaboard 4s of 1930 were down 1¾.

St. Paul 5s of 1975 and Adjustment 5s of 2000, Chicago & Northwestern general 4s, Rock Island 4½s A, Missouri Pacific General 4s and 5s F 1977, Nickel Plate 4½s C, and Southern Pacific 4½s (Oregon division) sagged a point or more each.

American Telephone Active.

American Telephone issues were in supply. American Telephone debenture 5s of 1965 reacted ¾ and the debenture 5s of 1960 were ¼ lower on large turnovers. The convertible 4½s yielded 4½ points. Colorado River Power & Light 4½s, Denver Gas & Electric 5s, Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, Utah Power & Light 5s and 5½s were in supply 1 to 2 points below the previous closing figures.

Consolidated Coal of Maryland 5s, Cuba Cane Products 6s, International Paper 6s and Colon Oil 6s reached new lows for the year, the latter on a 4-point drop. Pan-American Petroleum 6s dipped 12 in a thin market.

The trend among foreign bonds was mixed. Bolivian 8s soared 4 and closed 2½ net higher. Sao Paulo City 8s advanced 3. Principal European governments were steady to lower. British 5½s held at 105½, while German 5½s sagged ¾ and Italy 7s declined 1 point.

BANK DEBITS SLUMP, U. S. REPORT SHOWS

CHAIN-STORE SALES OFF

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Department of Commerce summary of domestic business conditions made public today reveals that for the week ended November 1 bank debits, outside New York City, were lower than both the preceding week and the corresponding period in 1929.

Bank loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks, it states, showed an increase over the previous week but were lower when contrasted with the week a year ago, while prices for representative stocks and bonds averaged higher than a week ago.

As compared with the week of November 2, 1929, bond prices were higher and those of stocks lower, while interest rates for both call and time money for the week ended November 1 showed no change from the week prior. Both rates were considerably lower than for the corresponding period last year.

Wholesale Prices Decline.

Wholesale prices indicated a fractional decline from the previous week, prices of red wheat, iron and steel showing slight losses although middling cotton at New York was higher than the preceding week. All wholesale prices were lower than last year, however.

The summary states that for the week ended October 25 increases over the preceding period occurred in the production of bituminous coal, petroleum, freight-car loadings, cattle and hog receipts, while there were decreases from the prior period in the output of steel ingots and lumber, and in the value of building contracts awarded.

Bank loans and discounts were greater and bond prices and the Federal Reserve ratio were higher for the week ended November 1 when compared with the comparative week in 1928.

Chain Store Sales Figures.

Twenty-eight chain store companies reporting results for the first 10 months of 1930 show aggregate sales of $1,456,314,791, against $1,476,780,-611 in the corresponding period of 1929, a decrease of 1.39 per cent.

These figures are revealed by a compilation by Merrill, Lynch & Co. and show further that sales of these companies for Octoer totaled $170,650,203, as compared with $181,614,482 for October, 1929, a decrease of 6.04 per cent. October sales increased 18.8 per cent over those of September, however, reflecting the usual seasonal gain.

Officials of Chevy Chase Dairy declined yesterday to discuss reports of possible acquisition of this local firm by National Dairy Products Co., which acquired Chestnut Farms Dairy, another local company, sometime ago. They said that if and when anything conclusive had been decided the information would be made public.

Dividend Is Declared By Radio Corporation

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Directors of the Radio Corporation of America today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the class "B" preferred stock and 87½ cents on the class "A" preferred, both payable January 1 to stock of record December 1.

Although officials of the corporation have intimated for some time that the regular dividends would be paid, there had been some concern in speculative circles because of weakness of the stock.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

Safeway Stores.

H. P. H.—Will you please give me your opinion of Safeway Stores 7 per cent preferred as a fairly conservative investment? Why does the 6 per cent preferred sell for nearly as much as the 7 per cent? Wish you would mention several preferred stocks of fair yield and investment merit.

Answer—In consideration of fact that stock, now selling at around $95 a share, may be bought to yield to the investor slightly in excess of 7 per cent, and that earnings for the issue over a long period of years have been largely in excess of dividend requirements, it can not be regarded as other than at least a fairly conservative investment. There is no apparent reason why the 6 per cent preferred stock should sell for nearly as much as the 7 per cent issue. The amounts of the two issues outstanding are practically the same, both have equal preference as to assets and dividends, and both are entitled to $110 per share in liquidation.

American Smelting & Refining second preferred, cumulative, yielding about 6 per cent; Bethlehem Steel cumulative preferred, yielding about 5½ per cent; General Motors cumulative preferred, yielding around 5.02 per cent, and Public Service of New Jersey cumulative preferred, yielding approximately 5.04 per cent, are all regarded as desirable investments.

International Printing Ink.

L. S. C.—Will you kindly give me information relative to International Printing Ink common as to earnings, prospects, &c.?

Answer—Company failed to cover preferred dividend requirement in first half of 1930, net income amounting to only $126,886, or $1.84 a $6 preferred share. In corresponding period of 1929 earnings for preferred were $16.86 a share and, for common, $3.54 a share.

Dividend on common, which had been increased from $2.50 to $3 annually, has been returned to the former rate. In consequence, stock looks less attractive as a speculative investment than hitherto.

National Acme; Nat. Cash Register.

S. B.—Please advise as to present and prospective earnings of National Acme and National Cash Register, and as to whether or not their annual dividends are safe.

Answer—If future dividends on these stocks are to be paid entirely out of earnings, then they are not to be considered safe on the basis of present and prospective revenues.

National Acme pays $1.50 annually. Earnings for six months ended with June were only 61 cents a share, while current estimates are that the amount to be earned for the full year will equal only $1 a share.

National Cash Register pays $4 yearly. Earnings for six months ended June 30, last, were only $1.42, while it is estimated that for the entire twelve months they will be only $3 per share.

United Railways, Baltimore.

T. S. W.—Kindly furnish me, through your interesting column, some information regarding United Railways & Electric of Baltimore.

Answer—The sharp drop in gross revenues continues despite higher fares received by the company. As a consequence, operating revenues for the first nine months this year declined 1½ per cent when compared with the same period of 1929. Efforts to pare operating expenses, however, have checked the shrinkage in profits somewhat, so that net income for the first three quarters of $329,610 compared with $294,410 last year.

Nevertheless, of late profits have gone on the down grade and little improvement appears in prospect. Consequently, the stock can not be recommended as a suitable investment for long-term holding.

Great Northern.

R. B. H.—I am a stockholder in the Great Northern and am writing for some information regarding earnings and an opinion.

Answer—Earnings this year are expected to be sufficient to cover the $5 annual dividend on the stock. While gross income during September declined 8.9 per cent, net operating income for the month increased by 10 per cent. The Great Northern in 1929 and 1928 earned in excess of $10 a share, so that this year's earnings must be regarded as subnormal. The stock may be regarded as among the high-grade investment rails.

Transamerica Corporation.

J. A. F.—Would you please give me an opinion as to the future possibilities of Transamerica Corporation and Commonwealth & Southern?

Answer—The Transamerica Corporation is one of the largest holders of bank stocks in the world and has very capable management. Dividends are $1.60 a year in addition to which 4 per cent in stock is paid. Recent selling of Transamerica has been due to the weakness of bank stocks in general.

It is estimated that the company, in the first six months of this year, earned approximately 67 cents a share on its outstanding stock. Considering the fact that the banking business should pick up with any improvement in industry, the stock may be regarded as having some attraction in view of the outlook and its strong banking sponsorship. Commonwealth & Southern pays dividends at the rate of 60 cents per annum and in view of its rather prominent position in the power field, the stock may be regarded as a desirable speculative investment for the small stockholder.

American Tel. & Tel. and Others.

W. S. R.—Out of the following list, which three would you advise as an investment with a speculative future and with not too great a risk: American Telephone and Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, United States Steel, International Business Machine, American Bank Note, Lehman Corporation? I bought 30 shares of Mergenthaler Linotype sometime ago at $108.25 and it is now around $97. How do you consider this stock?

Answer—American Telephone & Telegraph, Standard Oil of New Jersey and United States Steel are considered most attractive among the stocks named, both from an investment and a speculative viewpoint. In view of Mergenthaler Linotype's splendid record of dividends, both cash and stock, over a long period of years, and the fact that from regular dividends alone, irrespective of extras, the yield on the price at which you bought the stock is substantially in excess of 5 per cent, there is absolutely no occasion for worriment on your part, even though the stock has receded considerably in the market of late. In that issue you have a very high grade investment.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Cotton goods were in moderate demand today, buyers not being ready to pay advanced gray goods prices. Rayon in fine deniers was in better request. Silk houses will open several new lines of 100 denier rayon crepes for spring next week. Wool goods were in good spot request, but spring business was slow. Raw silk showed little change. Burlap markets were quiet.

The National Bank of Norway today reduced its discount rate from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent.

Raw silk futures closed irregular; sales, 370 bales. December, 223; March, 220; May, 219. Open market quotations (60-day basis) Shanghai steam extra B, 275; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 180; Japanese crack double extra, 255.

The Export Petroleum Association, Inc., announced today that it had canceled all of its export price schedules. The statement was issued by Gilbert Montague, vice president and general counsel, who declined to comment further, but it was believed in Wall street that it was due to the unsettled condition of the oil industry.

Directors of Standard Oil Co. (Kansas), today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable December 15, to stockholders of record November 22.

Arrangements have bene made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $226,000, a decrease of $14,000 from the previous sale.

In a week broken by election day, commercial failures in the United States totaled 489, compared with 402 defaults reported for the corresponding five days last year, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. Comparing further with the returns for the like period last year, increases were shown this week in each geographical section, notably in the South. With the larger aggregate of insolvencies, those with liabilities of more than $5,000 each numbered 304 this week, in sharp contrast with the 219 similar failures a year ago.

During October 3,291 freight cars were ordered from domestic makers, compared with 565 in September and 17,207 in October last year, Railway Age reports. Locomotives ordered totaled 7, against 25 in September and 125 in October, 1929. No passenger cars were ordered in October, whereas 62 were ordered in September and 51 in October of last year.

Adolph Lewisohn, president of the Tennessee Copper & Chemical Corporation, said that directors deemed it to the best interests of the company to change the name to Tennessee Corporation, which would be more suitable in view of the present scope of the company's business and more consistent with the gradual broadening of its activities as favorable opportunity presents. A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for December 2 to act on the proposal. Mr. Lewisohn added that during the present year the company has continued to earn profits well in excess of dividend requirements at the current rate of dividend. The regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share was declared.

John Morrell & Co., Inc., today announced a quarterly dividend of $1.10 a share, payable December 15 to stockholders of record November 22. This will be the eighth quarterly dividend since common stock of no par value was issued two years ago.

Net earnings of the First Security Corporation of Ogden, Utah, for the first nine months of 1930 equaled $9.53 a share on the class A and B stock, against $9.37 a share in the corresponding period of 1929. The company operates banks in Utah, Wyoming and Idaho.

MacMarr Stores, Inc., organized in 1929 to conduct a chain store business, reports net earnings of $329,294, equal to 24 cents a share of common in the September quarter. Earnings for the nine months totaled $949,820, the company reported, equal to 67 cents a share, which more than meets requirements, inasmuch as the payment of $1 a year on the common was started May 1, 1930.

The selling encountered on the advance of late last month in the cotton market here, continued with the more active months selling about 75 to 81 points below the recent high levels before the end of the week. March contracts, which had sold at 11.94, or approximately the 12-cent level, on October 28, broke to 11.16 on Thursday. Offerings then subsided and there were moderate rallies on covering during today's trading. A good part of the week's business has been attributed to evening up of accounts, which included considerable liquidation of December contracts. Much of the latter was in the way of switching from near to late months, which led to some widening of differences between the various positions. This, combined with the unsettled ruling of the stock market, no doubt contributed to the decline, and while trade buying was reported, it appeared to be largely on scale-down orders.

WORKER ENDS LIFE INSTANTLY AFTER BEING DISCHARGED

OTHER EMPLOYES SEE TRAGEDY IN OFFICE

Unable to Stop Man When He Snatches Revolver From Desk.

George Rosson, 31 years old, said to have lived on Fourth street near A street northeast, yesterday committed suicide by shooting himself in the head a few minutes after being told that his services would be needed no longer where he was employed.

Rosson, who has been employed as a bookkeeper by the National Hotel Supply Co., in Center Market, was said by police to have been told yesterday that he was dismissed and that it was the last day he would be needed.

Takes Gun From Desk.

"Well, I guess you won't be bothered with me much longer," the man is quoted as saying to Herbert L. Berry, a fellow bookkeeper, and before others in the office could prevent him Rosson walked to a desk, picked up a revolver and fired one shot into his head. He died instantly.

Rosson had been employed for the past eight years by the company, other workers say.

Lived in Capital 12 Years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nora A. Rosson; four sisters, Mrs. Ambler Rosson, of Washington; Mrs. M. H. Surface, of Auburn, Ill.; Mrs. T. F. Allen and Mrs. M. H. Dyson, both of Richmond, Va.; one brother, C. C. Rosson, of Columbus, Ohio, and his mother, Mrs. Nannie Rosson, of Woodville, Va.

He had lived in Washington for the past twelve years, coming here from Woodville. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Girl Is Given 360 Days In Theft of Dresses

Charged with stealing three dresses, Dorothy E. Herr, 19 years old, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Isaac R. Hitt to serve 360 days in jail.

The girl is alleged to have stolen the clothing from Mrs. Mary G. Pickett. Police allege that the girl, Mrs. Pickett's daughter and another girl, recently escaped from the District Training School for Women. The other two girls still are at liberty, it was stated.

Man Ties Self to Rails; Now Under Observation

Blossie B. Duvall, 38 years old, is being held for observation at Gallinger Hospital, where he was taken yesterday after he had tied himself to a sidetrack near the Union Station so that he would "not fall off the earth when it fell into space."

Employes of the yard found the man a few minutes before a passenger train was scheduled to pass over the place where he had tied himself. Terminal police sent him to the Sixth Precinct Station. He was then taken to Gallinger.

GREAT LAKES FLYING NEARING EXPANSION

AMPHIBIANS ARE IN USE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Rivalry for transportation preference on the shores and waters of the historic Great Lakes has been intensified in the air.

Announcement has just been made by the Thompson Aeronautical Co. that it will extend its operations across Lake Michigan to Milwaukee.

This expansion, intended for next spring, will bring the Thompson people into direct competition with the Kohler Aviation Corporation, which now carries passengers, express and mail across the lake to Grand Rapids and Detroit.

It has been persistently rumored that the Thompson company contemplated operating between Milwaukee and Chicago and from Cleveland to Buffalo and New York, with all routes over water. The company officials, however, have not given strength to these reports.

While competition among overland airplane companies for business of Great Lakes cities has been active, overwater routes have been exclusive.

The Milwaukee - Muskegon - Grand Rapids air link is important in fast transportation between the Eastern seaboard and the Northwest. At Milwaukee there are both rail and air connections to St. Paul, Minneapolis and the Pacific Northwest. Grand Rapids ties in with Eastern trunk lines.

The Thompson Co. was first on the Great Lakes with airplanes, establishing its Detroit-Cleveland route in May, 1929. Amphibians have been used. The company uses Cyclone-powered Keystone Loening, flying from downtown Detroit to Cleveland in 55 minutes.

The Kohler Co. established its Lake Michigan route in September, 1929. It uses Keystone Loening amphibians, also powered with Wright Cyclones. At both Milwaukee and Grand Rapids planes pull up within a few hundred feet of connecting trains.

Tar Kettle Blaze Causes Alarm.

A burning tar kettle on the roof of the District building last night caused a fire alarm to be turned in, four engines and two trucks responding, together with Fire Chief George S. Watson. There was no damage. The tar kettles are being used in repairing the roof.

ART COMMISSIONERS VIEW BRIDGE LIGHTS

Plan to Cut Illumination on Arlington Memorial Is Under Study.

OTHER PLANS APPROVED

Following a day meeting at which a number of projects were approved or taken under consideration, the Fine Arts Commission last night viewed the lighting effects on the Arlington Memorial Bridge, also making an inspection of the arrangement of sculptural figures to be placed along the top of that bridge.

The reason for last night's visit was to test the new plan of lighting which calls for a reduction in the power of the illumination in order not to conflict with present lighting effects on the Lincoln Memorial at one end of the bridge.

Plans for a pretentious exhibition of architecture and landscape architecture here in 1932 in connection with the George Washington bicentennial celebration were discussed by the commission yesterday with Representative Sol Bloom and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, who are in charge of arranging the program for the bicentennial.

Library Annex Approved.

Such an exhibit would be part of the fine arts display already provided in the 1932 plans. Representatives of the Mural Painters Society, the National Sculpture Society, the American Institute of Architects and the American Society of Landscape Architects conferred with members of the commission on this exhibition.

The commission gave its tentative approval to plans for an annex to the Library of Congress to be erected in the rear of the main structure. Parsons & Wilson, of Washington, are architects on the building while Alexander Trowbridge is consulting architect.

The preliminary design for the Samuel Gompers and American Federation of Labor Memorial, by Robert Aitken, of New York, was approved. This memorial will be erected at Eleventh street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, near the labor headquarters where Mr. Gompers presided for so many years.

Memorial Site Changed.

Approval of a change in site for the Navy and Marine Memorial was given. This memorial will be located at the southeast end of Columbia Island instead of in East Potomac Park, as originally planned.

Under a decision by the commission, upon the suggestion of Col. Grant, the Rawlins statue, now located near Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, will be moved to Rawlins square, south of the Interior Department Building at Eighteenth and E streets northwest.

John L. Mauran, of St. Louis, new member of the commission, attended his first meeting yesterday.

Police Say "Preserves" Were Rum; Woman Held

Beatrice Johnson, 28 years old, colored, of L street, near First street northwest, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergt. R. J. Cox as she entered an apartment house on Eighteenth street near G street northwest, carrying three half-gallon jars of alleged liquor.

The officer was entering the apartment house when he noticed the colored woman. He asked the nature of the contents of the jars. "Preserves," said the woman. She is being held at the Third Precinct Station in default of $500 bond.

'Santa Clause Lane' To Be Lengthened

Will Extend on Fourteenth Street, From Fairmont to Meridian Place.

"Santa Claus Lane," on Fourteenth street northwest, will be two blocks longer this year than it was last year, according to a decision reached by the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association yesterday at a luncheon meeting.

The lane will extend from Fairmont street to Meridian place, instead of just to Monroe street, as it did last year.

Plans are in charge of a general committee appointed by B. A. Levitan, president of the Business Men's Association, with William F. Dismer as general chairman.

RAMMING OF POLICE CAR LAID TO STUDENT

SEIZED IN CLASSROOM

Francis P. Gunn, 25-year-old Georgetown University dental student, of Thirty-seventh street near T street northwest, was released by police at the Second Precinct station last night on $500 bond after he was arrested yesterday and charges with defacing, stealing, and destroying property of the Metropolitan Police Department. He will be arraigned in Police Court this morning.

The student, was arrested by Policemen J. P. Norris and W. W. Whittimore, who said that he had collided with a parked police car, breaking a powerful riot light, tearing out the ignition wiring system on the automobile, and taking an official tag after smashing it off the machine.

The policemen said that the damage was done when they parked their car on Fourteenth street near M street northwest shortly after midnight Thursday morning, when they were investigating a complaint. They were told by bystanders, they said, that a man entered a roadster parked immediately behind the police car and crashed into their car when he attempted to start the machine.

Gunn was said to have admitted taking the articles from the police car and dismantling it when he was arrested in a classroom of the dental school on Reservoir road northwest. The police arrested him in the presence of nearly a hundred of his fellow students after tracing him through license numbers on his car.

WHISKERS HOLDING LIVES OF TWO MEN

GO TO SUPREME COURT

Special to The Washington Post.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 7.—One Negro's whiskers hold the fate of two men appealing to the Supreme Court from death sentences imposed for murder in New Hanover County.

The whiskers are Lancey Sterling's and so is one of the lives at stake. The other doomed Negro is George Davis, convicted with Sterling for the murder of John Brown, white storekeeper, of Wilmington, last June 4.

The doomed men's attorneys are contending that Sterling's whiskers provide a reversible error on the part of Judge E. H. Cranmer, who tried the case in New Hanover Superior Court. The question raised was:

"Did the lower court commit reversible error in admitting over defendant's objection opinion evidence of a nonexpert witness on a material issue, to wit: That one of the defendants appeared to him "as the face of a man who had taken a hasty shave with a dull razor in cold water."

The question is pertinent to the extent that two lives may depend on it.

The only eyewitness to the murder was Brown's sister, Georgiana. She said a tall Negro with a heavy beard shot her brother and that he was accompanied by a short Negro. Later Miss Brown identified Sterling, without whiskers, as the tall man and Davis as the other.

At the trial Sterling produced evidence that he had been shaved by a barber shortly before the time of the murder and that at the time of the killing he was on his way to an illicit still near Wilmington.

The defendant's attorneys contend the evidence about the whiskers was inferential enough to "conjure up in the minds of the jurors a picture of the defendant Sterling frantically shaving off the earmarks of his guilt and glancing fearfully around and behind him in the process."

The attorneys also claim reversible error for Judge Cranmer's failure to define robbery and felony in his charge on preconcert. There was no evidence that Davis was guilty other than as an accomplice.

CITY HEADS HASTEN MUNICIPAL WORK AS AID TO UNEMPLOYED

Construction Jobs, Totaling $500,000, Are to Be Started Soon.

STORM-WATER SEWER CONTRACTS AWARDED

Bids to Be Advertised for Thee School Projects of $362,000.

Speeding up the municipal development program in order to provide jobs for relief of the unemployed, the District Commissioners yesterday approved immediate construction work amounting to more than $500,000.

Of this total, about $362,000 is to be spent for erection of three new school projects, $124,000 on eight sewer jobs, and $15,000 for purchase of land for reconstruction of the Monroe stret viaduct over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The Commissioners instructed Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the engineer department, to advertise at once for bids for construction of the three school jobs, which will include the Horace Mann School, one as yet unnamed at Northampton street and Broad Branch road, and the third a new athletic field for Western High School.

For the Horace Mann School there remains available an unalloted balance of $135,669.83, of which the Commissioners estimate the actual cost of the new building will use up about $132,500. This building is to be located on the south side of Newark street, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets northwest.

Other Two School Job Costs.

The estimated cost of the Northampton street school is likewise $132,500, for which an unallotted balance of $135,670.11 is available. The Commissioners approved expenditure of the entire unallotted balance of $96,867.66 for the Western High field.

The land purchased for the railroad viaduct is a plot of approximately 11,107 square feet at 3900 Ninth street northwest, bought from its owners through R. Marbury Stamp and Co.

A contract was awarded to W. A. Pate, jr., for construction of the Rhode Island avenue replacement sewer, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest, the total estimated cost of the work being $5,123.23, covering materials, inspection and repaving in addition to the contractor's bid of $3,156.20.

Mr. Pate also was awarded a $1,963.50 contract for construction of the new Grant street service sewer between Forty-second and Forty-fourth streets northeast, the total cost of which is estimated at $2,446.17, including materials, inspection and repaving.

$91,795 Sewer Project.

Contract for the Blagden avenue stormwater sewer, in the vicinity of Blagden avenue and Sixteenth street, was let to the Peter d'Adamo Construction Co. for $85,980.54, making the total estimated cost of this job $91,795.54.

Two sewer contracts also were awarded to the Warren F. Brenzier Co. One for $1,855 calls for construction of a replacement sewer on M street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, the total estimated cost of which is placed at $2,775.77. The other award was on a $6,553 bid for construction of the Thirteenth street and Riggs road replacement sewers, in the vicinity of Thirteenth street and Riggs road northwest, the total estimated cost being $8,796.36.

The Corson & Gruman Co., which has done considerable wor for the Highway Department hertofore but none for the Sanitary Department, received a contract for $2,503.37 for construction of a service swer in the vicinity of Linwodi place and Fifty-sixth streets northeast, the total estimated cost being $3,109.63.

To the M. Cain Co., Inc., was awarded a contract for $3,292 for construction of a replacement sewer in the vicinity of Seventh and G streets southwest, the total cost being estimated at $4,343.87. The eighth and last sewer contract went to the J. B. McCrary Co., which bid $6,002.30 for construction of a combined-system sewer in Thirtieth street northwest between O and Q streets, the total estimated cost of this job being $6,291.15.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shoemaker, 60 years old, of 4850 Forty-second street northwest, is in a serious condition at Georgetown Hospital after being knocked down by an automobile at Wisconsin avenue and Ellicott street northwest yesterday at noon. She sustained several broken ribs, a lacerated scalp and a possible fracture of the skull.

William N. MacDonald, 23, living in Bethesda, Md., the driver of the car which struck the woman, was arrested by Fourteenth Precinct police and charged with reckless driving, but was later released to appear in Police Court this morning.

Mrs. Lillian Bowie Dies.

Mrs. Lillian W. Bowie, 57 years old, of 4124 Eighth street northwest, who had been in ill health, according to police, died suddenly yesterday afternoon before a physician could be summoned by relatives. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of death from natural causes.

RECORDS OF POLICE SHOW 40 PER CENT DECREASE IN CRIME

MANY CASES LACKING IN MERIT, AIDS AVER

Policy Adopted by Rover's Assistants Necessitates Proper Complaint.

Washington is one of the Nation's most law-abiding cities, or else one of the best-policed cities.

This was revealed last night when Police Court records, released to the public, showed that, during the last two years, major crimes in the District of Columbia have declined at least 40 per cent.

While numbers of persons have been arrested and charged with offenses which come under the United States branch of Police Court, only 6,445 such cases have been subject to arraignment this year as compared to 10,405 and 9,888 for the first ten months of 1928 and 1929, respectively.

Attaches of the Police Court say that the decline is entirely due to the fact that Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, chief prosecutor in Police Court, and Assistant United States Attorney John R. Fitzpatrick, one of his chief aids, have decided that many cases brought into the United States branch of the court lack merit.

New Policy Explained.

Mr. Hart explained that under a new policy warrants are issued in Police Court, from the United States attorney's office, only where there is corroborative evidence to support the complaint.

Mr. Fitzpatrick declared that at least five-sixths of the persons who seek warrants are refused. He pointed out that even one-third of the police who seek warrants are denied.

The new policy, according to Mr. Hart and Mr. Fitzpatrick, has resulted in a higher percentage of convictions. This is true not only in the general run of cases, but in liquor cases as well, it was said.

Mr. Hart pointed out that there has been no falling off in liquor cases, showing figures to prove that so far this year 1,401 prohibition cases have been admitted by his office compared with 1,281 during the same period of 1929.

Statement by Fitzpatrick.

One of the principal reasons for the decline pointed out by Mr. Fitzpatrick, who is in charge of other cases, is that the disorderly house section of the code is not being so flagrantly violated. Figures show that so far this year there have been only 85 such cases, compared with 293 and 323 for corresponding periods of 1929 and 1928, respectively. Mr. Fitzpatrick stated he now issues such warrants only when there is concrete proof of violations.

Mr. Hart pointed out that more than 300 cases involving the prohibition act have been disposed of during the past month. He also stressed that while his docket showed 681 cases in July, the present docket shows only 9 cases which antedate October 1.

Mr. Fitzpatrick also announced that during the past month his office disposed of 465 cases, and that only 77 were carried over to the November term.

Barber Is Chosen For Power Survey

Selection of Expert at $50 Per Day Approved by Commissioners.

Appointment of Earl H. Barber to conduct a survey of power needs of the District Government was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners. Mr. Barber was recommended by Maj. D. A. Davison, assistant engineer commissioner. He will be paid $50 a day.

The power survey was directed to be made by Congress at its last session and an appropriation of $25,000 was provided to defray the expenses. Its purpose is to determine the needs of the Government for electric power and the fairness of the present rate. The Government now buys its power from the Potomac Electric Power Co. at a rate which was fixed by law several years ago.

Mr. Barber has been connected with the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission. He is expected to begin the work in the near future.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RADIO AFTER TEN YEARS.

IT IS ten years since the first radio broadcast. And now every tenth person you meet is a radio announcer.

* * * *

Think of the change. Ten years ago if a man didn't care to hear a naval band, a symphony orchestra, a campaign speech, a terrible tenor or a football game he could avoid them by staying home!

* * * *

One decade ago he could get some sleep regardless of anything President Hoover, Walter Damrosch, Graham McNamee, General Motors, Lowell Thomas, the General Electric Co., Roxy's Gang or Uncle Don might do. Ten short years ago he could spend an entire day without having anybody ask him "What did you think of Amos 'n' Andy last night?"

* * * *

In 1920 a man didn't have to know the correct time if he didn't care to. He could remain in ignorance of what the wood instruments, if any, were denoting half-way through Rubinstein's Kamennoi-Ostrow, Opus 10, if he so desired, and if he didn't care for blackface comedians he could avoid them by getting into his carpet slippers and throwing himself on the couch for the night.

* * * *

He didn't have to go about the house regarding each piece of mahogany furniture in the suspicion that it might burst into a song, an after-dinner speech, a vaudeville act or a discourse on yeast cakes any minute.

* * * *

Graham McNamee was an unknown soloist who never announced base hits at football games. Roxy hadn't become an incurable sentimentalist. Floyd Gibbons hadn't thought there was any such salary as $5,000 a week. Kingfish and Madame Queen were unheard of and American family life wasn't being enlivened most of the time by disputes over outside aerials.

* * * *

THAT was the era when the child pianist got a break around the house, when father could occasionally hold the family interest by doing a new card trick and when mother could break into "Just a Song at Twilight" without arousing any bitterness.

* * * *

Ten years and we have become a Nation of dial twisters. The loud speaker has become a symbol of American life. Our slogan is "Kindly stand by for your local announcer!"

* * * *

Every other doorway has a sign, "Radio Supplies," over it, four out of five people are radio entertainers, and home, sweet home, has become a combination lyceum, stadium, circus, vaudeville stage, concert hall, museum and madhouse.

* * * *

Ten years ago we heard from King George only by cable. Today he talks to us in pajamas.

* * * *

Ten years ago the average man established contact with the world's great personages only through rotogravure pictures. Today he can lie in his bathtub and be addressed by George Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells and the Prince of Wales.

* * * *

There is no more privacy. Radio has come to stay. And a great many of us wouldn't mind it so much if the Common would pay a dividend.

WELL, THAT'S SETTLED.

MR. JOHN J. RASKOB denounces as libelous the Republican insinuations that he sold stocks short. This definitely identifies the one man who didn't.

The Ku Klux Klan, nine million strong five years ago, is now reported down to thirty-five thousand members. Well, why not look under the hood and see what's the trouble?

The German flying boat Do-X is on its way to America and upon its arrival somebody may explain why the ship was named after a laundry mark.

From reports made by spectators at the major college football games so far this season it is evident that a feature of every modern stadium should be an alcoholic ward.

Elmer Twitchell met the rise to 10 cents in the price of Sunday newspapers by demanding to know what trade-in allowance they'd make on his old one.

What's become of the old-fashioned fellow who used to talk about depression-proof stocks?

DO YOU REMEMBER——

Away back when there was one person in every community who had been hurt in a folding bed?

Earl Carroll spoke from the pulpit of a Boston church the other day and now possibly the pastor would like to come down to New York and do a little song and dance with America's most beautiful girls.

CAPITAL MAN FOUND LYING IN ROCK CREEK

$70 IN PURSE IS MISSING

Roland S. Reutlinger, 41 years old, who was found in Rock Creek early yesterday morning, is in Georgetown Hospital suffering from exposure. Mr. Reutlinger is vice president and treasurer of the Hesaick Automatic Stoker Co.

He was found by Julian Smith, 25 years old, of 4601 Forty-seventh street northwest, and his brother, Aitcheson, who saw Reutlinger lying in the creek at the ford near Branch road and Blagden avenue northwest. His automobile was near by.

Mr. Reutlinger told Detective Sergt. H. E. Brodie that a faintness overcame him as he was driving through the ford.

For several weeks he has had a cold, he said, and he believed that this caused a weak spell. He had arrived at the Washington Airport from Philadelphia about 8 o'clock last night and went to Union Station, where he had parked his automobile the night before.

He did not know whether he had lost $70 which was missing from his clothing. When found his empty wallet was in his pocket. None of his jewelry was missing.

He was en route to his home at 4701 Connecticut avenue when the weakness overcame him.

Motorist Expires After Driving Car

Miner J. Benjamin Seized With Illness While in Machine.

Seized by a sudden attack of illness while driving his automobile on Q street near Tenth street northwest, yesterday afternoon, Miner J. Benjamin, 45 years old, 1104 Trinidad avenue northeast, slumped unconscious in the seat and died an hour later at Garfield Hospital. The exact cause of his death had not been determined by physicians last night.

Police who investigated the case reported that Mr. Benjamin earlier in the day had had a tooth extracted at one of the city's clinics, while on several occasions recently he had been treated by a physician for indigestion. Whether or not these ailments had anything to do with his death, the report did not state.

Mr. Banjamin's condition was noticed by Henry M. Dye, of Arlington, Va., as he drove past the former's machine. He removed the ailing man to the hospital in his car.

ELECTROLYSIS USED TO PRODUCE INDIUM

Rarest of Metals Has Nearly Ten Times the Value of Platinum.

POUND IS WORTH $7,000

Cleveland, Nov. 7 (A.P.) — The world's first pound of indium, one of the rarest of metals, has been made here.

It is worth $7,000—nearly ten times the value of platinum.

Indium is a white, lustrous metal, very soft and ductile, slightly heavier than zinc, and it can be melted with a match.

There have been no uses for indium, because hitherto it was a laboratory curiosity, so expensive that it was scarcely worth experiment.

Used for Experiments.

Discovery at the Grasselli Chemical Co. of a method of getting it electrically puts the metal within reach of experiment.

The indium is obtained by electrolysis, whereby a current runs through a solution containing indium causes it to segregate and deposit. Success depends upon very accurate temperature controls and use of the proper kinds of electrodes.

Whether this discovery will unlock nature's storehouse of indium, according to a report to the American Electro-Chemical Society by Dr. L. R. Westbrook, depends on whether its uses prove important enough to justify the price.

Westbrook believes commercial uses will be discovered, and says: "Like many other rare metals which only a few years ago were mere laboratory or scientific curiosities, and which today have a definite field of usefulness, indium undoubtedly has a definite field of application."

Patented in Britain.

There already is a British patent covering its use as a bearing metal. It has been mixed with another metal, gallium, to produce an alloy for fused quartz thermometers measuring temperatures up to about 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit.

The first pound of indium came from many carloads of crude ores. Dr. Westbrook says it is rather widely distributed in minute amounts in the majority of zinc blends, in some tin ores, pyrites, siderites and tungsten.

Prodigal Youth Convinced High School Is Not So Bad

Joseph Hallett, 17, Who Disappeared More Than Year Ago Returns to Mother Unexpectedly, Saying He Is Ready to Resume Studies.

Reappearing yesterday as unexpectedly as he had disappeared more than a year ago, 17-year-old Joseph Hallet will next week resume his studies at the Western High School, convinced that school isn't such a bad place after all.

Following disagreements with his instructors, young Hallet ran away from his home at 1116 Abbey place northeast, in May, 1929. Upon the request of his mother, Mrs. Marry A. Hallett, police of several cities searched for him in vain for several months. His mother was nearly prostrated when a letter arrived last November telling her that he was well and happy in New York. For the last year, however, she had no word from him.

Yesterday he came home, penitent and suffering from a severe cold. He announced his eagerness to return to school, and his mother was more than willing to grant his request.

Young Hallett was too ill to narrate his adventures, but admitted that he had "had a tough time." For a while he was employed as a clerk in a country club in White Plains, N. Y., but on other occasions he knew the pinch of hunger and the loneliness that gripe a stranger in teeming New York.

His mother had moved since he left, and he spent several hours yesterday in locating her new address.

HENRY ASKS TRIAL IN F. H. SMITH CASE BE MADE SEPARATE

Indicted With Three Other Former Officials, He Pleads Not Guilty.

PLOT TO EMBEZZLE FUNDS IS CHARGED

Judge, Considering Motion, Says Defendants' Counsel Should Be Heard.

Pleading not guilty, Samuel J. Henry, former president of the F. H. Smith Co., yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to sever the indictment in which he and three other former officials of the firm are charged with conspiracy to embezzle funds and destroy records.

Henry is jointly named with G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the company, and John H. Edwards, jr., and C. Elbert Anadale, former vice presidents.

The former president's petition was presented to Justice William Hitz by Attorney Harry S. Barger immediately after Henry had entered his plea. He is the first of the group to plead, that step having been delayed by pleas in abatement to the indictment which recently were settled. Justice William Hitz took the matter under consideration after the Government, through Special Assistant to the Attorney General Nugent Dodds and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw had consented to the severance, which means that, if granted, Henry will be tried alone.

Other Counsel Unsurprised.

Wilton J. Lambert, who, with Frank G. Raichle and R. H. Yeatman, appears as counsel for the other three defendants, expressed no surprise when advised that the severance had been requested. Mr. Lambert did not indicate whether such a move would be opposed, although Justice Hitz, in taking the motion under consideration, intimated that he believed counsel for the other defendants should be heard.

Move Follows Split.

Whether the request for severance means that Henry will be available as a Government witness could not be learned. It was understood, however, that the move is an aftermath of the recent split between Pitts and Henry.

Henry informed the court that "it is his fixed purpose and determination" at the proper time and place "to do whatever he can to right and redress any and all wrongs and injuries that may have been suffered by any persons or concerns by reason of any act or acts" charged in the indictment. He states emphatically that he does not believe he will receive a fair trial if forced to go before a jury with the other defendants.

Reasons Are Cited.

Henry asserts that if tried jointly "the evidence which will be taken and received against him will fall short of establishing the criminal knowledge and intent as to him." He also asserts that if the proof shows criminal liability on the part of the other defendants, or any of them, "it will establish nothing more than neglect or failure on his part to know and ascertain the doing by the other defendants of the things" charged in the indictment.

Companies Will Resign As Depository, They Say

Answering three suits, the F. H. Smith Co. and the Smith Selling Co. yesterday advised the District of Columbia Supreme Court that they were willing to resign as depository and paying agent, respectively, on bonds sold through the former.

Through Theodore L. Weed, present president of the F. H. Smith Co. and the Smith Selling Co., the two companies admit indictment against former officials, but declare they are no longer a District of Columbia firm but are domiciled in Delaware. The admissions were contained in answers to three suits filed by a committee of bondholders headed by George E. Roosevelt.

Jury to Condemn Land Is Sworn In by Court

The jury to condemn land in square 340, bounded by Tenth, Eleventh and C streets and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was sworn in yesterday in District Supreme Court before Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat. The property is needed in the Federal building development program.

Members of the jury are: Enoch J. Vann, J. Benton Webb, William O. Strauss, Paul Easby-Smith and Clyde J. Nichols. The chief justice ordered Marshal Edgar C. Snyder to take the jury to view the property on November 24. Hearing on the matter is scheduled for December 1.

Double Jeopardy Law Saves Unmuzzled Dog

The law of double jeopardy yesterday saved a German shepherd dog which for the second time in two months faced a judge in Police Court on a charge of roaming the streets without a muzzle.

"Mitzie," the property of Anthony Fiore, of 5108 Connecticut avenue northwest, was brought into court yesterday by neighbors, who charged that the animal had been wandering about without the required muzzle. Judge Ralph E. Given looked into the records and discovered that the complaint dealt with the same days involved in a previous trial, in which similar charges were preferred. Judge Given, in dismissing the case, declared "neither man nor dog can be placed in jeopardy on two different occasions."
